

Get a piece of IRRIGATED LAND In The FAMOUS LOWER RIO GRANDE VALLEY TEXAS

It is said by experts that the climate exceeds that of California or Florida. Think what that means to you and your family. CLIMATE you cannot buy—you have to go to it.

What is nicer than out door life, sunshine, gentle gulf breeze, no mosquitoes, and instead of shoveling snow, you can gather flowers.

THE LOWER RIO GRANDE VALLEY offers a farmer the same general farming facilities to be had in the north; with better profits and less hazard. Think of the twelve months' growing season; no waiting; a harvest of some kind every month. Add to this, cheap labor, good weather, and water when you want it, no wonder we grow.

THE J. C. ENGELMAN LAND CO., 25 South Fourth Street Minneapolis, Minn. Runs a special train with private pullman cars, leaving Minneapolis for the Lower Rio Grande Valley every first and third Tuesday at 1:30 p.m., from the Union depot.

Special round trip tickets, including meals and sleeping berths. About 200 miles of auto ride through the same famous farming district in the Valley and a beautiful ride on the Gulf at Galveston, all for one price.

HAWICK.

Hawick, Nov. 26—Sheriff Peter Bonde was in town Monday on business.

Miss Mary McMahon, teacher in Dist. No. 1, entertained her pupils at a wiener and marshmallow roast in the nearby woods last Tuesday, after school. Misses Cora Benson, Emma and Laura Jones, Luella Johns and Sophia Iverson were guests at the roast.

The Hawick orchestra met at S. O. Suuag's Thursday evening for practice.

Edward Sunde transacted business in Willmar between trains Monday.

A number of our young people attended the movies in Paynesville on Tuesday evening.

The many friends of Allen Nelson were grieved to learn of his death which occurred somewhere in France in October. He was the son of N. P. and Mary Nelson, who formerly lived in Hawick when Mr. Nelson conducted a grocery store. From here, Allen moved with his parents to Canada. His mother and sister Alvira preceded him to the Great Beyond. The surviving members of the family have the sympathy of the entire community.

NEWS NOTES FROM CAMP DODGE

Interesting information from the Place Where Our Boys Are Training.

Division Headquarters, Camp Dodge, Iowa, Nov. 26.—It has been the fear of many a mother's heart when her son marched away that he would meet a more loathsome enemy before he reached the battle front.

She has heard how the moral fiber of the soldier is destroyed by the social vices which have been held so dear with the uniform. She has heard that association with women beyond the pale, barred by society in civil life, is tolerated and condoned by commanders; that it is looked upon as a necessary evil the moment red-blooded youth don the khaki. It is permitted, and winked at, she has been told, because it induces contentment. And contentment of the soldier is so vital to victory.

It is hard for her to picture a military camp with women of the under-world living in shacks nearby, camp followers for the soldier's pay. It is repulsive to her to think of her son breaking his own leash, and when the war is over, come home to her, unclean.

There have been times and soldier camps that gratify her fears, to the disgrace of the men who command them. But the black flag has not flown from the flag staff of all camps. Camp Dodge is one of the places where a soldier that the destruction of morality is not necessary in the making of a soldier.

The 23,000 men who have come in since the day it opened are cleaner now than the day they arrived. The little red chart at the hospitals proves it.

There has been as high as 90 cases of venereal diseases in Camp Dodge under treatment at the hospital at one time. That is one man out of every 230. Today, there are less than one out of a thousand. The hundred cases were brought by the men from the civil life. The eighty have been cured. Thus, instead of proving a curse, the army has been a blessing to the young manhood of the eighty-eighth division. Instead of spreading the plague, the life of the soldier under General Plummer has reduced it.

And what other contentment can point to such cleanliness?

"We can do it," said General Plummer, "and it will be done." It has been.

It is all in getting off the right foot. Down on the left foot, the Iowa troops were stationed in the same district with several regiments of regulars. When there were two or three cases of venereal disease in an Iowa regiment, there were two or three scores in one regiment of regulars, according to the information of Iowa commanders. The Iowa officers looked after the welfare of the men. And the guardsmen came back to the Hawick with no venereal disease than they took to the banks of the Rio Grande.

On the other hand, soldiers have been barred from the city of Seattle because it has its red light district that beckons to the men in uniform. Removal of soldiers from Fort Snelling has been threatened because women brazenly seek out soldiers on the streets, ignoring the venereal disease that they took to the banks of the Rio Grande.
