Substantial reductions in price of all regular lines of Ladies' Shoes

Shoes Are Advancing in Price

A DOUBLE SAVING IN BUYING AT THIS SALE
(By Associated Press.)

St. Louis, July 31—St. Louis shoe manufacturers announce that the public will have to pay from 10 to 20 per cent more for shoes this fall and winter.

It is said shoes which heretofore have been sold at from $2 to $4.50 a pair will cost 50 to 75 cents a pair more, while $5, $6 and $7 shoes will average a dollar higher.

The principal causes for the increase in prices is the heavy export of shoes to the countries at war, scarcity of raw hides from those countries and a scarcity of ships to bring raw materials to the United States.—St. Paul Dispatch.

Men's Shoes

250 pair Oxfords, values to $4.00, on table $1.45

200 pair Oxfords, values $3.50 to $4.00... $2.45

NORWAY LAKE.

Norway Lake, Aug. 7—Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Solberg and daughter, Stella left for their home in Minneapolis today after a week's visit with relatives and friends here.

Miss Mabel Swenson returned from Minneapolis last Saturday.
Herman Edman had an accident last Thursday, in breaking one of his fingers. At present he is getting along nicely.

A large crowd gathered at the Norway Lake shores last Sunday for a day's outing.

Mrs. G. Stene will entertain the Ladies' Aid Thursday afternoon, August 17. Everybody welcome.

Miss Agnes Larson visited with Mr. and Mrs. Herman Strand last Sunday and Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnny Walby left for Gerretson, S. D., last week. They were accompanied by Martin Walby who has a building contract at that place.

Grain cutting is almost finished in this locality and stacking and shock threshing is in full blast.

The Misses Julia and Lottie Syverson have returned from Twin Valley after a month's sojourn with relatives and friends.

Lester Sorum of Detroit is visiting with his cousins at M. O. Rustad's.
Gunder Pederson and family of Mamre were seen amongst the crowd at Norway Lake last Sunday.

Why They Walk in Circles.

"If you were lost in a desert or in a forest and tried to find your way out," says a well known scientist, "you would be almost sure to walk in a circle." This well known fact is due to a slight inequality in the length of the legs. Careful measurements of a series of skeletons have shown that only 10 per cent had the lower limbs equal in length, 35 per cent had the right limb longer than the left, while in 55 per cent the left limb was the longer.

The result of one limb being longer than the other will naturally be that a person will unconsciously take a longer step with the longer limb, and consequently will tend to the right or left, according as the left or right leg is the longer. The left leg being more frequently the longer, the inclination should take place more frequently to the right than to the left, and this conclusion is quite borne out by observations made on a number of persons when walking blindfolded. The inequality in the length of limb is not confined to any sex or race, but seems to be universal in all respects.

A Misunderstanding.

Dry Goods Clerk—We are selling these goods at 98 cents, madam, but they will not last more than a day or two. Customer—They won't? I wonder you have the cheek to offer them to anybody.—Pittsburgh Chronicle.

Why We Have Two Eyes.

Because we have two eyes the things we see seem solid and not flat, with the result that we can judge their distance from us with fair correctness. Look through a window at a house across the street with one eye closed and then with the other eye closed. The bars of the window frame will cut across the opposite house in different places. The two fields seen with the eyes separately, although in the main alike, differ. When you look at the house with both eyes open the two fields seen by the two eyes are combined and the house across the street assumes depth and relief. Although we see a house with each eye, we see only one house with both eyes. This makes the stereoscope possible—an instrument so designed that the two eyes are made to converge on a single point and yet to see two different pictures. If these two pictures represent a chair as it would appear to the right and left eyes respectively they are perceived as one solid object.—Popular Science Monthly.

Two Views of a Treaty.

The treaty of Ghent, which ended the war of 1812, as signed on the 28th of December, 1814, was variously regarded. Henry Clay, one of the signers, thought it "a bad treaty" and did not hesitate to say so. In certain high quarters in England, on the other hand, it was looked upon as a great opportunity thrown away.
"An able minister would have continued the war," Lieutenant General Sir Charles Napier declared, "until the northern states withdrew from the Union, making a separate treaty with England, after which England could have raised the troops of the south, marched to Washington at the head of an immense force of armed and disciplined black regiments and dictated peace, making Delaware an independent black state in alliance with England." So much depends upon the point of view.—From "Our Nation in the Building," by Helen Nicolay, in Century Magazine.

Tricks of the Trade.

When the little blond stenographer visited her friend, the tall brunette bookkeeper, the other day she found the latter busy with a lot of envelopes and some paste.
"Why don't you get good envelopes so they'll stick?" she asked.
"These did stick once," the brunette confided, "but I'm fixing them again."
"What's the idea?"
"Whenever people come into the office for my boss he likes to make them think he is rushed to death."
"Uh huh!"
"So you see I am fixing up these old letters. He will make a great fuss opening them when a customer calls. He does that so much we have a hard time keeping a supply of letters to stick up."—Exchange.

The Word Galters.

Episcopal galters cannot date from a very remote antiquity. The very word "galters" is almost a newcomer to the language. Johnson's Dictionary does not recognize its existence. It does not occur before 1700, and even in 1822 a military dictionary had to define it as "a sort of spatterdash." "Guetre," however, the French original, goes back at least to the fifteenth century, and the origin of that is lost, though etymologists compare all sorts of words in all sorts of languages, including an old German word for a baby's christening cloth. The one certainty that galters has nothing to do with "galt" in spite of the punning line in the "Rejected Addresses"—"Lax in their galters, laxer in their gait."—London Spectator.

Neglected.

Smitty (taking his watch from under his pillow)—Quarter to 8 and no one has come to wake me yet. I shall certainly be late for class if they don't come soon.—Lehigh Burr.

His Testimonial.

Ananias—Is the Junction House a good hotel? Job—Why, I wouldn't even lodge a complaint there.—Dartmouth Jack o' Lantern.

Some people are so fond of ill luck that they run halfway to meet it.—Douglas Jerrold.

Levi V. Lund Writes.

Kandiyohi Minn., Aug. 8, 1916.
Officers, Board of Directors, Stockholders and Friends, of the Kandiyohi Farmers' Union Elevator Company:
Ten years ago today I entered the employ of your company as manager. With four grain elevators here, competing for the business at this place, my expectations were not great. Our business, however, has been continually growing, year by year, and the amount of business handled in the past ten years, has been very satisfactory.

As manager, I feel that our success is largely due to your loyalty, and favors, for which I wish to thank you. We are now in a better position than ever to serve you, and want you to know, we are now entering the new year, with a more firm determination than ever to live up to our old motto, "A Fair and Impartial Treatment to All."

Again thanking you for your favors, and trusting our dealings in the past will warrant more confidence in the future, I remain,
Yours very truly,
LEVI V. LUND, Mgr.

Massage

And Swedish Movements, the reliable, tried out over and over again, and given by G. D. Forsell, Doctor of Massage, is a treatment most effective and helpful in various diseases. It promotes local and general circulation of the blood, so necessary for good health, strengthens the muscular system and make weak nerves strong and hardy. Nothing like it for back and spine troubles! The muscular man (woman and child) is the man of today. Any one with stomach complaints and rheumatism should NOT fail to take the treatments. A weak stomach with indigestion pleads for MASSAGE; what will be your reply? Decide today. Electro Therapy with the treatments. Electro Therapy
