By HARRY VAN AMBERG

From the date of the first settlement of America there was warfare with the Indians, and during the war of the Revolution there was also war with the British. But by that time the Indian fighting had retreated westward.

During this Indian hostility and consequent lack of food a youth of sixteen made himself invaluable by leaving the fort before dawn, hunting all day and returning after nightfall with the game he had shot.

One day Ray and a companion were outside the fort shooting at a mark. Suddenly Ray heard the report of a rifle and his friend fell dead. It did not require a process of reasoning for Ray to know that the shot had come from an Indian.

Ray threw himself flat on the ground, a stump covering him from the fire of the enemy. That is, the Indians couldn't hit him, though their bullets sang in such proximity to his ears as to make him think that the next would cut off one of them.

But this was impossible so long as the Indians were threatening him. Near enough to see those in the fort looking through the loop holes he talked with them about ways to extricate him from his position.

There was one in the fort who suffered as much, doubtless far more, than Ray himself. That was his mother. She looked through a loophole, where she could see him lying in his perilous position, and she could see each spurt of smoke as it left an Indian rifle, knowing that it marked the sending of a bullet to kill her boy.

Night was coming on and the Indians were drawing nearer. When it became dark there could be nothing to prevent the savages from coming near enough to take him or to shoot him from a position where the stump would not protect him.

All wondered why they hadn't thought of the plan before. Pick and spade were brought, and a hole was sunk in the ground. Then when it was of a depth sufficient to excavate under the wall, a channel was run out to the young hunter and he was drawn within the fort.

The word "ragging" is more common in England than in this country, even if the custom is not. An English paper asserts that "rag" is not a slang word, but is a real old verb, also to be found in use among Icelanders.

GIVE RECEPTION IN NEW HOME

Rev. and Mrs. Carl Oberg entertained the members of the congregation of the Swedish Baptist church and a few other friends Friday afternoon at their new home on Jessie street. The occasion was both a reception in honor of Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Russell of Chicago, and a housewarming to celebrate the opening of the new home. It was a very happy gathering, pleasing in the informality of all its appointments. Good cheer and kindest hospitality were felt in the handclasp of the host and hostess and permeated the atmosphere of the rooms, adding more to the attractiveness of the scene than even the brilliant hues of blossoms with their pretty arrangement.

A little time was given to pleasant conversation and then the guests were ushered into the dining room, where dainty refreshments were served. White and green were the decorative colors. Streamers suspended from the ceiling fell in graceful folds and were caught at the corners of the table; beautifully arranged garden flowers made an effective centerpiece.

Assisting in the dining room were Misses Ethel Russell, Martha Parson, and Ella Nyquist, and the frappe bowl was presided over by Mesdames Wm. Elkjer and Elmer Peterson. A large number of the friends of the pastor and his wife, who are so highly esteemed, called during the receiving hours which were from 3 to 7.

A Creditable Garden. The writer made a little visit the other evening to the garden of Messrs. F. W. Powell and John Costello. In spite of the discouraging season, Mr. Powell will not entirely disappoint his friends who usually look forward to the treats of garden fruits from his plot of intensive cultivation. Mr. Powell makes a specialty of raising tomatoes. He has six varieties of this luscious fruit now in very promising condition. He bestows infinite care in training and pruning each plant, also feeding them to bring the best results. He has captured some unusual specimens of worms which he found feeding on the vines and is keeping them in a little cage, feeding them daily with succulent suckers from the tomato vines, in order that he may observe the spinning of the cocoons when the change of life comes to the little creatures. Mr. Powell does all his work in the garden at odd moments outside of working hours and his success as a gardener shows what a man can do who will use his spare time to some good purpose.

Street Fair Preliminaries. The Street Fair Committee is doing the preliminary work for the 1910 street fair, which opens Sept. 14 to 17 inclusive. The preliminary list is being revised to meet the conditions of the season. The poultry department will be given more attention and an expert poultry man will be secured to do the Entertained Old Friends. Rev. and Mrs. G. Peterson entertained at dinner Thursday Rev. and Mrs. Christian Swenson and children of New London and Rev. and Mrs. P. Peterson of St. Paul, who had been spending a little time at the New London and Spicer and were on their way to Kokoto for a two week's visit. Rev. Peterson is pastor of the First Swedish Lutheran church in St. Paul and is enjoying his annual vacation. The friendship between him and Rev. Peterson of Willmar is of long standing, he having been a member of the latter's congregation at Moore's Prairie.

A Contest in Third Ward. There will be a contest in the special election in Third Ward to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Alderman Hornbeck. Chas. Wallin has been induced to file in opposition to Albert H. Sperry, and is making an active canvass of the election which takes place Tuesday, Aug. 23. The friends of Mr. Sperry who are responsible for inducing him to permit his name to be filed are not idle however, and the prospects are that the vote will be out quite fully.

Only a "Pipe" Dream. Beginning Monday the Great Northern has had a man at the depot at Willmar wearing a uniform, whose duty it will be to look after matters generally for the traveling public and call off the trains—Litchfield Review. Willmar wishes the above item were founded on facts, but at present writing the long felt want has not been filled.

Actual Fillings to Date. The following have filed for nomination at the primaries to be held Sept. 20: Henry Boese, Republican for Commissioner Fourth District. C. E. Johnson, Rep. for state representative. George H. Ottersner, Rep. for County Attorney. Peter Bonde, Prohib. for sheriff.

Thrashing was finished on the O. B. Glarum farm last Wednesday. Wheat yielded about 25 bushels per acre, one piece of 60 acres going as high as 28. Barley went 30 bushels per acre, oats 32, and speltz 35. The wheat yield on the state farm, rented by Phil Haley, was about 27 bushels per acre.

Mrs. W. D. Fredrickson and little son Ronald, went to Broten Thursday to visit Mrs. Fredrickson's mother. Mrs. Victor Nelson and family and guests visited at the pretty farm home of Mr. and Mrs. August Lundquist near Kandiyohi.

Aunt Sally's Money

By M. QUAD

Aunt Sally Henderson was the widow of a farmer. She was a bustling little woman with a babyish look. She kept a hired man on the farm and a hired girl in the kitchen, but she was a boss and a worker as well. She was kind to wayfarers and a liberal contributor to the unfortunate, and she was ready to take advice on all points but one. There she was singularly obstinate and seemingly foolish.

During his lifetime Farmer Henderson had been the victim of a bank failure. True, he lost only $17 in it, but it was a lesson to last him the rest of his days and to be handed over to his wife when he departed. She had been a widow for three years, when a sister died and left her a thousand dollars in cash. There was then a private banker in the nearest village, and he was spoken of by all as God fearing and strictly honest. There were people who had known him from infancy, and they vouched that there was not a blot on his character. When Aunt Sally got her thousand she was advised to bank it. She declined. After she had been talked to by her neighbors, her minister, the justice of the peace and the nearest village, and he drove into the village one day and took a look at the banker. He looked good to other folks, but after five minutes Aunt Sally turned from him and said: "I wouldn't trust that man with a single dollar!"

"But why?" was asked. "Because he toes in when he walks. You take my word for it, he'll turn out to be a rascal!" She was laughed at, but she said no toe-in banker for her thousand dollars. She'd keep it in the house. Of course she was warned of the danger of robbers, but she smiled in her baby way and replied that they could come on as fast as convenient. In a month it was known pretty much all over the county that Aunt Sally Henderson had a thousand dollars in the house. Some said it was a bit queer, others thought it was hidden in the garret, others still that it was in a trunk under her bed. With everybody talking there was bound to be results.

It was a big tramp who came limping along the highway at sundown one day and talked of his hunger and afflictions. Besides his limp he had his left arm in a sling. No friends, no home, nothing in the future for him. He went to Aunt Sally and questioned him. He was fed and given quarters in the barn. At midnight he came out of the barn without his limp or his sling and raised a kitchen window and stepped in. As he stepped in he also stepped into a beartrap yawning for Weary Willie, and the jaws closed on one of his legs. He was a big man, and he made a fuss according to his size. Aunt Sally dressed and came out of her bedroom and had him carried up and the trap removed, and she said she would see him later. After breakfast his case was attended to. The hired man brought up some blue beach galls, and while he laid them on Aunt Sally stood by and sang "Shall We Gather at the River?"

The next corner foisted in from the village. He was traveling with a circus as a seller of pink lemonade. Although he was making 500 per cent on his liquid he signed to get rich faster. Hearing that Aunt Sally had a thousand he went to her to see if she would let him to cooperate it and buy some cold storage stock. No kitchen window for him. In the first place he was too tosy, and in the next he found a parlor window open. It looked good to him. He went in. The same beartrap was there. Aunt Sally had simply shifted it. The victim had a good voice on him, and he used it to arouse the house. He was taken out and laid on the grass as the other had been, but when morning came his punishment was a bit different. He was set out to cooperate it and buy some cold storage stock. No kitchen window for him. In the first place he was too tosy, and in the next he found a parlor window open. It looked good to him. He went in. The same beartrap was there. Aunt Sally had simply shifted it. The victim had a good voice on him, and he used it to arouse the house.
