BELGRADE, MINN., June 7, '95.

Editor Willmar Tribune:

We promised to prescribe a remedy for bettering the condition of the people, and although we are very busy every day dishing out good things cheap to the crowds that come to Belgrade, we are like Washington with the hatchet—we can not promise a thing and not do it. So here it is:

People must not eat or drink anything that a horse or an ox would not touch.

Do you think a colt or a calf could be educated to eat tobacco or snuff, or drink alcohol so as to lose his head? Oh no! They use too much sense. We have been told that the monkey will fall into vicious habits, and it is not particularly strange when we consider that they are nearest to the human race. (See Darwin.)

Beware of political office seekers that want to smile on you and shake your hand a week before election, and after they are elected will laugh because there were fools enough to run them into office, where they can barter away the birthright and happiness of the non-suspecting voters and their families. Beware of the corrupt Political Press, controlled by selfish individuals who, in most cases, sneaked into power by paying their way, or otherwise manipulated the wires. By all means do a little thinking for yourselves.

To those that sell their votes for a glass of liquor we would say: You are selling too much. You should get a whole barrel and make real hogs of yourselves, as they are not considered citizens in this country and consequently not responsible for how they vote.

We forgot to point out in our answer two weeks ago the dangers in the credit system. Credit has been most terribly misused by a large majority of the people, from the jobber down to the day laborer. We are inclined to believe that next to strong drink, which costs the people the surprising sum of $3000 every minute, figuring night and day the year around, the misuse of the credit system had more to do with the panic of '93 and '94 than any other cause. Take our advice, we know whereof we speak. Look out for mortgages first, last and all the time. Do not ask credit from anyone unless you absolutely must have it, and when you obligate yourself, make it good if it breaks a leg. This would force interest down, and mortgages out of style and help to make you more of a free and independent American citizen. In conclusion allow us to say, should our educational work get tangled, we know the editor of the Tribune is able, and we trust willing to give it a finishing touch, and we would ask all those living near enough to Belgrade to read our brand new add on the back upper corner of this paper. This is more in our line and we claim to know a little about how to run a store to the best advantage for both the people and ourselves.

Yours truly,

T. J. ANDERSON & CO.

KERKHOVEN NEWS.

Miss Bertha Hall, who has been teaching school at this place, left for Mazeppa, Minn., on Thursday.

Sir John Carlin invites the public to try his ice cold temperance drinks.

P. E. Nelson, "the Kerkhoven Genius," is applying the full power of his mental faculties in inventing a steam engine which (he claims) will be an improvement to those in use in economizing steam. He has invented a device for sinking well pump points which works like a charm. We understand he is applying for patent. Hope it will prove to be a fortune to him.

Ingvald Eliassen, who died last Tuesday in typhoid fever, was buried in Kerkhoven cemetery Friday. The funeral was held in the Norwegian Synod church, Rev. D. C. Jordahl officiating.

Jno. A. Peterson and family, who some time ago drove to Minneapolis to visit friends and relatives, returned last week. John reports a pleasant drive and a good time.

J. E. Pulver, cashier of Bank of Kerkhoven, left for Chicago last Tuesday. We understand he is looking up a good safe and fixtures for his new bank, which will be erected in the near future.

A Gospel convention was in session the last part of last week in West Salem. Quite a number of ministers were present, among them Rev. Gulbrandson, who has been in China three years on a mission.

St John Items

Joseph Magnuson was in Willmar last week taking State Examinations.

J. B. Martinson, a Seminary student, visited at Mathias Hanson's Sunday.

S. P. Johnson & R. B. Hamblen was in Willmar Decoration Day.

John Rasmuson is plowing down yellow flowers on section 24.

The Young People's Political and Literary society held their pany, won everybody's respect and high esteem. In short, we cannot say too much good for him and we all wish him health, happiness and success in the future.

Mrs. L. Rodlun with her daughter Miss Mabel, from Willmar, were attending the convention here last week.

DOVRE ITEMS.

News has been scarce in this vicinity.

Aaron Carlson has returned from West Superior after a short stay.

Charles Monson of New London, accompanied by Mr. Segerstrom of Kerkhoven, talked McCormick binders to the farmers in this vicinity this week.

Arne Larsen is slowly recovering from his inflamed throat and thinks he will soon be able to resume the duties of his harness shop at New London.

C. S. Channing, the energetic pedagogue of district No. 70, and John and Wesley Swenson took in the Willmar High School commencement exercises last Monday evening.

A number of the young people from here spent Sunday at Diamond Lake and vicinity. A grand time is reported.

Messrs. J. E. Nelson, C. Olson and Rognie Bros. of Willmar drove through this town Sunday of last week on their way to the Lake Andrew picnic.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Thorsen from town of Willmar spent Monday and Tuesday at the home of Lars Arneson.

BELGRADE BUDGET.

From the Belgrade Sun:

T. J. Anderson has the high board fence about his lot near the mill completed, and the front in his new store building neatly painted.

We learned this week that diphtheria had broken out in the family of the late Capt. Hogan of Spring Valley and that a quarantine had been established. The number of cases in the premises did not hear. Ed not being in the house at the time was let out of the quarantine and is attending to the store as usual.

Andrew Anderson has dissolved partnership with C. Meyer, in the general blacksmith business, and has associated himself with Dick Skimland in the same business just across the street. The change was made last Friday and the new firm is now in line to transact all kinds of work in their respective line at short notice.

The stockholders of the Belgrade Farmers Elevator company met at this place on Wednesday and attended to the satisfactory adjustment of their business. We were informed by some of the officers of the company that they were highly pleased with the outcome of the last year's business, as a good dividend had been declared from the year's surplus.

Andrew Jacobson, while at New London on Monday, had one of his mules killed by an engine on the Great Northern track at that place. Mr. Jacobson had gone to the depot in that village for some freight, and while loading the same the engine came along, striking the mule and killing him instantly. He brought back the remaining mule of the span, and on Tuesday took another team and went after his load.

Mr. Gustaf Levorson and Miss Anna Baalson, of North Fork, were united in the holy bonds of wedlock at the home of the bride's parents on Wednesday.

St John Items

Joseph Magnuson was in Willmar last week taking State Examinations.

J. B. Martinson, a Seminary student, visited at Mathias Hanson's Sunday.

S. P. Johnson & R. B. Hamblen was in Willmar Decoration Day.

John Rasmuson is plowing down yellow flowers on section 24.

The Young People's Political and Literary society held their last regular meeting in the school house of District No. 80 last Saturday evening. We regret that those interesting, entertaining and instructive debates have ceased to exist. Too bad. We hope it has not ceased to exist forever.

Peder Sorenson has left for Baker county, where he intends to work all summer.

Number of young people gathered at Nels Nelson's place last Sunday evening. A pleasant time is reported.

Prof. O. A. Ferring, of the Glenwood Academy, visited at Ole J. Pederson's and John Nelson's last Sunday.

Jacob Jacobson and Gregor Johnson, from Irving, visited at Ole J. Pederson's last week.

Student Simondson closed his Norwegian school last Friday of Districts No. 80 and No. 63.

B. E. Greenfield and Bendick Erickson were at Lake Lillian a few days last week.

David Davidson and his brother from Swift county visited with his sister, Mrs. Evan Erickson, last Saturday and Sunday.

A school picnic is proposed to be held at Ellef Birkeland's the 24th inst., for the benefit of the Norwegian school.

Send all fire claims against railroad companies and usury cases to C. E. Burke, No. 1015 N. Y. Life Building, Minneapolis. Best references.

No charge unless successful.

Mossberg's Wonderful Healer is absolutely the only remedy on the market guaranteed to cure barb wire cuts and sores of all kinds on horses and other animals. Heals without leaving a scar. Try it.

TO THE PUBLIC.

I wish to announce to my patrons that I have opened a new store in the building south of the post office, where I will be pleased to see you all, and as many new friends as possible. I am ready to sell you flour, feed, etc., at rock bottom prices.

Respectfully,

Erik P. Sundfors.

KANDIYOHI KNOTS.

The Young People's Society of the Lutheran church has changed the time for their picnic to the 24th of June.

Miss Alice Norman has come home from Minneapolis.

Mr. C. Johnson, who lately graduated from the Gustavus Adolphus College at St. Peter, has gone to Duluth, after a short stay at his home here.

Rev. S. A. Lindholm from Moorhead has accepted the call of the Swedish Lutheran church here and will locate here about July 14th.

Mr. Jonas Enblom recently met with the misfortune of breaking a leg.

Mr. Andrew Hoglund died last Saturday night. The funeral will occur Tuesday [to-day] at one o'clock.

KANDIYOHAN.

Oliver Mathias returned from the Twin cities Thursday evening, with his brother Moline, who has been attending the Deaf and Dumb Institute at Faribault.

AXEL ELFSTRUM,
Vol. Obs.

The new fire-bell has arrived but has as yet not been placed in position.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Miller returned from their trip to Iowa last Friday.

Miss Nettie Espelien, of Norway Lake, is now a resident of Willmar. We hope she will be well pleased with her new location.

The Torbett Concert Co. presented their excellent program with numerous encores last Friday evening at the opera house. The excellence and popularity of their music quite carried away the audience at times.

Andrew Hedin of Lake Andrew reports a loss of two head of stock by lightning Sunday morning. One was his property and the other belonged to his father, Lars Hedin.

George August Leopold and Miss Emma Theiling presented themselves before the Clerk of Court yesterday, were given their permit, pledged their troth and went their way rejoicing, man and wife.

Last Sunday was a bad one on the lake dwellers, as many cottages were half full of water, which did not make it altogether a pleasant affair for the inhabitants.

The Willmar creamery took in 7000 pounds of milk yesterday, and they expect that their daily receipts will increase to 10000 pounds per day shortly.

Messrs. C. Westergaard and P. C. Bertelson of Belgrade were in town yesterday. The former is taking the contract for building a residence for Mr. Bertelson of this place on the vacant lots east of Lundquist & Co.'s store.

Samuel Olson, who has just been admitted to the bar by the Supreme Court at St. Paul, having completed a course of Law at the State University, and previously having completed the Commercial course of the Willmar Business College, being the youngest graduate of that course ever completed at that institution. He also holds a diploma of the teachers course of the Willmar Seminary. His is now having a convenient office fixed up in the mammoth furnishing house of L. C. Olson, where he intends to commence the practice of law. Sam is a worker and success is sure to follow his untiring efforts.

The first lot died, some of them in 36 hours, with unmistakable typhoid symptoms, while not one of the second lot was affected. It was observed, however, that when the rural animals began to breathe the infected air they began at once to show signs of weakness and lassitude. They lost their liveliness and grew glassy eyed and though they continued to eat they became poor in flesh.

There is a grim significance in these facts which should teach us the lesson that good sanitation is a prime necessity, not only as a defense against direct assaults of germ disease, but also against the lowering of the physical powers which opens the system not only to the bacillus, but to all the other foes which lie in wait to destroy life.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Flesh Food.

The late Frank Buckland, the naturalist, maintained that all flesh was eatable. He sought to give proof of this statement by tasting the meat of all the animals, reptiles and birds which he encountered in his career. He found the flesh of the rattlesnake delicate and succulent. That of the blacksnake was not so good. Lizards were unexceptionable, while panther chops were not equal to those of pork, with which they had an affinity. The finest eating was furnished by elephants' feet baked in a hole in the ground, according to the mode in vogue in Africa.

In New Zealand, where grasshoppers are more than abundant, they are used for food by Europeans. This may suggest to the people of Kansas and adjacent states an agreeable change in the monotonous diet to which they are accustomed. Grasshoppers are pronounced a great delicacy in New Zealand when prepared according to the following formula: One bushel of the insects is immersed for two hours in one-half gallon of pork brine. The insects are then boiled in the liquid for 20 minutes; then thoroughly rinsed in warm water and placed in an oven to become crisp. When cold, the heads are removed, and they are ready to be eaten. The flavor is said to resemble that of shrimp.—New York Sun.

A Patient Waiter.

The other morning an English lady who desired to take the portrait of a ragged but "picturesque" Moor whom she met on the street got him in position, but found upon examination that she had neglected to bring an important part of her kodak. So she ran back to the hotel, two blocks away. She there met some dear friends from London who had just arrived, so she forgot all about the Moor and the kodak. After dinner, 8 o'clock, she remembered, so with an escort she hurried to the spot. There the old Moor sat, just as she had left him, facing the instrument.

"Long time take picture," he said. He had been there since 10 o'clock a. m. of that day, but the business of sitting still suited him. The English lady of course gave him a penny to go and buy a farm with.—Algiers Cor. Chicago Post.

Fate.

"It seems," sadly mused the postage stamp that had been bought at the corner drug store, "that I am driven from pillar to post."—Cincinnati Tribune.

1500, March 1, (O. S.) Francis de Taxis appointed "capitaine et maitre de nos postes" by Philip, regent of the Netherlands, at Ghent. It is a matter of record that the Taxis posts carried English mails from Calais to Vienna and Rome before 1500.

1504, Jan. 18, (O. S.) Francis de Taxis instructed to establish regular posts between Brussels and the capitals of Germany, France and Spain, with pay at 12,000 livres per annum.

1507, England had a "magister postarum," appointed by Henry VII. Possibly it was Sir Brian Tuke, who served until 1545.

1516, Nov. 12, Charles V concluded a contract with Francis and Baptist de Taxis requiring them, for 11,000 gold ducats, to maintain posts between Brussels, the capitals of Germany, France and Spain and Naples. Every postoffice was to have two horses. The Brussels-Paris route was to be covered in 36 hours, Brussels-Naples in 14 days.—Postal Record.
