A Store With The Right Idea
Mothers recognize value in Boys' Clothes.
They appreciate good attention, careful service, fair prices. This store stands for all this.
Here profit is looked upon as recompense for the services we can render the public. Here we recognize that customers are entitled to the best their money can secure.
So we make a special feature of XTRAGOOD clothes, made by Ederheimer, Stein & Co.
They're stylish clothes, they fit, and they're made to outlast two suits of the ordinary kind. All XTRAGOOD trousers are lined. It doubles their wear. And it really makes XTRAGOOD cost you less.

Worcester, Mass., a city of 140,000 people, is the largest city in this country without a saloon.

Under license $3,500,000 were spent annually in the 129 saloons it had and it is estimated that the city is now $2,000,000 better off than it was under the license system. Arrests have decreased 52 per cent, and arrests for drunkenness 113 per cent. In spite of all obstacles Worcester is making good.

HARRISON HITS

Harrison, Sept. 6.—The rains of last week delayed threshing a little while, but the rain was badly needed as the fields were getting very dry.
The work of constructing a dam in the big ditch was commenced last week and is now well under way. The object is to pump water enough to raise the dredge boat so as to remove it from its lodging place, due to low water. A gasoline pumping outfit has been installed for that purpose.
Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Lindblom of Atwater arrived here last week to work at the dredge. Mr. Lindblom to be engaged as roust, while Mrs. Lindblom superintends the cooking.
As the hunting season opens on Sept. 7, it will be well for farmers to take good care of their poultry.
Mrs. E. E. Feig departed for the Twin cities last Friday for a few days' visit.
W. Berglund visited with H. P. Johnson's folks on Sunday.
H. M. Walby made a pleasant call at the home of G. E. Willson on Sunday.
L. D. Dahl visited at H. McRae's place Sunday evening.
T. R. Harris and family made a brief call at the home of P. Berglund last Sunday.
That pretty little girl ought to have her "picture taken" now. Tomorrow may be too late. Go to Elkjer's Studio for fine results.

As a Last Resort.

The new minister of a small town in Inverness-shire was walking home from morning service recently when he chanced to overtake one of his parishioners, an old shoemaker. "Good morning, Mr. Bain," said the minister. "How is it your good wife is not out today?"
"She's no' but poorly," was the reply. "It's nae wink of sleep she's had for the last three nights."
The minister was sorry to hear such a poor account of Mrs. Bain's health and expressed a wish for a speedy improvement.
"I'm thinking if she could get a guld sleep," said the shoemaker, "she'd soon be on the mend. Maybe if ye're passing in the house tomorrow ye'll no' object to ca' in an' just give her frae 'lasty' to the end of your discourse this morning. I'm no' saying it wadna be very helpful." Dundee Advertiser.
She Consulted a Clock. Girls are not noted for being strong on figures, and one of them was relating recently the mental maze into which she was introduced as the result of asking a perfectly innocent question. She was going downtown on the car one afternoon and queried the conductor as to the time. He withdrew his alarm clock of a watch from a capacious pocket, observed the dial with the care used by a mariner in taking an observation with the sextant and then remarked in a portentous tone, "It lacks three seconds of being 2:48." The poor girl was so overwhelmed with the mass of material for a short exercise in oral arithmetic that she waited until she got downtown before trying to find out really what time it was, and then she consulted a big clock, where she had plenty of time to see just where each hand was.—Louisville Courier-Journal.
