SOCIOLOGICAL STUDIES OF THE FAMILY AND HOME.—5

(By P. M. Magnuson, Ph. D.)

THE FAMILY OF THE MIDDLE AGES

Was a very potent institution. Whether it was the peasant's home of wattle and the rockbuilt castle of the feudal lord, it practically had a monopoly of the social life of its inmates. The knight and the serf were both family men and spent most evenings in the bosom of their respective families.

The family was yet the almost exclusive unit of society. The family determined the marriages and vocations of its members. Father and mother dedicated their sons to the church or apprenticed them to a trade.

THE MODERN FAMILY BEFORE THE INDUSTRIAL REVOLUTION

filled a much bigger arch of life than the family does at present. There was scarcely any competition with other institutions. Every morning saw father, mother, children, grandparents, aunts, uncles, and dependents and servants gather around the fireplace to engage in handiwork and gossip. The newspaper was not yet, nor the house of many rooms except for the very top crust of society, nor committees, nor societies, nor clubs nor lectures nor was the fireplace replaced by the hot air register or the radiator. In those days everyone lived in some household, was the member of some family circle. The farmer's "hind" lived in the farmer's family, and not as a mere boarder but as a member subject to the same restrictions and sharer of the same intimacy and communism as the rest of the family. The same was true of the boy that was bound out as an apprentice. He was virtually the adopted son of the master. His socks were darned by the good wife's hands and his morals were fortified by the strap of the head of the family in the approved paternal way. The journeyman lived in the family of his employer and was treated as a grown son. The employees of mercantile houses dwelt with the owner, and even in the higher circles the secretaries and subordinates of great officials were often members of their master's households.

So almost every man spent his nights and most of his evenings under the protecting wing of some family. And his whole day was spent under the restraint of family control, even when outside of the house. As for woman, she was within the palisades of the household from the cradle to the grave. She could have no independent economic and social existence apart from some family. Sewing and work as a domestic practically enumerated her industrial possibilities. About the only genteel occupation open for women was that of governess and lady companion. So for twenty-four hours every day the home encircled women with its protecting arms.

In those days children grew up with their parents, with both of them. Most men had their work where their children could toddle around them in infancy and later learn the father's occupation from the father as the teacher.

The home was the all-inclusive frame of life; man was a domestic animal.

FOSTER'S WEATHER BULLETIN

(Copyrighted 1913 by W. T. Foster.)

Washington, D. C., May 10.—Last bulletin gave forecasts of disturbances to cross continent May 9 to 13 and 14 to 18, warm waves 8 to 12 and 13 to 17, cool waves 11 to 15 and 16 to 20. This period of about two weeks will average warmer than usual and will be followed by a great fall in temperatures. Storm forces will be greater than the usual storms and severe weather may be expected May 8 to 12 but dangerous storms are not probable. Most rain is expected in great central valleys not far from May 9 and in eastern sections about and following May 20.

Next disturbance will reach Pacific coast about May 19, cross Pacific slope by close of 20, great central valleys 21 to 23, eastern sections 24. Warm wave will cross Pacific slope about May 19, great central valleys 21, eastern sections 23. Cool wave will cross Pacific slope about May 22, great central valleys 24, eastern sections 26. This disturbance cooler than usual, will be preceded by a great fall in temperatures, followed by a cool wave that will carry frosts farther south than usual and cause the coldest weather of the month. Tender vegetables should be protected in northern sections.

This disturbance, following a lull in the storm forces, will inaugurate another period of dangerous storms but storm is passing. Our danger signals will hang out from May 20 to 21 and our readers may expect the most severe storms to occur close in front of the warm waves and hot far from the places and dates noted for the disturbance dates.

Indications favorable to a general shortage of rainfall and some indications of damage to crops by drought. That is expected to be the general condition, but some places, on account of the severe storms will get too much rain. The middle southeastern states will have some heavy local rains and similar conditions may be expected parts of Penn., New York, the New England states and the eastern provinces. But large sections between meridian 85 and the Rockies will be too dry for good growing crops.

Much will depend on amount of moisture in the soil middle of April. Where the soil was well wet at that time the crops may come thru the drought in good shape. Oats will probably suffer more than other crops.

Prof. Hopkins of the University of Illinois severely attacks two errors made by the U. S. Agricultural department in the past few years. He says that the optimistic secretary permitted the erroneous statement to the effect that farm soils never wear out and that the estimates of crop productions were uniformly extravagant. These bulletins have frequently stated that the government reports of the crops over-estimated the production. The effect of such overestimates is to enable the big speculators to buy at low prices and of course the farmers and planters are the losers. This matter should be looked into and the government reports more carefully made. For a scientific department to declare that farm soils do not wear out is so ridiculous that we can find no excuse for it.

Big Deal Engineered For Us By The Royal Tailors - Chicago - New York

Here's luck indeed! A big Eastern woolen mill—one of the largest and finest in the World—found itself very short of business this Spring. Half their looms were idle. Knowing that The Royal Tailors of Chicago and New York were big operators, they went to the Royal people and offered to weave any seven styles in the Royal Spring line at bare cost, if they could get an order big enough to keep their plants going full sway for six weeks—when they had orders due to resume their full production capacity.

Did the Royal folks snap them up? Would a duck swim? You can just bet the Royal Tailors embraced this remarkable opportunity.

They picked out the Seven Choicest and Best Selling Fabrics in the current season's line, and placed an enormous yardage order on terms that have enabled us to take $5.00 to $7.50 off the prices at which these seven fabrics have been selling all through the season.

Your Spring Royal Made-to-Measure Suit at a Clean Saving of $5.00 to $7.50

"By George, what luck!"

That's just what wise clothes-hunters will say when they read about this corking good deal the Royal Tailors have put over!

Reflect a minute! This isn't a reduction offered you next summer when the time for new clothes has gone by. This reduction comes to you at the very height of the clothes-buying time—when everybody is charging regular prices. And it's a reduction made—not on old goods—but on the cleverest, freshest fabrics of this very season, warm from the mills—with the bloom of the loom still on them.

Just Deduct $5 to $7.50 Off the Plainly Marked Prices.

The seven Woolens on which these reductions are made are the Season's most popular Styles. You're sure to find at least one of them you'll fall in love with. You may find it hard to choose—two or three of them are apt to compete with each other mighty close for your favor.

They were marked that way two months ago—and the prices haven't been changed. If you have a friend who bought one of those suits—you'll find he paid the original price for it.

Just deduct $5 to $7.50 off the original quotation and your garment will be made up in all the richness of famous Royal Tailoring—with the same superb tailoring as though you paid the original price.

Seven Reduced Fabrics are Nos. 7112, 7128, 7259, 7285, 7290, 7311, 7326

Kerkhoven Bannermen. Harry Noland visited Willmar relatives and friends Saturday and Sunday. J. C. Helgeson was up from Willmar to spend the Sabbath with his family. Erick Falk, living north of the village, boarded the train here Monday on a trip to Willmar. Theo. Oachs returned home Sunday night from a short business trip to Morris, Donnelly and Willmar. Miss Jennie Andrews, of Paynesville, but who has been teaching at Ruthton, is expected here tomorrow to visit her sister, Miss Anne Andrews.

Paynesville Freshies. Miss Bertha Pemble closed a successful preparatory school at Annapolis last Friday and has returned home to Paynesville. Of the 205 schools in Stearns County, 48 are interested in the potato contest and 272 enrollments are on file in the office of County Superintendent Boeger. Patrick Hartigan, the Great Northern brakeman, who was so severely injured six weeks ago, is now able to sit up. His physicians think that he will be able to be about very soon now and that he will be in no way crippled as a result of his accident. Two Stearns-county boys have passed the strenuous examination to admit them to Uncle Sam's navy, and to the naval academy at Annapolis. Thomas Tolman of this place and Clark of St. Cloud are the happy youngsters. Both received appointments from Congressman Lindbergh and both attended a preparatory school at Annapolis last winter.—Paynesville Press. Train Changes Sumored. It is rumored that the Great Northern intends soon to run the Fargo local passenger train every day instead of six days a week, and also that they intend lengthening the run to Morris of the train which now runs from Willmar to St. Paul in the morning and returns in the evening. If this should be done, the train would leave here between five and six in the morning and would return between nine and ten at night, making making a most convenient train for Twin City visitors. The travelling work which is being done on the Browns Valley line has again revived the rumor that the line is to be extended thru to Aberdeen.—Morris Tribune.

Repairs are the bane of the small property owner. Today it is new porch steps, tomorrow it will be a new sidewalk, soon it will be a well curb. Why not cut out both some patching? Why not build those things once and for all, using concrete? It will stand the frost, rain and sun for years, if you make it carefully. Use clean, coarse sand, well graded gravel or crushed stone and Universal Portland Cement and stop that repair nuisance. We sell Universal and are proud of its record of successful work.
