WOMEN CAN VOTE

The laws of the state of North Dakota provide that women can vote for school officers. All women who have the interests of the country schools at heart—and that means all farm women—should make use of this right in this election.

The future of the country schools is at stake in the contest between N. C. Macdonald, the Nonpartisan League candidate, and his opponent, a man of city school training and affiliations.

Mr. Macdonald, the farmers' candidate for the position of state superintendent of public instruction, is famous all over the country as an authority on rural schools. In his position of inspector of rural, graded and consolidated schools, Mr. Macdonald has already worked a revolution in improving the country schools of the state.

The country schools need improving. They need more help and supervision from the state. Mr. Macdonald has devoted his life to the interests of the rural community and the rural school and he is ambitious to make North Dakota's country schools the best in the union. It is for that reason he wants to be elected state superintendent.

Every farmer's vote should be cast for Mr. Macdonald and every farmer's wife should cast a vote for him.

Wives of members of the Nonpartisan League should insist that their husbands take them to the polls on election day. Let all the family of voting age vote for Macdonald for school superintendent.

Hurrah for Dunn County

Where crops have never failed;—Where flax is yielding 20 bushels an acre;—Where the 1916 crops alone will pay the entire purchase price of the farm;—Where the entire country is underlaid with the best lignite coal in the world and where flowing wells are found at 112 feet. If you wish to buy a farm on easy terms or if you have money to invest, NOW IS THE TIME for you to investigate this land of plenty which abounds with rain and sunshine, happiness and prosperity.
