

WOULD MAKE WAR BETWEEN THE EQUITY AND NON-PARTISAN FARMERS

A considerable number of the newspapers of the state have been secretly...

In the howl raised by the gang press of the state against the Non-Partisan League we have failed to note where one single word has been said against...

The same newspapers that are now belaboring the Nonpartisan organization fought the Equity organization until they were whipped by events.

Let it be said how many months at the editor of the Fargo Couriers-News has been daily assailing the Nonpartisan league?

Another good reason which will draw support to the league's candidates is the announced intention of retrenchment in the matter of state taxation and curtailing the present extravagant cost of running expenses of the state...

From now until June 28, voters who are not members of the league will have to inform themselves whether the Nonpartisan candidates are of the right kind or not...

Another peace expert has issued a report on the supply of petroleum in the United States today by the federal commission in a report on it.

With vehement earnestness in favor of the right of farmers to organize themselves for political purposes. Most sensible people will admit that they—the farmers—have just as much right to seek to promote affairs to their welfare as any other class of people.

All the information about this was in the Sentinel-Courier was a short notice stating that Auditor Rearick had gone to Bismarck on business matters. That ended it.

Why have we not been informed about the policy of our governor in regard to the Banking system?

Why have we not been told of the danger that the railroad and express companies might get our parcel post service reduced to a mere trifle?

Why has the paper said nothing about the sham and fraudulence of the Hollis rural credits bill which is now being acted upon?

And finally, permit me to ask why the region has not been enlightened by this mysterious, so-called regional reserve bank...

How can men of the commercial industry be so blindfolded as not to see that present conditions of affairs are hurting him as well as the farmer.

But many are now awakening and begin to see. Many a newspaper of our state is in sympathy with our organization, The Nonpartisan League, and we will hope a better day will dawn.

Thanking the editor and readers for their patience and contribution, I must apologize for this error in the paper of the 11th inst. Yours truly, H. Westley

PRESS COMMENT ON LEAGUE Will the Farmers Stick?

Parshall Leader—It is evident that farmers started something when they organized the Nonpartisan league. The big question is, can they finish; will they stick?

no doubt in his own estimation—valuable space for the agitation of Lynn Frazier for the gubernatorial nomination who is a lifelong advocate of prohibition?

we can't help but smile when we see the list of speakers named to address the farmers on the occasion, at a farmers' picnic.

Worst of the A.C., or J. Frazier, some one not quite so standard as speakers says that he has no confidence in it. We must keep in mind that it is a farmers' picnic, and we are going to talk it along that line.

Potatoes For Sale You are going to need potatoes

Again and again and again the farmers have sent lawyers, bankers and merchants to the state legislature to secure legislation they wanted only to get—well, we can't mention what they got, except that it is odiferous.

That the officers of the "league" have failed to do toward its members are for the members themselves to take up with such officers and not for outsiders to condemn until some report of irregularity has been made or proven.
