HOUSE CLEANING TIME.

Father, dear father, come home with me now.

For ma has some carpets to beat. She's got all the furniture out in the street. The stove must come down and be put in the shed.

And the yard must be cleaned for some grass.

For it's time to clean house and the devil's to pay.

And the front windows need some new glass.

Father, dear father, come home with me now.

And bring some Bologna or cheese; It's most 12 o'clock and there's nothing to eat.

I'm so hungry I'm weak in the knees. All the dinner we'll have will be cold scraps and such.

And we'll have to eat standing up, too. For the table and all are in the back yard.

Oh, I wish that house cleaning was through.

Father, dear father, come home with me now.

For ma is as mad as a Turk. She says that you're only a lazy old thing. And she's going to put you to work. There's painting to do and paper to hang. And the windows and casing to scrub.

For it's house cleaning time and you've got to come home and revel in soap suds and cold grub.

RAILROAD NEWS.

Engineer Mike Cleary is running on the Watertown line.

Clem Baldwin will fire the pile driver engine this summer.

Conductor Barrett's caboose was destroyed by fire a few days ago.

One of the pile drivers left today on the Sioux Falls division. It was in charge of Luke Lentowen.

George Emerson, formerly round house foreman at Glasgow, Mont., has taken the position of general foreman at Barnesville.

Chas. Wittkop came up Saturday night with Engineer Watson. Charlie has been firing a switch engine in the St. Paul yards lately.

A. McDonald went down to St. Paul Wednesday morning to get his uniform and will come out soon as a full-fledged brakeman on 3 and 4.—Breck-enridge Telegram.

F. A. Hart, a Great Northern brakeman, was instantly killed at Sauk Centre last week while switching. His foot caught on something on the top of a car over which he was running and he fell on the track the cars passing over him.

While making a coupling at Herman Saturday night, Frank Donaldson had his left hand caught and the thumb taken off, besides bruising his hand badly. He is now laid up at Herman and has the sympathy of many friends.—Breck-enridge Telegram.

C. W. Thompson, who was injured last fall while in the employ of the Great Northern and had to have a leg amputated, has commenced suit against the company, placing his damages at $25,000. His claim is that a step on the box car he was climbing gave away and he was thereby thrown under the wheels.

While switching in the yard here Friday evening the engine on an east-going freight pulled the whole end off of a box car loaded with wheat and in the neighborhood of seventy bushels of that cereal were scattered over the track. The car was an old and rotten one and the accident was clearly no fault of the train crew.—Herman Enterprise.

Our old friend, Mr. Mikkelsen took us out for a drive Saturday afternoon and greatly interested us by taking us through the cold storage and packing house lately erected by the firm Mikkelsen & Skoog, of this city. Mr. Mikkelsen acquired a fine piece of property a mile west of town about a year ago, some twenty acres, and has since been busily engaged in erecting a model killing and cold storage plant on the higher portion of the ground. The balance of the ground is used for a range for the animals purchased for killing purposes. The building is a well-built structure, with walls of bone dry lumber and consisting of several airtight thicknesses. The carcasses of animals are hung on hooks which are fastened to trucks that run on rails fastened into the ceiling. These rails run from the killing room into the cold storage rooms and are connected by switches to rails in these rooms so that a carcass may be hung in any part of the room desired. The carcass is run first into a cooling room, where the animal heat is drawn off and from there into the cold storage room proper where it is stored until needed in the market. This room will hold a carload of dressed beef. The beef is cured in about three weeks time, when good fat meat will become best suited for eating. These rooms are kept cool by an immense ice room above, where about 30 tons of ice are stored. Connected with the building is the ice house from which the ice room is replenished as often as required. In the basement is the hide room, where the hides are pickled in a large vat, which will hold over $500 worth of hides. The hides are dropped into this room through a chute from the killing room. The erection of this plant has been a large expense, but Mr. Mikkelsen believes that the best is none too good for Willmar, and is bound to give the patrons of his shop the best obtainable.

Sherlock Again.

"Ah," said Sherlock Holmes, sitting down on the corner of the editor's desk, "I see you have just received a story from a young woman in a lawyer's office."

"How can you tell?" asked the editor. "Can you recognize the typewriting?"

"No. Don't you see, the string is tied in a regulation true love knot? That is the young woman end of it. And instead of ribbon she has used red tape."

Her Trust in Signs.

An efficient but illiterate domestic servant was brought into serious but happily not fatal danger by her undue confidence in the deductive system of reasoning. This woman, being unable to read, had long been accustomed to discriminate between the different varieties of canned vegetables which her employer supplied not by the names printed on the labels, but by the pictures which they bore. This plan served well enough for kitchen needs, and it was only when she tried to combine it with her belief in the homeopathic doctrine of like cures like that trouble resulted. The woman suffered from rheumatism, and one rainy day, when her aches were especially severe, she came across a bottle labeled with a few written words and a print of skull and crossbones. Immediately she reasoned out that the bottle contained a medicine for complaining bones, and she proceeded to take a heroic dose of its contents. Two doctors and a stomach pump saved the woman's life, but she no longer sees unity of design in the universe, and her trust in logic is gone forever.—New York Times.

Paper Underclothing.

The Japanese are making underclothing of their finely crimped or grained paper.

After the paper has been cut to a pattern the different parts are sewed together and hemmed, and the places where the buttonholes are to be formed are strengthened with calico or linen. The stuff is very strong, and at the same time very flexible. After a garment has been worn a few hours it will interfere with the transpiration of the body no more than do garments made of fabric.

The stuff is not sized, nor is it impermeable. After becoming wet the paper is difficult to tear. When an endeavor is made to tear it by hand, it presents almost as much resistance as the thin skin used for making gloves.—London Answers.
