JOKE STARTS LEGISLATIVE WHEELS
By EDWARD H. CLARK

WHEN THE bomb of honour which Mr. Trump shot at Washington on a recent occasion missed the target, the United States Congress found itself in the midst of a new whirlwind of legislative activity. The President had called a special session of Congress, and the members were up the chairman's gavel hit the desk with such a noise that they finished the business that was before them in less time than they had expected.

Senator Allison of Iowa, who in no conceivable way could have been expected to support the weather-cock. The phrase "a woman's place is in the home" is no reason for keeping women out of the world, or out of the political world, either. Women are no less capable of understanding and appreciating the finer points of legislation than are men.

The principal markets for Dominican cacao are those in the United States, Europe, and Asia. In 1909, the total value of Dominican cacao exported was $1,894,134.

Several cases of typhoid fever have been reported in Sweden. The disease is prevalent in the north of the country, where the climate is colder and the people are more susceptible to disease.

The cacao of Santo Domingo is used in the production of chocolate, coffee, and other products. The country exports a large amount of cacao to foreign countries, particularly to the United States and Europe.

The principal methods of cultivating cacao in Santo Domingo are those used in the West Indies. The cacao tree is planted in rows, and the young plants are shaded by other trees. The soil is well drained, and the cacao is watered as needed. The beans are harvested when they are ripe, and are dried on the plant before being shipped to the market.

IN AN AWKWARD POSITION
From a dozen different sources, we have been told that the greatest danger to the United States in the next twenty years will be a war with Mexico. The situation is very critical, and the government is doing everything possible to prevent a war.

The inauguration of President Wilson on March 4 was a great occasion. The country was filled with enthusiasm, and the President was received with cheers and applause. The inauguration was a historic event, and one that will long be remembered.

The principal sports in Scandinavia are those that are popular in the United States, such as baseball, football, and basketball. The people of Scandinavia are fond of sports, and they take great pride in their teams.

In the past, the United States has sent a large number of American warships to the Mediterranean. The country has always been a great advocate of peace, and it has always taken a leading part in the movement for the abolition of war.

It is estimated that the British have been responsible for most of the recent disturbances in the Far East. The British have been accused of using the China Incident to gain control of the country.

The British government has been accused of being too soft on China. The country has been criticized for its treatment of the Chinese, and it has been accused of being too lenient in its dealings with the Chinese.
