WILLMAR TRIBUNE, WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 4, 1916

VOLSTEAD'S CHAIRMANSHIP.

Being a lawyer, Congressman Volstead has been appointed a member of the judiciary committee of the House. Having been re-elected for a long succession of years he has become the ranking Republican member of this committee, and is in line for the chairmanship in case his party controls Congress. If this should happen he would be in position to assist the temperance cause very materially, his friends say. This appears to be the main argument used by Volstead's backers why he should be again elected to Congress.

While it may be admitted that such a promotion would be a very nice thing for Mr. Volstead, we may be pardoned if we suggest that there would be little advantage for the people of the district in his becoming the head lawyer of Congress. The added responsibilities assumed and restraining influences of the reactionary high councils of his party would effectively tie his hands for him and prevent his promoting any remedial legislation. For mind you, the very same contingency that would give him this chairmanship would make Joseph G. Cannon speaker or chairman of the appropriations committee, Joseph W. Fordney, a deep-throated stand-patter, chairman of the ways and means, Boies Penrose, chairman of the senate finance committee, Henry A. DuPont head of military affairs, Sutherland, Lorillard's friends, all preside over privileges and elections and a long list of stand-patters would control party councils and committees. This is a contingency that the seventeen thousand voters who voted for Roosevelt in the Seventh District in 1912 may well stop and consider. They broke away from the Republican party in 1912 because this crowd that now is in line for the best positions and influence in Congress stood for reactionary policies and blocked all reform at the national convention. Will these voters now surrender their convictions? Voting to give Volstead his chairmanship will be voting to give these other fellows THEIR chairmanships.

The best that can be said of Volstead is that he has passively acquiesced in the reforms which have swept his district dry. We know of no instance where he was militant when the battle was on at home. He had his ear close to the ground and voted so as not to offend his district, and that is all that can be said for him. He has been amply repaid by the people for all that he has done for them.

If we understand the temper of the people correctly they intend to elect a man to Congress this fall whose sympathies are wholly with the common people. A man who has for years fought ably and well on the firing line against corruption and political chicanery. A man whose training as a speaker and in public life fits him exceptionally well for the position. A man who has the ability and courage to get up in Congress and call a spade a spade, and who will be the people's advocate in the truest sense of the word. That man is Senator E. E. Lobeck, and public senti-

A STRONG HOME ENDORSEMENT

Senator Lobeck's Candidacy For Congress Takes Well in Alexandria.

The standpatters who have been sitting on the lid for years and years in order to prevent or delay reform legislation that has been demanded by the people for the last decade are standing aghast at the wave of sentiment which is sweeping the Seventh District in favor of Senator E. E. Lobeck, the people's man for Congress, and well they may. The following endorsement given Senator Lobeck in his home town, which is also the home of U. S. Senator Knute Nelson is very highly significant. It is declared to be only a partial list of the influential supporters of Lobeck, in that community:

We the undersigned citizens of the City of Alexandria and Douglas county, hereby endorse the candidacy of Sen. E. E. Lobeck for Congress. Mr. Lobeck has been a resident of this city for many years and we know him to be well qualified to discharge the duties of this important office.

Geo. Sussens, County Superintendent of Schools.

Prof. F. M. Yockey, Superintendent of City Public Schools.
