that from the reorganization of the Manitoba until its merger into the Great Northern the capital stock increased from the original $31,000, to more than $129,000,000, which he holds, should be reduced by at least $25,000,000.
In other words the state maintains that there was at least that amount of "water" in the stock, after allowing for all expenses and new construction at the highest possible valuation.—Minneapolis Daily Tribune Jan. 15.

G. N. Stock Badly Watered.
The Great Northern railroad is over-capitalized many millions of dollars according to the contention which the state sought to establish yesterday in the hearing being conducted in the freight rate cases before Judge Charles E. Otis, master in chancery, St. Paul.
The principal witness was C. W. Hillman, an expert accountant who has been employed by the state to go over the books of the Great Northern for the purpose of ascertaining, if possible, the actual amount of money which was put into the building of the road and the acquiring of its properties and also to show some of the procedures of the road in the matter of book-keeping and its methods of handling and treating various matters.
Among the points brought out in the testimony of Mr. Hillman was his showing that the actual cost of the St. Paul and Pacific when it was bought up and reorganized as the St. Paul Minneapolis and Manitoba, the road which afterward became the Great Northern, was in round figures, $10,000,000.
Yet the first entry on the books of the Manitoba road, after the reorganization, was the cost of the old road which was placed at a little less than $31,000,000, which means a sudden increase of about $21,000,000.
Hillman also shows by his figures
