WILLMAR TRIBUNE Established Feb. 19, 1895. Published every Wednesday at 328-330 Benson Ave., Willmar, Minn., by Victor E. Lawson, under the firm name of Tribune Printing Company.

Impressive evidence of the strong appeal which Woodrow Wilson's candidacy is making to the great body of independent voters from coast to coast is furnished by the public declarations in his favor of scores of eminent citizens regardless of past party affiliations in all walks of life during the past week. Charles W. Eliot, president emeritus of Harvard University, Henry Ford, Amos Pinchot, former Republican United States Senator, H. C. Hansbrough, David Lubin, father of the Rural Credits movement, and Ida Tarbell, are only a few of many equally notable additions to the tremendous growing list of former Independents, Republicans and Progressives who have actively aligned themselves with the Wilson movement.

former Progressives, Independents and Republicans. The work of organizing is making marked progress. PENNSYLVANIA—Reputating the action of the National Committee of Progressives, whom they charge with betrayal, members of the Washington Party of Philadelphia have formally endorsed President Wilson as the logical candidate to be supported by Progressives in the coming election. Resolutions were adopted declaring that President Wilson was working for the best interests of the nation; that he had saved the country from war with foreign powers and with Mexico; and that he had inspired constructive legislation.

WASHINGTON—"Added impetus was given the Woodrow Wilson boom in the Pacific Northwest by the Hughes' Western campaign tour writes D. M. Deeg, of Goshen, one of the leading educators of the State, to the Woodrow Wilson Independent League. "The tide here is running strongly Wilson-ward. Mr. Hughes' Western drive instead checks a movement which was hoped and prayed for by his friends, has given it an added impetus. "It is becoming more and more apparent as the days pass that Mr. Hughes is Wilson's campaigner, and it is patent to the most casual observer that the Wilson sentiment is gaining hourly in momentum. Mr. Hughes has not measured up to what he was thought to be capable of, and had he not straddled between the Old Guard and the Progressive wings of his party and in this has made a miserable failure."

Recent word received at the New York headquarters of the League of Washington states: "Two additional leagues organized today. We have elected William H. Gorman, a life-long Republican and prominent Seattle attorney, vice-president of the State Woodrow Wilson Independent League and Robert C. Proctor, President of the Central Labor Council and former Republican, as a member of the Executive Committee, of the same organization."

WHERE PUBLIC OWNERSHIP SUCCEEDS. While the managers of privately owned American railways complain of inability to give efficient service, with reasonable working hours, without increased rates, the government owned roads of New Zealand checks a different showing. The Auckland Star of July 26 presents figures from the railway statement. These show total receipts on operation of 2,970 miles of railway to have been £4,548,346, while the expenditures were £2,107,883, leaving a net balance of £1,637,473. This is 4.39 per cent on capital invested. In view of these facts American railroad management is convicted of inefficiency when the claim is advanced that private ownership of public utilities that the nature of the case must make government management less efficient than private. According to this claim, New Zealand management must be less efficient than American management might be, and nothing but exceptional inefficiency can account for the alleged need of higher rates in the United States to make possible improvements in service in the United States can not make at least as good a showing as public ownership in New Zealand, then the case for private ownership is lost.—The Public.

FORCE SETTLES NOTHING. Nothing is truer than that force settles nothing save which contestant is the stronger. The trainmen's eight-hour law was due in reality not to the power of the trainmen, but to the pressure of public opinion; and the law will remain on the statutes, not for fear of a strike, but because of public approval. It would be absurd to say that the action of Congress was due to intimidation. Such a contention would be contrary to the rule of the many by the few. The few may control the many by trickery, but not by force. Congress and the Administration were simply confronted with a certain, though with great possible injury to the country. There were no laws governing the situation. Neither the managers nor the men would yield. The passage of the eight-hour law, and the law empowering the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate the whole question, postponed the crisis. Insofar as the action of Congress had the appearance of yielding to force, it was wrong; but insofar as its action is just and squares with public opinion it is right, regardless of the action of the men.—The Public.

Johnson place when Axel and Albert Lundquist were returning home from Willmar in an automobile and came with a terrible speed, crashing into a buggy driven by Mr. and Mrs. Victor Norling. They were thrown from the buggy and the car was dragged several rods until the car was brought to a stop. While Mr. Lundquist was backing his car, it bumped into a roadster driven by Willmar Lundquist and on his car the lamps were smashed. Mrs. Norling was rendered unconscious and received a broken nose and other bruises, and Victor received a cut in the head. Sheriff Lands His Man. Some time ago a horse and set of harness and flynets were stolen from the Alfred Harris barn at Hawick and Sheriff Bonde was notified and set out on the trail. The result of the hunt for the thief or thieves came last week when the sheriff went to Cohasset, and returned with one, O. S. Curtis who turns out to be the culprit. Last Wednesday his preliminary examination was held and he was bound over to await the action of the grand jury, on a charge of grand larceny in the first degree. He claims he had sold the horse, and the new owner refused to pay him for it, so he entered the barn at night to secure his property. The case will come up in the fall term of court which opens next week Monday. President Wilson Looms Up. Some one polled the passengers on No. 1 coming from Minneapolis Friday night and the result was as follows: Hughes, 18; Wilson, 32; undecided, 6.

MARK YOU WELL: MOISTURE IS VITAL TO HEALTH! THIS PATENTED ROUND OAK HUMIDIFIER SUPPLIES IT. This distinctively new improvement is exclusive with the Round Oak Fuel Burner. It returns the moisture to the air as fast as the stove steals it. A teakettle or other closed-top receptacle is not only unsightly on this parlor stove, but when very hot delivers steam—result, excessive moisture. This Round Oak improvement returns moisture to the air as rapidly as the stove steals it, without boiling. It assures abundant vitality and health. Song birds and plants will thrive in this atmosphere. Compare this with the dry, parched condition of the air where other heating stoves are used. WHAT OF FUEL ECONOMY? The genuine Round Oak Base Burner alone uses each side of the ash pan as a radiating surface. These exclusive, patented improvements steal sufficient heat from the chimney to heat an extra room. Now examine the size of the circulating flue that takes the cold air off the floor and sends it out through the top of the stove superheated. These two improvements alone will save sufficient fuel, over other stoves, to pay the interest on your investment. Grant us the opportunity of showing these three marked improvements, together with the several others, found only in this specialty. The price is no greater than others charge for so-called high-grade base burners which possess none of these vital improvements. Sold only by AUGUST HOGLUND WILLMAR
