PHILIP J. HALEY HAS A NARROW ESCAPE

Is Crushed Under Heavy Boom of Large Dredge Over- turned on Road.

The community was startled last Saturday afternoon by the news that Philip Haley had met with a very serious accident on the road three miles south of Svea, having been crushed under a heavy timber when his load was overturned. The latest reports are hopeful, and the prospects are now that unless some unforeseen complications arise Mr. Haley will recover and be spared to his family and the community.

Mr. Haley had the contract of moving the large dredge to be used by Mr. Hart on the large Whitefield ditch from Hart Island to the point where the new dredge ditch will begin. The large boom which carries the steam shovel, and which weighs several tons, was loaded on two pairs of sleighs. Mr. Haley was accompanied by four men and was one of those driving the heavy horse team. When about a quarter of a mile from Peter Anderson's place (the old Aug. Carlson home) the load tipped over the side of the dump. Mr. Haley was pinned under the heavy boom. His foreman very promptly rushed to his rescue with a jack screw and had him released in a moment. His presence of mind probably saved the life of Mr. Haley. The injured man was taken to the farm home mentioned, and medical aid was summoned from Willmar. Mrs. P. J. Haley, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Haley were at Kandiyohti enjoying a visit at the home of their uncle, Mr. Patrick Lawler, and were notified in time to come on the afternoon train and were at the bedside of the injured man in a very short time. The physicians summoned found that the left side of the chest had been crushed in and a number of ribs broken. How serious the internal injuries were was difficult to determine and the physicians were in constant attendance throughout the night watching developments. The patient rested easy and has not developed any alarming symptoms up to the last report. It will be some time before he can be removed to his home. His sister, Mrs. Banks, a professional nurse, was called from the country and has with many friends that the wires were busy with inquiries, and all are glad to know that his condition is improving.

OBITUARY.

An old settler and well known former resident of this county, Chas. J. Odell, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Mary Granell of Minneapolis, January 28th at 1:30 p. m. at the age of 77 years; the immediate cause of his death being pneumonia.

The building is beautifully located on "Sunny side" in the east part of the village and overlooks the mill pond. It is built of double concrete, two stories and basement, and will be credit to the village and speaks much for the public spirit of the community.

SIXTY THOUSAND TONS OF ICE SHIPPED

Ice Harvest at Green Lake Completed, Picked Crew Leaves for Loon Lake, Wash.

The ice harvest at Green Lake has closed. Contractor J. H. Pfeifer departed with a crew of men for his next scene of operations at Loon Lake, state of Washington, last Monday. No less than 1,400 cars of ice were harvested at Green Lake which were hauled by special ice trains to different part of this section of the Great Northern system. The best records made in any one day was 96 cars of 30 to 40 tons each. The operations have been in progress for about 30 days, but would have been completed sooner if the company could have furnished the necessary cars. The ice industry at Green Lake is becoming an important one. Mr. Pfeifer employed no less than 80 hands during the 28 days. A camp house had been erected and a mess established so that the men were housed and fed at the plant. No ice was put up in the ice houses for the reason that the buildings had deteriorated so badly. New ice houses will likely be erected during the year. Most of the ice taken was 28 inches thick. A second crop of ice 20 inches thick was also utilized. Mr. Pfeifer has the contract for putting up ice along the entire Great Northern system. He has five different places for taking ice: Green Lake, Loon Lake, Wash.; Marlon, Mont.; Sweet Water, N. D.; near Devils Lake, and White Bear Lake. He also has a contract on the Northern Pacific in Idaho.

Mr. Pfeifer owns a large ranch of some 2500 acres near Larimore. He has a herd of 3000 sheep. Last year he raised no less than 650 acres of potatoes, so he is certainly a man of wide range of affairs.

Mr. Pfeifer was accompanied to Loon Lake, Wash., by the following picked men from his Green Lake ice crew: Carl Thompson, E. T. Gunderson, Walter Henderson, Dave Weaver, Ole Arthur Bert Martin, G. Ronning, Robert Kolseth, Edward Berglund, Russell Newlin, Carl Lovander, John Marnussen, Arvid Pohl, Peter McRae and Manning Adler. Mr. Arthur was quite seriously hurt, as mentioned in our last issue, by being struck on the side of the head by a piece of scantling. The doctor found it necessary to take five stitches in the wound. Nevertheless, he recovered quickly and was one of those to accompany Mr. Pfeifer.

The Playford Cement Stave Silo King Among Silos

A SATISFIED CUSTOMER

Mr. E. J. Wahl,
Cumberland, Wis., Jan. 23, 1912
St. Paul, Minn.

Dear Mr. Wahl:—
Your favor asking for a statement in regard to my silo purchased and erected in August, 1911, by your company, at hand. Before I purchased I first saw and talked with men who had had experience, also looked into this question as to wood, brick, hollow brick, solid cement and those with air space, those which stood upright, unprotected, some with no roof, (my own has a half roof on) and two wooden ones which had building erected around them, not in a barn but just around the silo, about two feet between silo and building. I found they all froze. I find mine freezes too, but not any more than any of the above mentioned ones. I find there is no building of any material that will not freeze unless heated artificially.

Now, as to silage. Ours is as nice as can be found, except the top, which had no covering, no coarse hay, straw or oats, in fact nothing at all on it. Feeding at the rate we have been, we will have enough till April 15th, and have hay to sell if I want to, instead of buying as I did last year. To put the whole thing as short as possible—my silo has been a comfort (knowing there is enough for the stock) and will pay for itself in less than two years if silage is properly put in. My silo is the first one of its kind in Wisconsin. We have had 19 days when our Government thermometer registered from 6 to 32 degrees below zero so I think I have had a good chance to test it.

Yours truly,
CHARLES F. MILLER.

18x40 foot Silo of Bosworth Bros., Elgin, Ill.

We positively guarantee our silo to freeze no more (if as much) than any other silo now on the market. The acid in the ensilage will not freeze our silo wall, nor will they absorb any moisture and thus spoil a lot of silage all around the silo. There is no air space on our silo to fill with the juices from the ensilage and thus cause a stink.

Our silo walls, on account of the vertical construction, can check a good deal without cracking. Our silo does not rot, blow down or burn. When you have one of our silos erected you don't have to keep a crew of men from two weeks to a month on your farm. Three men from two to four days does the work. We furnish the man that erects the silo, and are responsible for good work.

Our new booklet will be out the middle of this month. It contains a lot of information you should know before buying your silo. Sent prepaid on request.

Address or call at either our Home Office, or 521 Palace Building, Minneapolis, Minn.
