FORMAL OPENING OF OPERA HOUSE

Immense Crowd Attends Opening Picture at Dreamland Monday Evening.

Willmar's new opera house was opened last Monday evening, with the showing of the wonderful Vitagraph picture, "God's Country and the Woman." In the neighborhood of eleven hundred persons were in attendance at the two performances given that evening. The building is a beauty, and one of which the city may well be proud. The lobby is large, measuring 18 by 20 feet, with a tile floor, and mahogany finished wood work. It is paneled with plate mirrors on two sides, and there are plate mirrors on the double doors at each side of the ticket booth, which has been built in the center of the lobby.

The foyer has a depth of eight feet, and runs clear across the house. At the right after entering, there is a lounge room, with easy chairs and a settee. There are plate mirrors on each side of the entrance doors. The foyer rail is finished with velour draperies in old rose lavender shades, and grey Austrian curtains, with lambeau effect trimmed with gold braid, across the entire length. The main auditorium has a seating capacity of about 475. The chairs are of Circassian walnut, upholstered in Spanish leather. The woodwork of the auditorium is also of Circassian walnut finish. The walls are paneled in a broad effect, in old rose lavender panels, outlined with gold, and a border, about eighteen inches wide, of French grey, above the dado. The dado is done in French grey and rose shades.

The proscenium arch and beams across the ceiling are of stucco work, done by the Curtiss Stucco Manufacturing Co. of Minneapolis. They are finished in the old ivory tint. The stucco work is all done in the old Italian Renaissance style. It was designed by one of the best designers of this kind of work, west of New York City, E. Roy Curtis of Minneapolis, who was in charge of the work here. The front of the balcony has a number of rosettes finished in old ivory.

For the pictures, the indirect lighting system is used, and there are six bowls, made of the stucco, finished in ivory. The main house lights are underneath the bowls.

The balcony seats in the neighborhood of 100, and the music is furnished by a ladies' orchestra, consisting of the Misses Olive Crosby at the piano, Ina Brynildsen at the organ and Lucille Brynildsen, trap drummer.

J. H. Olsen of this city had the contract for the building and the interior decorations, so greatly admired by everyone, were done by Iver Lindquist of this city. Peter Pearson installed the electrical equipment for the house. The plumbing was done by H. Wiggins Co. The building will be heated with steam from the power house. The draperies were designed and made by the New England Furniture Co. of Minneapolis.

The building is a near fireproof as a modern structure can be made. The pictures to be shown at Dreamland, Metro and V. L. S. E. programs. Otto Kauts of this city is the machine operator.

Musical Friday Evening.

On Friday evening of this week, at the First Presbyterian church, the Christian Endeavor society will give a musical program, after which light refreshments will be served. The program will begin at eight o'clock, and the admission fee will be but ten cents. Following is the program to be rendered:

Judge and Mrs. Richard T. Daly and two friends were seen here Tuesday, enroute to Kandiyohi lake. The former was distributing cards for reelection for District Judge.

You cannot make a mistake if you buy a "Sound Oak" from August Hoglund.—Adv.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

U. S. Senator Knute Nelson Roasts President Wilson in Characteristic Style.

The Republican State Committee saw fit to open its state campaign at Sunburg in Kandiyohi county, fourteen miles from a railway, last Saturday, when U. S. Senator Knute Nelson made the keynote speech. A special train of Twin City and state capital politicians came out on the Soo line to Brocton and made the pilgrimage by auto from Brocton to add weight to the occasion. There were several auto loads from Willmar, four of autos from Alexandria, and from other towns to help swell the crowd of local people who naturally felt honored by the visit of the senator to their burg, by reason of which it has become the best advertised inland town in the state. The delegation on the special train was late in arriving. The meeting was held in a show tent which was too small to room the crowd. There were preliminary speeches by Mr. Lundeen and Charley Elmquist. Senator Nelson had his speech, which appeared in the daily city press the same afternoon. It required a long time (some say two hours) for the senator to read his speech. The event was well staged, but evoked but little enthusiasm among those who attended from here. The following is a synopsis of Senator Nelson's speech:

NELSON'S SPEECH.
Owing to dissensions in the ranks of the Republican party, and to the fact that it had two candidates in the field, Woodrow Wilson was, in the fall of 1912, elected president of the United States by a minority, though a plurality, of those who voted at that election. The fact that he was chosen by a minority ought to have made him less partisan and more considerate of the welfare of the American people. He ought to have been less eager to inflict his ultra-Democratic propaganda upon the American people, for he held an elective mandate only from a minority. He had no right to assume that a majority of the people were in favor of him because he was a Democrat, or that they were in favor of radical, socialistic, and ultra-economic schemes of Democratic legislation.

Seeks to Dominate Congress.
No president, since the days of Jackson, has so sought to dominate congress and to subordinate it to his will and to dictate the legislative policy of the country as President Wilson. To accomplish this purpose and for the sake of notoriety, he began, at the outset of his administration, to adopt the custom of delivering in person, orally, his messages to the two houses of congress in joint session. By such an oral message he inaugurated his tariff legislation, and by such an oral message—his last—he urged and induced congress to pass the law giving certain classes of railroad men—the best paid men in the railroad service—the same pay for an eight hour day's work that they were receiving for a ten hour day's work, or an increase by legislative fiat, of twenty-five per cent.

Legislation inspired by the president, and fortified by caucus rule, has, to a large extent, been the method that has prevailed under this Democratic administration. And under this method congress has been in session two years, seven months and fifteen days of the three years and seven months that have transpired of President Wilson's term. This leaves less than a year of his term up to date that congress has not been in session.

Tariff Protection Destroyed.
President Wilson was inaugurated the 4th of March, 1913. Although our country was then in a most prosperous condition, under the Republican tariff law of 1909, yet his first purpose was to uproot and destroy this system of tariff protection and to substitute therefor a so-called free trade, or "tariff for revenue only," system.

In pursuance of this policy, he summoned congress in extra session; and congress, in obedience to such summons, met on the 17th of June, 1913.

On Tuesday morning the spelling classes began. It is required that the Freshmen and Sophomores take one Spelling lesson a week.

Tuesday evening the Boys' Glee Club practised. They have an early start this year and perhaps will be heard often, it is taken for granted.

The end of the first month has come and gone. Query: Why are the teachers happy? As a result book agents are numerous. Can you guess why?

Myrtle Felt and Frances Hed have enrolled for the regular high school course. Arthur Greenfield from Clara City has enrolled for the Normal course.

The periods of the high school course have been changed from four weeks to six weeks. This means the report cards will be given out only six times this year. It gives the pupil a longer time between examinations and more is accomplished.

Case-Koch.
Last Saturday afternoon at five o'clock, occurred the marriage of Miss Louisa Case, of Wisconsin, to John Koch, of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. A. Rice of the First M. E. church in the presence of only relatives and immediate friends. The attendants were Ed Koch, a brother of the groom, and Mrs. Theodore Rosby. Mrs. W. A. Rice played the wedding march. Following the ceremony a bountiful wedding dinner was served. Mr. and Mrs. Koch will be at home at 406 11th St. The groom has a position as foreman of one of the carpenter crews on the Great Northern railroad, with headquarters in this city.

Needlework Guild.

OCTOBER TERM OF DISTRICT COURT

Grand Jury Completes Work in Quick Time Bringing in Four Indictments.

The October term of District Court is on in full sway at the court house this week. On the civil calendar a number of cases have already been disposed of. The case of the State Bank of Morton versus Frank E. and Maggie A. Adams was continued by consent until next term. The first road appeal case, Swan Nelson versus County of Kandiyohi was settled and disposed of in accordance with the written stipulation filed. Judgment is to be entered in accordance with the order filed. In the matter of Ole Wold versus E. T. Bergquist, in regard to wages the plaintiff claimed were owed him by the defendant, after a good share of the testimony in the case was heard, it was dismissed on motion of the plaintiff's attorney, John I. Davis of Benson. Axel Solberg, plaintiff was awarded a verdict of $150 by the jury, in his suit against C. A. Berg of the town of Kandiyohi. He was suing for $250.

As this is written the case of Carl Christensen versus William Dowdell, is on trial. The former is suing to recover what he claims is due him for some tile work done on the latter's farm some time ago. R. H. Dart of Litchfield is here handling the plaintiff's case, and R. W. Stanford of this city appears for the defendant. Another road appeal case, C. F. Wendlandt versus town board of Roseville et al, was disposed of in the same manner as the former road appeal.

On the criminal calendar, the case of the State of Minnesota versus James W. Wise and D. B. Morrow was discontinued, on a motion by the county attorney, owing to the fact that there is not enough evidence on the case. The cases involving the State of Minnesota versus John Gaasterland and Alton Sperry were all continued.

The Grand Jury was in session on Monday afternoon and a part of Tuesday, returning four indictments. August Lundquist of Kandiyohi was foreman and C. E. Melbye of Thorpe, secretary of the jury.

A. S. Curtis was arraigned on a charge of grand larceny in the first degree, and Elliot Iverson on a charge of grand larceny in the second degree.
