AGRICULTURAL COURSE OPENS

The New Agricultural Course of Willmar Associated Schools Opens Monday.

An agricultural course for young men and women and boys and girls from the farm is offered this year by the Willmar Associated Schools. This is the first time in the history of the county that farm students have had the chance to take up the study of agriculture, home making and manual training in their own home school.

The Willmar school was granted special state aid under the Putnam Act last spring for the purpose of enabling it to enlarge its field of usefulness by offering class work in the industrial subjects. One of the provisions of the Putnam Act requires that a special course in Agriculture be offered for the benefit of farm students and the young people of the town who have dropped out of the regular work but who want the training along industrial lines.

In offering this work Willmar is one of thirty high schools operating under the Putnam Act. It is one of eighty-six schools offering the industrial courses. The object of this course is to train farm students along lines which will fit them to better carry on their life work. It is desired to teach the scientific principles of plant and animal production to the end that the business of farming may be made more interesting, more productive and more profitable. It is desired to teach the principles involved in carrying on the work in the home so that the farm-women of tomorrow will be better fitted for the duties of home building. Why will be taught as well as how. The reason as well as the method. The aim is to stimulate productive energy, (a line of education that has hitherto remained undeveloped) and to give training along lines that will tend to more useful citizenship.

All students who come will be enrolled without regard to age or previous school training.

The ad on another page gives the outline of subjects that will be taught this year.

FAIR GROUNDS ATHLETIC PARK

Stockholders of Willmar Park Assembly Take Steps Towards Adding These to Park.

At the adjourned meeting of the stockholders of the Willmar Park Assembly held at the Commercial Club rooms last Monday evening a committee composed of W. F. Gratz, G. W. Tyler and E. C. Wellin was appointed to investigate the feasibility of creating an athletic park and race track on the property next adjoining the Willmar Assembly Park to the south. In order to make it possible to finance the park, property and secure the revenue necessary to keep up the property for public uses, the members of the Park Assembly have come to the conclusion that it must provide for taking care of athletic gatherings, race meets and the annual fair. At the meeting held immediately after the last assembly it was decided that the Park stockholders would not henceforth become responsible as a corporation for the program of the Chautauqua. They will be glad to lease the grounds for this purpose or for any other gathering which may wish to use them. By broadening the scope of the uses the grounds may be put to by the public, it is hoped that sufficient revenue may be derived to maintain the property. A week ago a joint meeting was held with members of the Street Fair committee to discuss the probability of merging the fair and park interests. It was argued that the Street Fair has grown to the proportion where it is exceedingly difficult to locate the different features on the streets. The question of revenue is a difficult one, and requires much close figuring to be able to offer the premiums necessary to make the fair a continued success. The difficulty of securing facilities for stock exhibits is one reason that a fair ground with permanent buildings would be preferable. With a county fair ground more aid can be secured from the state for buildings. The distance to the Assembly Park is not so great but that it is within easy walking distance of the center of the city. It is not more than two or three blocks farther from the center of the city than the present grounds used for athletic contests.

The project which the gentlemen named will investigate will be the chances for securing a race track around the low open tract adjoining the park property and the probable cost of filling the same or a large part of it for an athletic park. The side hill along the park grounds would make a natural amphitheatre and an ideal place for a grand stand. A thirty-day option for the property has been secured and the stockholders' meeting of Monday night was adjourned to meet again in two weeks, Nov. 20, to hear the report of this committee as well as that of other committees which were assigned the task of proposing the necessary changes in the Articles of Incorporation of the park property.
