

ECHOES FROM THE EDITORS' OUTING

Brief Extracts from the Write-Ups Seventh District Editors Give their Visit at Willmar and Green Lake

RAYMOND
Editor Giesecke of the Raymond News says in his write-up: "The city of Willmar in a very generous way entertained the editors and their ladies in a most lavish fashion."

MORRIS
Under the head of "Editor's Royally Entertained," J. C. Morrison, of the Morris Tribune, devotes a column to the outing. He says: "The citizens of Willmar and Spicer left nothing undone which would make the editorial outing enjoyable."

RENVILLE
W. A. Reid of the Renville Star-Farmer devotes more than two columns to a detailed review of the outing and adds his personal thanks to Drs. Peterson and Branton of Willmar and Oscar Orred of Spicer for courtesies shown. Mr. Reid had as much fun as anybody on the trip, and was bubbling over with good nature.

MAYNARD
Mark Wolsteneroff of the Maynard News rises to remark that Willmar "has a whole lot of nice homes with beautiful grounds." He concludes his report with the observation that "those present will carry a warm spot in their hearts for Willmar and its citizens for many moons."

CLARA CITY
The Clara City Herald publishes a column write-up giving the details of the outing and closes by saying: "In all we can truthfully state that the whole affair was one great success and that we wish to give our little thanks to all those who helped to make it a grand success and we are sure that every one who attended will say with us that we had "one great round of fun and enjoyment" which shall long be remembered."

FRANKLIN
Julius L. Jacobs of the Franklin Tribune is enthusiastic over the outing. In part, he says: "Green Lake is one of the most delightful summer resorts on the map. The little village of Spicer did its utmost to make the editors enjoy their visit at the lake. Every point of interest, and they were many, along the twenty-five mile coast line of the lake was visited. Among those of particular interest Crescent Beach and the beautiful Spicer estate which boasted its own electric lighting plant and was in reality a natural park of surpassing beauty and charm."

CANBY
Willmar did full justice to the occasion in entertaining the 7th district editors last week, and all, voted the metropolis of the district a royal host. Willmar is a hustling city, full of boozers and enterprising business men and is destined to become one of the most important cities in the state. Its fine business blocks, beautiful homes, splendid location and scenery made many of the boys and girls feel that old Minnesota has all the attractions the farmer, the merchant, the professional man and the tourist could possibly desire, and that for motoring, boating and fishing she cannot be excelled.—Canby News.

ATWATER
"The first annual outing of the Seventh District Editorial Association was a big success. In fact the party of newspaper men and their ladies who so thoroughly enjoyed it will anxiously await the coming of the next annual event," says Geo. E. Johnson of the Atwater Republican-Press. Then he relates the main incidents of the outing and at the close writes: "The visitors all left for their homes with the most favorable impression in regard to Green Lake as one of the state's beauty spots and also Willmar as a beautiful city filled with true hospitable people. They will not hesitate to tell their readers of their pleasant experiences, and consequently that section of the state will receive a good 'boost' as the result of the association's first annual outing."

MINNEOTA
G. B. Bjornson, of the Minneota Mascot, runs a three column write-up in which he forgets none who contributed to the pleasure of the occasion. "It was the consensus of opinion among the newspaper boys that a more liberal and enterprising bunch than the Willmar business men it would be difficult to find."

"Willmar people are justly proud of their fine federal building." "The stately Interlachen Hotel stands on a little knoll on the lake shore, surrounded by a picturesque scenery. Here another banquet was served, and this far-famed hostelry more than sustained its reputation." "This was the first outing of the Seventh district editors, and it is certainly difficult to see how it could have been made more thoroughly enjoyable."

GRANITE FALLS
The Granite Falls Journal publishes a column and a half report of the event. Editor Bennett says: "It will be remembered by those who participated in it's enjoyments as one of the pleasant times in their lives."

In regard to the State Hospital he says: "We know that there was much criticism over the purchasing of the old Willmar farm for the purpose of turning it into what people have been pleased to call the "Jag Farm," but if the reader should go to Willmar and go out and see what a magnificent institution they are going to have there, and realize the good that can come from it they will no longer scold. All the buildings are being erected in the most substantial style, and are artistically beautiful. The buildings are of brick covered with stucco of a yellow tint. The location is a most sightly one on the bank of Foot Lake."

DAWSON
Theodore Christianson of the Dawson Sentinel devotes a generous amount of space telling of the good time he enjoyed. Of the Willmar banquet he says: "The dinner was fit for kings, and the program of toasts which followed was of the kind one would expect whenever Mike Dowling of Olivia and Gunnar Bjornson of Minneota are given unlimited liberty to talk."

Of the state road, Mr. Christianson says: "It is said to be the finest automobile road in the state. Kandiyohi county and the city of Willmar deserve unstinted praise for this job of road building."

Of the Interlachen banquet, he says: "Those who have not enjoyed a meal at Larson's have missed a good thing."

Finally, "Willmar and Green Lake are a most excellent place for a gathering of this kind. The scenery is fine and the hospitality of the people splendid."

MILAN
Andrew Bromstad, of the Milan Standard says: "The party enjoyed such a delightful time and met with such wholesome and generous hospitality that no acknowledgement thereof in words could be made too strong." Mr. Bromstad devotes nearly three columns to the trip. His impression of Willmar in general, he expresses as follows: "None of the smaller cities of the state is more beautifully situated than Willmar. The natural beauty of the surroundings is greatly augmented by well kept lawns and a profusion of ornamental flowers. Add to this the absence of the grog shop, and one cannot help but receive a favorable impression relative to civic and moral virtues of the people of Willmar. It must be an ideal place to live in. Among the many public buildings in the city the post-office deserves special mention. It is a model institution and contains every facility for handling the postal business in an efficient manner. It has also reading room and bath rooms for railway mail clerks and the rural mail carriers, showing how thoughtful and considerate Uncle Sam is towards his employees."

REDWOOD FALLS
Willmar proved its ability to entertain when the editors of the Seventh district gathered there last Friday. About fifty of the scribes and their wives were present in spite of the weather which was bad all day Friday and doubtless kept a good many away who had planned on going in autos.

Friday evening the Willmar Commercial Club gave a banquet for the visitors following a ride around the beautiful city including a visit to the jag farm.

Saturday the editors were taken out to Spicer and that evening were given a banquet at the Interlachen hotel, one of the best summer hotels and most beautifully situated resorts in the state.

Through Senator Hoard, the president of the association an invitation was extended to the editors to hold their next meeting at Montevideo and it is likely steps will be taken to secure the second annual outing for Redwood Falls.

The editors are favorably inclined towards the suggestion because of the known hospitality of this place, the beautiful natural scenery and the advantages of Ramsey park for a vacation of this kind.—Redwood Falls Gazette.

Times attended the Willmar part of the program. In his extended write-up of the same, he says:

"Owing to the unfavorable weather the attendance was not as large as was expected but the 30 or 40 members present were entertained in a manner that left no doubt as to the hospitality and good fellowship that obtains in Willmar. A drive in automobiles was taken during the afternoon to the "Jag Farm" and the buildings under construction were inspected by the visitors. Something like $180,000 is being expended on buildings on the farm which means that this is to be a big institution. A visit was made to the court house, new postoffice and other places of interest. The visitors were impressed with the clean and tidy appearance of things in that city, the prosperous looking homes, well kept lawns, attractive parks, and prosperous looking business places. Willmar is certainly an inviting and homelike city. Evidences of civic pride are everywhere noticeable and the geniality of its citizens makes the visitor feel at home."

"We saw enough to satisfy ourselves that the first annual outing of the Seventh District Editorial Association was a successful and enjoyable affair, and that Willmar is a good place to go for a good time."

MONTEVIDEO
President H. E. Hoard has us all beat with the witty and comprehensive report which he gives the outing. We wish our space would permit us to give it in full. He tells the main incidents of the outing and gives a synopsis of the speeches made. A few sentences picked at random: "Willmar is certainly one of the live towns of Central Minnesota and the largest town in the seventh congressional district. Its streets are broad and fine and although it had rained that afternoon we saw no mud anywhere. The streets are nicely graded and graveled."

"The menu folders were of most novel design, the product of Artist Eben Lawson's genius and the Tribune printer's skill. Their color suggested 'grey matter' and the artistically burned edges suggested the final home of delinquent subscribers. The first page was illuminated with the design of a candle in an empty ink can, labeled "Ye Country Press," and above it the inscription "Feed Tendered the Seventh District Pen Pushers, by the Willmar Commercial Club, August 9th, 1912."

The tables had also been arranged in the form of the capital letter "E" suggestive of the editorial profession. "At nine o'clock were again taken in hand by the Willmar Auto Club for a twelve mile spin over the finest road we have yet seen in this state, to Spicer and Green Lake. The weather was just perfect and the ride an ideal one over a most picturesque route, with hills and dales, and many beautiful views of lakes and woods and country life, and the road almost perfect all the way. A good deal of money has been spent in putting this road in such perfect condition, but it is worth it all, and more."

"We landed at Carnelian Beach across the lake and visited the site of what may have been an ancient city, and what was laid out and started as a modern city some fifty-five years ago, but which is now out up into farms. But we found many great Indian mounds, some of which had been partially excavated for relics, and of which no one knows the true history."

"We had heard of Mrs. Larson's famous suppers and now had a chance to enjoy one of them. The New London Orchestra was present and added much to the pleasure of the occasion, and received a rising vote of thanks for their excellent music."

"Sunday morning our party again boarded the boat and visited some of the cottagers on Crescent Beach and also accepted Mr. Spicer's invitation to call on him at his lovely home and farm at the lake. Unlike some of the cottagers he insists on maintaining the place largely as nature made it, and indeed it would seem that nature had done her best. He has a farm of several hundred acres and a lovely home there with everything needed at hand. The grounds are lighted with electric lights and a pumping station furnishes water for lawn sprinkling and irrigation, and his garden, grapey and orchard are well worth a visit, as also are the buildings and the lagoon."

Our brief review of the advertising this editorial gathering brought to Willmar and Green Lake is very incomplete. If the boys who attended will send us two or three extra copies of their papers containing their reports we will undertake to make two scrap books—one for preservation at the Willmar Public Library and one for the archives of the editorial association,—and it will make an interesting volume.

NEW LONDON, ROUTE 3.

New London, Aug. 19—Prof. Swalin of Willmar came up on Saturday for a short stay at the V. E. Olson home.

The violin trio of this place practiced at the Victor Olson home Sunday.

The farmers are now thru stacking their grain. Plowing will now take the lead.

Frank Bergeson, Alfred Olander and the Henning Olander family were entertained at Aug. Olander's home Saturday evening.

The Willing Workers' society of the Swed. Luth. church will meet at the home of the Misses Hazel and Sylvia Olander, Wednesday afternoon. All are most cordially welcome.

A number of friends were entertained at the home of Carl Soderlund's Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ang. Olander and family and Mr. Clinton Holmes were guests at the France Newstrom home Sunday.

Mr. E. Mason of Montevideo canvassed this part of the county the first of last week.

Mr. Clinton A. Holmes of Minneapolis arrived on Saturday for a few days' visit at the Aug. Olander home.

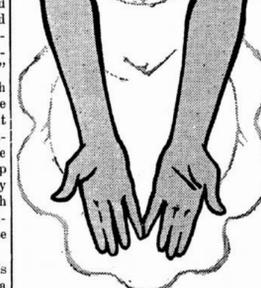

Mrs. Louis Larson and children and Miss Ruby Johnson of Minneapolis are guests at the Chas. Bredberg home.

Mr. A. Gulbrandson arrived here from Burlingame, Kansas, Tuesday, for a few weeks' visit at the Rev. C. Swenson home.

Services in the Swedish Lutheran church Sunday forenoon at 11 o'clock, Sunday school at 10.

Rev. H. Lillienarantz, of Morris, was in the city Saturday and Monday in the interest of the gubernatorial candidacy of Lewis C. Spooner of Morris. The reverend gentleman was very earnest in his solicitations and is giving Mr. Spooner conscientious service. He claimed he had found more people in Willmar in favor of his candidate than he had expected to find. Where they are and who they are he did not volunteer to tell us, and we are at a loss to name one.

GENUINE Old Country GREEN SOAP

Simply Cannot Hurt the Hands

THE CAUSTIC SODA AND the resin and the minerals in hard cake soaps ruin your fabrics and crack your hands. They are used by American soap-makers simply because American soap-makers have never known how to make soap without using them. We went to the old Country for our Chief Chemist—to the one and only family in the world that supply us with that one right formula. That is why Genuine Old Country Green Soap is best for every household use.

Many of you remember the green soft soap that you used in the Old Country. All of you have probably heard of it. Genuine Old Country Green Soap is it. "Old Country" is nothing but pure vegetable oils made into soap by the best grade of electrolytic potash. Because of its purity it gains in strength.

It is "The Wizard Soap of the world," the only ALL-purpose household cleanser. You want these statements to prove true. Using is believing. Try Genuine Old Country Green Soap today—your grocer has it. Get at least a 2-lb. can for a test. After that you'll buy it as suits you best in cans or pails up to 25 lbs. 10 cents the lb. and less.

THORPE REPLIES TO MANAHAN

Claims He Has Been in Good Company and is Not a Reactionary.

Editor Willmar Tribune: The Minneapolis Tribune printed an account of Mr. Manahan's speech at Willmar in which is given my vote on three propositions. To this I replied as follows:

"In the Tribune for today I find a part of Mr. Manahan's speech at Willmar in which he classifies me as a reactionary because I voted for S. F. No. 362. Perhaps I should not object to this, as a candidate for office can not be very sensitive in such matters, particularly when handled by an expert opponent, but it may be that your readers would like to know a little more about this and the other bills referred to.

"To get a satisfactory primary election bill has been for years and is yet a problem that many wise and good men are trying to solve. Senator Canfield has given this matter considerable study and he cannot very well be classed a reactionary. He introduced No. 362 and while he realized that no bill could be agreed on at that session the Canfield and Moonan bills on that subject were discussed and amended and voted on, and among those that stood by Senator Canfield were such men as Senators Dale, Putnam, Witherstine and Wright, and on the Moonan bill No. 69 the record shows that Senators Bedford, Clague, Durmont, Gunderson, Nelson, Wilson and others are in my class.

"On the third delinquency with which I am charged, my vote on the McCall bill S. F. No. 374, the records show that Senators Canestorp, Clague, Dale, Durmont, Gunderson, Hackney, Nelson, Peterson, White, Wilson were on the same side as your humble servant.

"I have no quarrel with Mr. Manahan or any of my other opponents, we all have the same right to appeal to the voter. It may be well however for the voters and candidates to remember that no man or set of men have as yet secured a patent on the best form or system for election laws. I think we are still in the experimental stage, but we are gaining in knowledge and experience, for which we all should be thankful. It seems to me that some of our citizens are not as thankful as others think they should be for our new primary law, but it may yet be improved on."

The reporter of the Willmar Tribune added two more counts against me in his report of that speech: S. F. No. 248, Session of 1907—to extend primaries to state offices, Thorpe voted "No" and so did Senators Canestorp, Dale, Durmont, Elwell, Fitzpatrick, Gunderson, Hackney, Peterson, Putnam, White, Wilson, Witherstine and Wright. In these and other matters it may be well to remember that during the years since these bills were acted on, considerable information and experience has been gained. The second choice provision had not been invented at that time. To be perfectly frank about the matter, no one was able to prepare a satisfactory bill. I paid an attorney out of my own pocket to work out a plan, but this also failed.

S. P. No. 111—Session of 1907—to repeal part of the Corrupt Practices Act, limiting amount that might be spent by candidate, Thorpe voted "Yes" and so did Mr. Manahan's committee chairman. Senator Sunberg and 37 other Senators, only 7 voted against. This bill is No. 412 not 111.

And lastly comes the Distance Tariff Bill. If this bill could be made so that it would not, in practical operation, destroy many villages and deprive the farmers of a home market, all should vote for it. It is sufficient here to say that such a good and true reformer as Senator Sunberg voted against this bill at the last session. As the Senator is chairman of his committee, it would seem that Mr. Manahan's criticism of my vote on this bill is not well founded, because he cannot wish to attack his own chairman.

In fact Senator Sunberg and I were almost invariably found on the same side, supporting reform measures.

I am sorry that my opponent has found it necessary to resort to irresponsible newspapers and publish such stuff as this: "I have been informed that Senator Thorpe voted against the two cent passenger rate bill, but I have not had time to personally verify this from the records." The fact is well known and the records so prove that I voted for and supported the two cent passenger rate bill, the classification and reduction of freight rates and abolishing passes.

It may be observed, in general, that any man during a period of twelve years, voting on thousands of bills at one time or other, will err in judgment and subsequent events and changed conditions will show that on some measures a different course would have been better. I do not claim to be infallible—a fault deplorable, but rather common in mankind; but do claim to have at all times acted honestly and for the best interest of the people. I am opposed, as ever, to all trusts and combinations whether it is
