

A WILLMAR INVENTOR.

Lars Halvorson, the wellknown jeweler and machinist, has succeeded in inventing a gasoline engine of great merit. The publishers of the TRIBUNE believe in patronizing home industry, and gave Mr. Halvorson a chance to put in his engine to run their presses. We have now tested it sufficiently to satisfy us that it is a first class engine. So far as we can learn, the engine possesses several advantages over any other in the market. It uses less gasoline per horse-power than any other. This is by virtue of a peculiarly constructed valve in which the gasoline vapor explodes. The engine runs very smoothly and develops more power than was expected. We believe that Mr. Halvorson has an invention of great value. We congratulate Mr. Halvorson on his success. It is the result of a long study of the subject coupled with true inventive genius. We invite Willmar people to come up and see the little thing work. Its neatness and simplicity will surprise you. And Willmar should be proud of the skill and untiring perseverance of Mr. Halvorson. We are sure that such a cheap motor power, estimated at from 1 1/2 to 2 cents per horse power per hour, will be in demand everywhere in shops, and on the farm. Come in and see the little wonder of the age.

How would it be for Willmar capital to come to the front and assist in establishing a plant for the manufacturing of the engines on a large scale. This would add a big industry to our city, and something, by the way, that should stay here. Inventions of far less apparent utility than Mr. Halvorson's cheap motor gasoline engine have made many a town famous.

We believe there is a great future for it, and Willmar should reap the honor and profit.

DIED:

ASPINWALL—Mrs. Tinnie, wife of N. P. Aspinwall, of Harrison, last Saturday morning, at the residence of A. O. Sather at Willmar, of cancer of the stomach, at an age of about forty years.

The deceased was taken to Willmar last week, and an attempt was made by the physicians to save her life by an operation, but it failed and death came to relieve the sufferer as above stated. Mrs. Aspinwall leaves in life her husband and five children, to bitterly mourn her sad departure. They have the sympathy of all in their affliction. The funeral occurred Sunday afternoon at Harrison. Services were held at the stricken home by Revs. C. H. Johnson of this place and Handyside of Harrison. The interment took place in the Harrison cemetery. A very large number of friends paid their last respects to the departed by attending the obsequies. The funeral procession numbered 53 carriages.

Suppose a farmer takes a sack of wheat and an ordinary checker board and sits down, just for the want of something better to do, and undertakes to put a grain of wheat on the first square, two on the next, four on the third, sixteen on the fourth, etc., how many grains would be used before the sixty-four squares were filled? It does not seem possible, but a Kansas City mathematician figured it out the other day at 9,223,466,654 bushels, allowing one million grains to the bushel, or as much grain as the United States would produce in 18,446 years.
