Feeling the Public Pulse

By simply keeping a classified record of requests made for her pictures in different characters, Norma Talmadge, star of the Selznick-Pictures feature, "Poppy," is able to keep in personal touch with the preferences of her public, thus determining what sort of roles best fit her. Lists so compiled have been kept by Miss Talmadge for years.

Wanted to be Gypsy

If Norma Talmadge, star of "Poppy," written by Wilson Miner, which Joseph M. Schenck has released through Selznick Pictures, had followed the inclinations of her youth, she would today be known probably as the Jersey gypsy instead of the movie queen. Well-to-do and urbane parents residing in Newark, N. J., stood sternly between Miss Talmadge and the realization of her childhood ambitions to join a band of wandering gypsies.

AN ENTIRE CHANGE OF POLICY AND MANAGEMENT BEGINNING THURSDAY, AUG. 30. The United Theatres Co. control a large chain of theatres throughout the Northwest and are now prepared to offer to the people of Willmar at a minimum admission price the highest class of entertainment obtainable. The United Circuit, with its vast purchasing power, makes it possible to present attractions heretofore seen only in the larger cities.

Frank M. Eddy.

So far in this holocaust of death that has been sweeping over Europe there has not been a single Kaiserling. Emporing, Kingling or Prince-ling that has so much as received a scratch in battle and the only stains on their uniforms are wine stains.
Sometimes a man thinks he is a leader when he is only making a holy show of himself.
A girl with a nine dollar pair of silk stockings likes to have her escort take her walking where snakes abound.
In order to make both ends meet the government is planning on two meatless days each week.
There is no dollar jingle in music of the heavenly choir.
Uncle Sam ought to take some of his adopted nieces and nephews out into the woods and hold a brief but interesting session with them.
Men brag a whole lot more about being the head of the family in bar-rooms than they do in kitchens.
Sometimes married life is one grand round of song.

Little Susie, proudly. "My papa has got an appointment from the government. Little Elizabeth, contemptuously. "That's nothing, my papa is under an indictment by the government."
The burden of the quitter's song is, "We are loyal in everything except loyalty."
The only place where masculinity monopolizes the conversation is in meetings held for "Men Only."
The main desire of mankind is to have others see us as we see ourselves and not to see ourselves as others see us.
When anyone remarks that talk is cheap remind him that Uncle Sam pays his senators and representatives in congress $3,985,500, each year for talking and besides think of all the damage their talking does.
The poorest man in the world is the one who dies and leaves nothing for his heirs but wealth.
He may not be so handsome, We're speaking of the Kaiser, But when this war is ended, He'll be a whole lot wiser.
A man or a nation that waits for an enemy to cross his home threshold before offering resistance is a coward.
The Kaiser has a white elephant on his hands. Siam has declared war against Germany.
American soldiers are singing "Die Wacht am Rhine," on European battle-front with accent on the "Die."
A wife would be horribly disappointed if her husband did all the things she told him to do.
Advertising is simply putting legs on your business sign and setting it up in everybody's dwelling.
Curb stone treason will cost the lives of men, but turbstone patriotism will never capture a trench.
Soldiers cannot win an engagement without powder but it is different with girls.
It is the glances in a pair of spectacles that side the vision not the beauty of the face.

If advice givers first tried out the counsel they so freely offered others themselves, there would be a whole lot less of gratuitous advice given.
Beauty bears no relation to efficiency but it is much easier for a pretty stenographer to get an engagement, than it is for a homely one.
It is all right to utilize "pull" in getting ahead in the world if you do your own pulling.
The great bulk of the world's fault finders is composed of those who have no reason to find fault.
A society paper states that every gentleman's wardrobe should contain at least twenty pairs of trousers, but a country editor generally has only the pair he wears and hangs across the chair when he goes to bed.
There never was a kid that did not like to be paddled in a bathroom.
Nine out of ten of all the world's great accomplishments were achieved to please some woman.
NOT PERMITTED TO GO.
Dr. Hodgson failed to come up to the physical requirements at the army headquarters in Washington, where his report had been sent in from Minneapolis and where he had passed a successful physical examination and will therefore not be called to the colors as he expected to. Mr. Albert Tholen will take up his practice here September 1st and Mr. Hodgson has made no definite arrangements for the future.—Clara City Herald.
GOLD HOARDED UNDER WALK.
While workmen were tearing up the sidewalk in front of Harry Levoy's place in Montevideo one of them found $470 in gold pieces which was turned over to the police awaiting the owner who is not likely to be found as it appears the money was deposited there a long time ago. Tearing up sidewalks will probably now become a pleasant pastime in Montevideo.—Clara City Herald.
WANTS TO JOIN R. C. CORPS.
Dr. C. H. Holmquist, the chiropractor, has left Clara City for his home in Lyndale. We understand he is trying to get in the Red Cross branch of the army and navy department.
