Alum In Bread

Mrs. C. C. H. writes: Are alum baking powders harmful to one having indigestion? Where can I get baking powder that contains no alum?

Reply
1. Thompson says that alum in bread in large quantities (from baking powder) is astringent and injurious to the digestion.
2. Ask your grocer for baking powder that contains no alum. There are several standard brands of alum-free baking powder.

—From "How to Keep Well" Column, By Dr. W. A. Evans, in Chicago Tribune, Feb. 12, 1915.

Royal Baking Powder contains no alum or any ingredient that is not pure and wholesome beyond question. It is made from cream of tartar which comes from grapes.

Churches don't need new members half so much as they need the old bunch made over.
I believe that a long step toward public good will have been taken when sins are called by their right name.
The bars of the church are so low that any old hog with two or three suits of clothes and a bank roll can crawl through.

Home is the place we love best and where we grumble the most.
The man who lives for himself alone will be the sole mourner at his own funeral.
When your heart is breaking you don't want the dancing master or saloonkeeper. You want the preacher.

The church gives the people what they need; the theater gives them what they want.
If I was a devil I would rather live in a good, decent hog than in lots of men.
The saloon business has cost the country fifty times more than the revenue derived from it.

What the church needs is not a larger membership, a new carpet, a bigger pipe organ, but more men who know how to pray.
Don't try to feed the intellectual raffias of your congregation. If you do the sheep will starve to death.
There's no better anchorage on God's earth, young fellow, than your mother's apron string.

Being a king, an emperor or a president is mighty small potatoes compared to being a mother or the teacher of children.
You might as well expect a motor-man to pull a car uphill by blowing.

God doesn't save on the installment plan. A man is either on the road to heaven or on the road to hell.
God Almighty enjoys a little fun sometimes. He made monkeys and parrots and donkeys—and some of you.
It's easy for you to sit in the cushioned pew in church and sing "Rescue the Perishing" and never stretch forth a hand to do it.
God has marked out the same path for both men and women. It makes no difference whether the one who sins wears a plug hat or a petticoat.
If men had half as much grit as women there would be different stories written about a good many homes.

Home is on a level with the women; the town is on the level with the homes.
There was no humanitarianism before Jesus Christ came.
It's everybody's business how you live.
Some persons think they have to look like a hedgehog to be pious.
Look into the preaching Jesus did and you will find it aimed at the big sinners on the front seats.
A revival gives the church a little digitals instead of an opiate.
Theology bears the same relation to Christianity that botany does to flowers.
Morality isn't the light; it is only the polish on the candlestick.
The dance is immoral. Every man and woman carries a breast full of passions, the same as are possessed by the bad, and those passions become a tinder box to consume morals whenever brought into contact with the temptress.
If you live wrong you can't die right.
Some homes need a hickory stick a good deal more than they do a piano.

You'll find it worth while, when you do any painting or have it done for you, to ask your painter to tell you how many gallons you will need for the job.

Then order Devos' Lead-and-Zinc Paint; as many gallons as he says. Arrange with the dealer to take back what isn't used.
You'll take back from a quarter to a half the quantity you order, as a rule; a direct saving of money to you. It has been proved many times. Order Devos.

Can Uncle Sam Preserve Neutrality?
Our foreign relations have been strained almost to the breaking point. The United States has been led down to the very brink of war. The Cartoons in this magazine are the spirit of the times and are recording with their pens this critical chapter in the nation's history.
CARTOONS MAGAZINE
Presently every month the cream of caricature artists in America and Europe are contributing a panorama of the war. What the nation thinks of each other is best told by the cartoons which under the surface and echoes the very thoughts of the people. The Cartoons Magazine is the most interesting continued story of world events ever written. The pictorial pages are supplemented by well-selected editorial comments and special articles. BILLY SUNDAY'S BEST EPIGRAMS

Evangelist's Sharp Sayings Hold Crowds Spe Ibound.

Be natural. I try to be. I don't have one tone of voice here and another when I go to the grocery.

"When You Quit Living Like the Devil I Will Quit Preaching That Way."
"No Man Has Any Business to Be in a Bad Business"—"Whisky All Right in Its Place, but Place is Hell."

APPENDED are some of the best epigrams uttered by Billy Sunday, the remarkable evangelist.
Mr. Sunday's sermons are a succession of epigrams, and that they are effective is attested by the throngs who are "hitting the trail."
In our standard of gold and silver Abraham was worth $1,500,000,000. David was worth $3,000,000,000 and Solomon more than $5,000,000,000. Solomon could have had Carnegie for his chauffeur, Rockefeller to cut his lawn and Morgan for his butler.

Let the Bible come, and the novels will go.
You will find a lot of things in Shakespeare which are not fit for reading in a mixed audience and call that literature. It makes all the difference whether Bill Shakespeare or Bill Sunday said it.

When you quit living like the devil I will quit preaching that way.
No man has any business to be in a bad business.
Whisky is all right in its place—but its place is hell.

It won't save your soul if your wife is a Christian. You have got to be something more than a brother-in-law to the church.
If every black cloud had a cyclone in it the world would have been blown to toothpicks long ago.

You can't raise the standard of women's morals by raising their pay envelope. It lies deeper than that.
Bob Ingersoll wasn't the first to find out that Moses made mistakes. God knew about it long before Ingersoll was born.

Going to church doesn't make a man a Christian any more than going to a garage makes him an automobile.
Don't try to be a Daniel Webster Jesus put the cookies and jam on the lowest shelf.
