CAPITAL NEWS LETTER.

Governor Hammond spoke at the Stearns County Fair at Sauk Centre recently. Frank M. Eddy said in the Sauk Centre Herald that it was a liberty classic and ought to be published in every newspaper.

"We have had the good fortune to listen to some great speeches on great occasions," says Mr. Eddy. "We heard Chief Justice Taft's great silver effort in the halls of Congress, which made him famous in two continents; we sat spellbound when Robert G. Cousins delivered his brief, but wonderful oration on the destruction of the Machine in the Havana harbor, an effort second only to Lincoln's Gettysburg address; we have heard other great addresses, when momentous interests were at stake and strong passions excited, and we have no hesitation in saying that Governor Hammond's address, in rhetorical arrangement, appropriateness of circumstances, oratorical excellence, dramatic delivery, earnestness of sentiment and pathetic Americanism, equaled anything we have ever heard."

"W. S. Hammond is governor sure enough and every soul around the capitol realized it. He welcomes advice and then acts as he pleases.—Anoka Union.

The Minnesota dairy cow brings her owner $100,000,000 annually according to figures compiled by J. J. Farrell, state dairy and feed commissioner. In only two states, New York and Wisconsin, do the cows bring their owners greater returns. Next below Minnesota is Iowa while Illinois is fifth. In quality Minnesota is first.

Of the $100,000,000 earned for the farmers by the cows, nearly $40,000,000 was paid through creameries for butter fat, while the balance includes the products of these factories, all ice cream, all milk sold or used for home consumption and the value of the calves produced each year.

The resources of the State Department of Game and Fish are taxed to the limit to meet the insistent demand for fish fry for stocking and replenishing lakes and streams and for doing the necessary patrol duty incident to the enforcement of the laws. Commissioner Carlos Avery reports that during the past season, for one variety of fish fry 42,700 fry in each lake stocked. Assuming that one in 100 of these young fish escape the fate of so many of their fellows and reach maturity and are caught when weighing an average of three pounds each, the result was a husking contest of four bushel baskets of corn. H. Brix was first, with Ernest Johnson and K. Bralund close after.

Refreshments were served to seventy and five new members joined the club.

Double Tragedy. Spurred by the 19-year old waitress with whom he had been infatuated for seven years, the late John Swenson, a retired bartender, shot and killed Della Benz and then turned the revolver on himself, the bullet passing through his brain. The tragedy took place Oct. 25. According to the information secured, Swenson had been paying attentions to Miss Benz for some time, and she had on previous occasions accompanied him to social gatherings and the theatre. The man called on the girl at the home of her parents. Though no witnesses heard the conversation, it is believed that the man continued to press his suit, demanding an immediate marriage, which was denied. The sound of the shots brought the girl's relatives to the room where they found both Swenson and Miss Benz dead. The girl has for some time been employed in the Palmer House and bore an excellent reputation. The man was of a quarrelsome nature but was popular.

Absentmindedness. A one day last week a Grove City man in his wife was planning to go to Diamond Lake by the boat. They were all ready to start except cranking the auto, but the cranking was a long job, and the good wife got tired waiting and went in the house. The auto was started by the gentleman, but he mistook the car for his wife. On the way home he inquired along the road if any one had seen his wife, thinking he had lost her on the way.—Litchfield Independent.
