(Tone: Hin time i Gethsemane.) O kjære Jesus, tak for alt! Hvad du for mig har gjordt. Jeg fik forlædelse og fred. Nyt liv! O tank hvor stort. Nu Gud ske lov, min strid er endt. Forsligningsstunden dog Den dag da Sønnen blev sendt Min Fader hjem mig tog. Nu firer jeg da julefest I himmelrig hos Gud; Vor Herre Jesus selv vor prest Og jeg hans kjøbt brud. O sorg og gråd dog er for mig, Men priiser Herren navn Som naadigen forbarmet sig Og tog mig i sin favn.

Farvel da barn, farvel du mand, Farvel, I venner kjære, Farvel, og tak for hvad I gav, Gud løne hver især. Men vi skal ses hist hos Gud. Enhver som paa Ham tror Skal blive løst af fængslet ud Det er hans sande ord. Farvel, farvel, O moder kjære, Tak for hvad du os gav, En søskenflok forsamlet er. Og følger til din grav, Der maas vi skilles. Men hos Gud Vi samles skal engang, Naar vi er frelst af trængslen ud Og synges Lammets sang.

Mr. Samson is a civil engineer and has been in the employ of the Milwaukee road at Montevideo. The girl is but sixteen years of age.

HAMMOND TALKS TO LEGISLATORS

Approves Work of Economy and Efficiency Commission.

PRIMARY LAW GETS HIS O. K.

Unless to Cure Minor Defects Government or Says There Should Be No Change in the Statute—Favors State Development of Waste Lands to Encourage Early Settlement.

St. Paul, Jan. 6.—Governor W. S. Hammond, in his inaugural address to the legislature, paid particular attention to the reorganization of the state departments as recommended by the economy and efficiency commission. He commended the report and urged its adoption into law. The address, in part, follows:

"The last legislature in its wisdom saw fit to enact legislation providing for the election of the members of both house and senate as nonpartisans. There is considerable difference of opinion as to the expediency of this departure from a well established practice in Minnesota, but the statute has been enacted, and in the recent election the voters selected their representatives in this legislative body regardless of their political beliefs. The statute is entitled to a fair trial. The people believe in primaries. They recognize that there are defects in the primary election system, but they prefer that system as it is to a return to the old convention plan, and unless it be to cure some defects in the present law or some unfortunate conditions that the statute permits, there should be no change in our primary election law.

"It is a matter of common knowledge that many Democrats vote in Republican primaries and help nominate Republican candidates. Undoubtedly many Republicans likewise vote in Democratic primaries, and members of other political parties assist in nominating candidates for whom they do not intend to vote. Perhaps on the whole no great harm is done by this kind of voting, but the spirit of the law is violated. Should the legislature see fit to amend the primary law so as to permit all electors to participate in each primary, considerable criticism of the system would be avoided; no harm would be done, and the whole, probably better nominations would be made.

TOO MANY AMENDMENTS.

"At the last election there were submitted to the electors eleven proposed constitutional amendments, and all but one defeated. The ordinary voter has not the time, or will not take the time, to familiarize himself with so large a number of proposals. Each one is worthy of much study and of earnest consideration. It is too much to expect that voters will give such study and consideration to eleven proposals in a single election. One or two of them might be submitted and the judgment of the people obtained upon these, but when a large number are proposed a great many voters will either not vote at all or vote 'No' because they do not feel justified in voting 'Yes.' Of the amendments approved in the legislature it is advisable that some method be adopted to determine the one most important, and submit that, and that alone, to the plebiscite.

GOOD ROADS AND DRAINAGE.

"There must be no backward step taken in the construction and maintenance of good roads throughout the commonwealth, and in the development of a conservative forestry policy. The so called Dunn law, in my judgment a well balanced enactment, may perhaps be made better by some minor changes, but on the whole it is working well. The amount of money expended for roads increased more than 200 per cent in the six years ending in 1913, and so large an expenditure directs the attention of the people to the work accomplished and the methods pursued. Care must be taken lest criticism develop into antagonism, and it would be well to leave with the local authorities as much control and direction of road work as is compatible with uniform improvement of the highways throughout the state.

WOULD LIMIT OFFICE TERMS.

"The proposal will meet opposition; first, from those who believe that party service should be rewarded by public place, and, secondly, from those who believe it unwise to establish an officeholding class. To the objection of the first, it can only be said that it is an effort to promote the interest of the state rather than the interest of a political organization. But to the objection of the second, a further answer should be made. The merit system has been adopted by the federal government, and appointments to the civil service of the United States are now made in the manner in which it is proposed to make them in Minnesota. Those in the federal classified service are inclined to feel that, once appointed, they have such an interest in their positions that they will not care to be removed without their consent. Where there is no provision for retirement on pay or for pensions many thoroughly inefficient employees are retained in the service, to the detriment of the work and the discipline of the administrative corps. I think, if the merit system is established, the term of those appointed should not be indefinite, but should be made for fixed periods, say, for six years, the efficient and worthy to be eligible for reappointment. The proposed scheme of reorganization has not only the approval of thousands of representative citizens, but it has been commended by the press and from the platform. It cannot be disregarded. It must have your best thought and your most careful consideration. In the report is included a form of bill for its enactment.

TEMPERANCE LEGISLATION.

"The last election there were six states whose governmental cost payments or expenses were less than $2 per capita; twenty from $2 to $4; eleven from $4 to $6; ten from $6 to $10, and one over $10 per capita. Minnesota is one of the ten states whose governmental cost payments or expenses were from $6 to $10 per capita.
