Buys O. P. Rice's Stand.

A. O. Borgan, who recently retired as a member of the J. C. Strand Co., last Thursday bought the O. P. Rice confectionery on Third street. Mr. Rice opened the store in June, 1907, and since then it has enjoyed a steadily increasing patronage. The Tribune joins the many friends of the new proprietor in wishing him the best kind of success in his new place of business.

OLLIE'S GAME OF BASE BALL

A Card Game to Delight the "Fans" and Still Harmless to the Umpire.

Ollie Anderson, Willmar's well known baseball player-umpire-brakeman, has now also added unto himself the title of inventor. For a number of years interested persons have racked their brains trying to invent some sort of a card game to be used as a substitute when the real game is out of season, but nothing as exciting as the "real thing" came of it till Mr. Anderson introduced his game. He first "demonstrated" the scheme to some of his friends, and they became so enthusiastic at once that they offered to pay any price for a pack. Later he had the game patented, and in a short time he intends to have it manufactured on a large scale. It is possible that Mr. Anderson may decide to make Willmar a distributing center for his cards. The Marshall Reporter has the following to say about the new game:

"Ollie Anderson, the great base ball man, of Willmar, was here the first of the week 'demonstrating' his new game of base ball. He got a number of local fans playing Monday night and came very near not getting his game back at all, so interested did they become. The game can be played by Sunday school boys or on the 'green table,' and it contains every thrill of a real base ball game, except throwing pop bottles at the umpire. The better you understand the real game, the better you can play. The game is played with specially labeled cards, which move the players on the diamond and determine the score. You may think you have a good score cinched, when the other fellow will get in a home run and score all your men for himself, or put your side out on a double play. Any ball player can play the game. Immediately and games frequently run tie up to fifteen innings. Mr. Anderson has gotten up but one game to try out, but it looks like a small fortune to him, if he goes ahead and pushes it. We can safely promise that every other ball player in Marshall will purchase one for a starter, at least, on the strength of the demonstration given here."

The Immense School Fund.

State Auditor Iverson claims that the state of Minnesota now has the largest school fund of any state in the union. The school fund now totals $20,500,000. In addition to this amount the school fund will own the proceeds of the sale of about 2,000,000 acres of school lands, of which 35,000 acres are in the iron ore district. On these lands there is a great deal of standing pine and hard woods, which are increasing in value each year. Mr. Iverson estimates that when these holdings are all disposed of the school fund will amount to at least $120,000,000, a fine showing for the cause of education for which the coming generations will no doubt be grateful.

C. N. Frye has resumed his work as telegrapher at the local freight depot after a three months' layoff.

Sells Out and Goes Abroad.

G. T. Hegtvold, who for the past nine years has been working for the Associated Meat Markets in this city, resigned his position last week. He left the first of the week for an extended trip thru Nebraska and Wisconsin, after which he will go to Norway, where he will visit his parents, who reside in Telemarken, and also a number of relatives and friends.

Mr. Hegtvold came to this country about thirty years ago. At first he lived in Pope county, but later he moved to North Dakota, where he resided till coming here. Being a prudent man, he invested a part of his earnings in real estate, securing a third interest in the old Nestet farm, as well as buying from Erick Holt the building in which the city market is located. Before leaving, he disposed of his farm stock to J. W. Ostlund, and the building to C. Ackerman. Mr. Hegtvold has not as yet decided upon his future plans, but it is probable that he will return to this part of the country after his visit with the old folks.

No Better Place Anywhere.

Some of the other aspirants are trying to make trouble for Willmar in the securing of her inebriate farm, envy more than anything promoting their actions. They would gladly have taken the gift had it gone their way. If such an institution is desirable anywhere, we know of no better place than the one selected, nor none where the poor unfortunates would be freer from temptation. The surroundings are healthy and attractive and the prices paid are not exorbitant. —Benson Times.

Sells Span of Blooded Mares.

P. J. Haley sold a pair of matched chestnut Percheron mares to Robert Hemphill, Centerville, S. D., last Friday, the consideration being $600. The team was shipped the same evening. They were a fine span of registered animals.

Among Our Neighbors.

A number of farmers have organized to build a telephone line from Kerkhoveen to Murdock.

The hoops on the water tank at Echo burst during the cold spell, causing the tank to fall to pieces and leaving the village without any fire protection.

Wanted—by Clara City young ladies, a number of gentlemen to get up a sleighing party or two. The moonlight nights are ideal, so are the roads, but the young men here are so awfully slow. For further particulars write the Herald.

An exchange says that the fish in the New London mill dam do not find the water to their liking; that they are crowding the flume and the banks in an effort to get out, and that last week 5000 pickerel were speared,—it being out of season for fish stories notwithstanding.

Breckenridge citizens have evidently grown weary of factional city elections for they are now trying to get together and agree upon a ticket that will meet with general approval, "in order to avoid bitterness and disruption, and to further in harmony the interests of the city."

Last week finished the ice harvest from Green Lake. The Great Northern railroad shipped 898 cars to different towns along the line and 48 commercial cars were shipped by local parties. The state board of health is closing out the use of waters from small sloughs and in the near future Green Lake will undoubtedly have to furnish twice the amount of ice that is now being taken from it.—Green Lake Breeze.

St. Peter has made a draft for the new franchise to be granted its telephone company. It provides for a ten year franchise, for which the city is to receive $200 per year during the first five years and $400 per year during the last five. In addition, 12 phones shall be furnished the city free of charge. The upper four feet of the telephone poles in certain districts are to be at the disposal of the city for electric lighting purposes.

Early Friday morning of last week a man by the name of Ward, who was rooming at the Hotel Wilkin, accidentally fell down stairs and sustained injuries from which he died a few hours later at St. Francis hospital. The man has been working on the ice gang and had been here only a few days. About 5:30 in the morning, after calling other members of the crew, he was thought to have missed his footing and fell from the second floor to the first. He had no known relatives and no one even knew where his home had been, so he was buried at the expense of the county.—Wilkin Co. Gazette.

The Browns Valley Telephone company will soon be organized with a capital of $50,000. A $4000 exchange is to be built, the necessary stock for it having been subscribed in less time than it takes to tell the tale. In the meantime the Minnesota Central is putting on a bold front and is trying hard to induce its former subscribers to remain and use their phones, and despite the fact that a joint notice for discontinuance of service after Jan. 31 was filed by 103 phone renters, the company has made no efforts to state editorial fraternity.

The papers they publish each have a MESSAGE of importance and worth to their readers on each day of publication. The columns in those newspapers are instructive and edifying, and the laborious efforts of their editors are well rewarded with genuine, businesslike patronage and support. Such papers are a source of pride to our exchange table.—Reville County Free Press.

The citizens of Breckenridge have at last started an agitation for pure water. For years they have been drinking water pumped in from Otter Tail river and for years they have suffered from typhoid epidemics as a consequence. During the month of January alone 19 cases of the disease developed, one of which proved fatal. The Wilkin County Gazette takes the city to task for the carelessness, may even in indifferent manner in which it has treated the situation and urges every citizen to help bring about the needed improvement. Little has been said about the prevalence of the disease, "for fear it would hurt the city," but the Gazette shows that the fact of the city's rotten water supply is better known elsewhere than at home. With this false pride done away with, Breckenridge stands a good chance of getting better water as well as a better word among its neighbors.

The Appleton Press is running a "Twenty-five years ago" column. It appears that in the good old days some of "the boys" cut some bad capers which they now, being "highly respected citizens," would not care to have their offspring see in print and as they have already heard enough about what "father used to do," they have kindly requested the editor to omit their names from his accounts of the ancients. The editor said "yes"; "father" paid his arrears and five years in advance, gave mother a loving smile at breakfast and an extra allowance for that new dress, and nearly made her faint by suggesting that they take a second honeymoon trip to the cities in the spring—and thus church standing and domestic happiness is again insured. Who shall say the press hath lost its power?

IT IS SERIOUS

Some Willmar People Fail to Realize the Seriousness.

The constant aching of a bad back, The weariness, the tired feeling, The pains and aches of kidney ills Are serious—if neglected. Dangerous urinary troubles follow.

A Willmar citizen shows you how to avoid them.

John Warnmark, 318 Twelfth St., Willmar, Minn., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills have been used in my family with the most satisfactory results. My daughter complained for some time of pains in her back and dizzy spells. She was much run down in health as a result of disordered kidneys. I procured a box of Doan's Kidney Pills for her at A. E. Mossberg's drug store and they went at once to the seat of her trouble. In return for the good results Doan's Kidney Pills have given in my family, I gladly recommend them."
