ON THE RUN.

Goldbugs Believe Discretion the Better Part of Valor.

The people's party men of the county have been subjected to lots of abuse from the gold papers and others because they were determined not to turn their county convention into the tail-end of a republican rally last Wednesday evening. By coincidence or purposely, Congressman McCleary was billed for Willmar for the evening of the same day the people's party county convention was in session. The populist committee had secured Prof. T. J. Caton, of Minneapolis to address their convention, and set to work to try and arrange for a joint discussion between the two speakers of the two parties. Both speakers were talented men and well conversant with the subjects in issue, and it was supposed that members of all parties, desirous of learning the truth, would be pleased to be given an opportunity to hear both sides presented. But the republicans of Willmar could not see it in that light. They had arranged for a "strictly republican" rally and would under no consideration entertain the idea of being forced to listen to the other side part of the time. On the Saturday previous the Bryan & Lind Club sent the challenge to the Republican Club. A reply was received Monday declining to accept, on the grounds that time was too short to consult with McCleary. The Bryan & Lind Club then wired McCleary in order that this loop-hole for escape be closed. The message sent read as follows: "Will you debate Caton here Wednesday? Wire your wishes at our expense."

(Signed) John T. Oros, Sec'y Bryan & Lind Club.
Mr. McCleary's congressional dignity prompted him no doubt to regard this message with contempt, for no reply was received, although on his arrival to Willmar Mr. McCleary acknowledged the receipt of the message Monday evening. When the convention was called to order Wednesday, a resolution published elsewhere was passed, asking that a debate be arranged and a committee was appointed to present the same to the republican committee. The committee finally received the following civil answer:

Republican meeting, under the auspices of the Republican party, and the speaker will be Hon. J. T. McCleary. C. A. BIRCH.

Having thus been unsuccessful in arranging for a joint discussion, it was decided that a meeting be held at the Court House before adjourning the convention in the evening. Posters were printed reading as follows:

TO-NIGHT.
Come and hear the "joint debate" between Prof. T. J. Caton, of Mpls. and Hon. J. T. McCleary in print. Before the People's Party convention now in session at the courthouse, the speech to begin soon after eight o'clock. We have pleaded, begged, resolved, with and urged the Republican speaker and the parties having charge of his meeting to allow our Silver Knight to meet him in person. But for reasons best known to themselves only, they refuse a joint discussion, and we shall go it alone. Republican voters, if you are right, why are your speakers afraid of joint discussion? Prof. Caton will this evening reply to McCleary's Minneapolis speech of last Saturday Eve. P. P. Committee.

The crowd that assembled at the court house was immense, considering that nob and nor parade assisted in gathering the people. The court house hall was packed with voters, and Prof. Caton made a splendid speech, and subjected McCleary's arguments to a thorough analysis. Between four and five hundred voters were present and listened attentively. It is doubtful whether the big aggregation which assembled at the Opera House under the glamor and show purchased by Republican campaign money if culled down would have shown many more voters than those who tread the way through the dark streets to the court house. The silver men feel very much pleased with the results of the day.

What they call tramp in United States and in Ontario, they call beggars or queenux in the province of Quebec—but if you wish to witness a real gentleman tramp of refinement and education who will continually cause you to laugh or grin, you should witness Jule Walters' creation of the vagabond which is said to be far above the Dusty Rhodes type of itinerants. Mr. Walters will be seen in this city in his comedy-room "Side

Tracked" in this characterization at the Willmar Opera House Thursday evening Oct. 8

A robbery took place in the railroad yard north of Feirings place Saturday at noon. Two strangers were assaulted by two men and one was badly hurt by a blow from a coupling pin. The robbers secured about $60. The robbers were arrested later and gave their names as Hines and Brown. The hearing takes place to-morrow before Justice Otkerness. Hines has before been sent up to Stillwater from this county for a term of two years.

"Side Tracked."

Lovers of intelligent humor who witness the farcical drama "Side Tracked" on its presentation at the Willmar Opera House Thursday evening Oct. 8, will no doubt enjoy the amusing scenes and incidents that befall a tramp, a character which Jule Walters the star is said to act with rare comic power, while no expense has been spared to make each scene of the play a series of stage pictures. Aside from the comedy work furnished by Mr. Walters the other comedy characters harmoniously assist in developing humorous incidents in the thread of the story. The scenic effects promise to be both numerous and impressive and "Side Tracked" will no doubt receive a hearty welcome on its presentation here.
