Thumbs and Temper. "By her thumb ye shall know her" is a guide to the young man who contemplates matrimony and yet is doubtful how the chains of wedlock will be turned out a termanag't? He can learn readily, say the modern ages, and by the folding of her thumbs. He should take her to church and watch her closely. When she crosses her hands pliously he should note if she folds her right thumb over her left, or vice versa. If the left goes over the right she has a dominating mind, and he will be walking a chalk line when he's hers. If the right goes over the left she will be a docile, uncomplaining mate who acknowledges the superiority of the masculine mind.—New York Press.

The farmers of this community are now busy working on the road, and it is hoped that each farmer does his best for the improvement of our public roads. We should not fall to bear in mind that good roads are not only a source of comfort and pleasure in traveling, but they save wear and tear on horses and vehicles, which should be considered by our farmers a very important thing. And not that alone, but lessens the expense of bringing our farm products to market. We can therefore plainly see that good roads add a great deal to the money value of the land in a community.

A MYSTERIOUS CASE

Supposed Remains of Former Lake Andraw President are Found in Nebraska.

About ten or twelve years ago Hans Halvorson, brother of John and Ole Halvorson of Norway Lake, went to Nebraska, where he resided about two years, working for a farmer, about half way between Franklyn and Bloomington, and at the end of two years he disappeared and nothing has been heard of him since. Mr. Halvorson resided in this county a number of years, making his home with his brother, John Halvorson. He owned a farm near West Lake, but before leaving for Nebraska he transferred this property to a sister. He was a man who never spent money foolishly, as all the money he had taken up was just for clothes, and at the time he disappeared it is thought that he had some five or six hundred dollars coming. A diligent search was made but no trace of him dead or alive could be found, until some time last week a skeleton of a man was found about two or three miles from the place where Halvorson had worked. When questioned at the time of the disappearance, in regard to what he knew of Halvorson, the farmer stated that he had taken an ax and left the place, but the report now comes out that the last seen of him was while at work around the place doing the evening chores. It seems the farmer had never kept an account of the amount of money Halvorson had taken up, and a settlement has never been made. About a month after Halvorson disappeared, a farmer was murdered near that place. His body has never been found, but his wife and son are now serving a life sentence in the Nebraska state prison for the deed. The relatives of Halvorson in this vicinity were informed in regard to the finding of the skeleton and Ole and Bennie Halvorson, a brother and nephew of Hans, started last Monday for Nebraska to investigate. The only way they think they can identify the remains, is that Halvorson had very sound strong teeth, and a full set, and this description corresponds exactly with that of the skeleton. The only doubt there can be now, is that it may be the skeleton of the man who was murdered by his wife and son.—New London Times.
