Time for Bud to Go.
A couple of friends came to call, bringing with them a neighbor's pet collie, who made great friends with Elizabeth, our little daughter. All went well till eight o'clock, when Elizabeth, greatly worried, exclaimed: "I think you had better take Bud home now; his parents will be getting worried over his being out so late."
Outside of Man's Rights.
The "mental neutrality" which is born of ignorance or lassitude is unworthy of reasoning beings. We have no intellectual right to be ignorant when information lies at our hand, and we have no spiritual right to be weary when great moral issues are at stake.—Agnes Repplier.
Value of Common Things.
The common things of life are known well while when we know what to do with our little daughter. All went well till eight o'clock, when Elizabeth, greatly worried, exclaimed: "I think you had better take Bud home now; his parents will be getting worried over his being out so late."
New Habits.
When one is forming a new habit for good, it must be carefully watched and its practice guarded until it has become firmly rooted in the life. "Each lapse," says a wise writer, "is like letting fall a ball of string which one is winding up; a single slip undoes more than a great many turns will wind again."
Cleaning Leather.
Leather-covered furniture may be washed with castile soap and lukewarm water and will look like new, the oil in the soap preserving the leather and helping to keep it soft. You might try this treatment carefully on the imitation leather.
Make Good Use of Spare Time.
Bind together your spare hours by the cord of some definite purpose and you know not how much you may accomplish. Gather up the fragments of your time that nothing be lost.—William M. Taylor.

MOB-RULE PATRIOTISM.

Minneapolis people should get busy with a rope and free their city from the control of one Van Lear. Just how the metropolis of Minnesota ever selected such a man as mayor is a much discussed question over the state and country. His administration has been one turmoil of disloyalty and seditious exhibition starting with LaFollette and on down to the recent disgraceful newspaper trouble—Bird Island Union.

The Bird Island editor belongs to a school of standpat reactionary editors, whose mob-rule "patriotism" has gained too large an ascendancy in our own loyal North Star State. They do more damage to the cause of our country in the great war crisis than the occasional disgruntled slacker, who may be encountered. They make use of the intense feeling that exists during wartimes thru unjust accusations to try to kill off politically every man who has dared to be independent in political thought and action. Van Lear's administration is not as bad as the one that preceded it. Many Minneapolis residents have told us it is better. Van Lear has stood uncompromisingly with the people in the public franchise question. The so-called newspaper riots by the newsies in Minneapolis were controlled more effectively by Mayor Van Lear than the mob rule efforts against the Non-Partisan League were controlled in Renville county.

Speaking of LaFollette, did the Bird Island editor ever see the apology made by the Associated Press for having sent out a false report of the senator's speech at St. Paul. (Not in Van Lear's town as the Union states it.) Somehow Senator LaFollette's statement "I would not be understood as saying that we didn't have grievances (against Germany), we did" was changed to "We have no grievances (against Germany)," before it was printed in the St. Paul papers and was so reported to over one thousand dailies all over the United States. When this fact was developed in the Senate committee to which resolutions had been referred to oust Senator LaFollette, the Associated Press published a retraction and expressed regret. In an editorial commenting on this retraction the New York Post said "whether this was done maliciously or accidentally will probably never be known but the fact remains that irreparable injury was done to the senator, and that a large part of the outcry against him was due to this misstatement in the one thousand newspapers which are served by the Associated Press. The thought that an intentionally so extreme an injustice may be done a public man is one to sober all responsible journalism."

We commend the last sentence quoted from the New York Post to the Bird Island Union, the publicity writer of the Safety Commission, the president of the Minnesota Editorial Association, and other editors of that type.

WHO UNDERSTANDS THIS?

The Republican Gazette is going to assume that the Willmar Tribune in its editorials in which reference is made to this newspaper, was not referred to in this newspaper when making its statement regarding unjust charges of disloyalty. The Republican Gazette is going to assume this because the editor of the Willmar Tribune knows that the Republican Gazette did not directly or by inference at any time charge anyone in Kandiyohi county with disloyalty. Unfortunately numerous of the Tribune readers are almost certain to misinterpret the statement, because of the connection in which it is used, as a charge to the Tribune. Unfortunately the Tribune is making against the Republican Gazette. Does that fact concern the Tribune?—Republican Gazette.

We give it up! The Republican Gazette has been teeming with articles and editorials charging the leaders of the Non-partisan League with disloyalty. Also it has stated that the farmers were misled and entirely hoodwinked by these leaders. Further, the results of the election show that every candidate endorsed by the League received a rousing majority in this county. Still we are told that we must believe that no charges of disloyalty by inference have been made against anyone in the county! Of course this matter concerns the Tribune. It should be the concern of every honest citizen to see that the patriotic citizens of Kandiyohi County be freed from all unjust accusations made against them.

HURRAH! CIRCUS.

Ringling Bros. Circus will show at Willmar August 15th. The first advance advertising car was here today and billed the country. An advance agent was here May 21 and obtained a permit to use the city water but owing to the uncertainty of the railroad service no public announcement was made at the time.

WANT ADS

In these times of high prices, it will pay to buy second hand implements and articles which are of no particular use to present owners.

There is hardly a place in the county where there are not some articles in good order which might as well be sold to someone who has more use for them.

The Tribune want columns are the medium through which you may sell or buy anything you have or might need.

The Tribune reaches three thousand homes in the county, and a few pennies for a want ad will make your wants known more generally than possible in any other way.

Many people have found this a most effective way of disposing of surplus stock and articles, and the fact that those who have tried this means are continually using our columns prove that they get results.

Others might also profit by the use of the Tribune columns if they once tried it and formed the habit.

Individual Expression.

If we said it once, we said it a hundred times as we wore out our American shoes on the hard white roads of England, and caught glimpses through the hedgerows of the old English cottages: Why can't we in America build houses that look more homelike? Why can't we give the houses on our suburban roads and country lanes more of this English look of always having been there? It seems altogether illogical that an English house of the olden time, where the food was served from the remote kitchen through the cooling process of a long hall, and where a single staircase had to suffice for all purposes, should show to the world a look of comfort and well-ordered living, while our convenient kitchen and serving pantry, our front and back stairs, our well-planned living-room, dining-room and bedrooms show smug, slick and uninteresting exteriors.—Exchange.

Nagging Always Evil.

Nobody minds a word of advice and encouragement. It's the nagging at every turn that puts the North pole around people's hearts. And this chilling process sometimes breaks forth in volcanic eruption that makes both vocal and animal temperature rise. And when it's all said what good has been done? In spite of your concern and growls a great many people follow their own council anyway. Your insistent advice only serves to keep matters in an uproar. It will be infinitely better for everybody if you will take a graduate course somewhere that will be commensurate with your dignity and stiff enough to keep you too busy to become a meddler.

Belief in Amulets.

The phylacteries of the Jews—slips of parchment with passages of the Law written on them, bound on the forehead or the left arm—while originally worn as amulets of protection, came to be regarded as a kind of charm or amulet. Some of the early Christian heretics made and sold charms of a similar kind. Among the Russian peasantry at the present day sentences from Scripture written out on small pieces of paper and inclosed in a little bag are hung from the neck and worn as charms, immediately over the heart. In some districts in Germany a similar practice is found. Sentences from the Koran have always been regarded by Mahometans as a sovereign protection against evil spirits.

Flowers on Mountain Tops.

It is known that upon many of the summits of the high mountain ridges of the Hawaiian Islands, in the regions of heavy rainfall, are open bogs which support a peculiar and interesting flora. Many species form more or less hemispherical tussocks which rise above the general level of the bog. A showy lobelia with numerous large cream-colored flowers as much as three and a half inches long, peculiar violets and a sundew are found there.

Cat Turned the Trick.

Psychology is playing a more and more important part in shop work. One Cincinnati manufacturer, who employed about twenty girls in a certain department, found that they quickly grew discontented and left him at the end of a week or two, complaining of the monotony of their tasks. The manufacturer laid the facts before a noted psychologist, who advised him to get a cat, put it in the room with the girls, and await results. It worked well.

Rank Injustice.

Bessie had a newborn sister. Every one made a great fuss over the baby and Bessie did not like to be neglected. Turning to the nurse, she said: "Every one says the baby is so sweet, and they only know her a few days, and no one says anything to me, and they know me three and one-half years."

One Privilege of Age.

It's almost worth the disadvantages of growing old just to be able to call on one of your old playmates and tell her before her family how you can repair on the pipe fence in front of the old home.—Exchange.

Concrete Telegraph Poles.

The New Zealand government is replacing its wooden telegraph poles and letter box posts with others of reinforced concrete.

All Founded on Love.

All true morality, inward and outward, is com. rehended in love, for love is the foundation of all the commandments.—Melster Eckhart.

Two Things Indispensable.

"We must have something to eat and the papers to read. Everything else we can give up. . . . If we live in a small way, there are at least new dresses and bonnets and everyday luxuries which we can dispense with. If the young spouse of the family looks smart in his new uniform its respectable head is content, though he himself grows greedy as a curaway-umbel in the season. He will cheerfully calm the perturbed nap of his old beaver by patient brushing in place of buying a new one, if only the lieutenant's jaunty cap is what it should be. We all take a pride in sharing the epidemic economy of the time. Only bread and the newspaper we must have, whatever else we do without."—Oliver Wendell Holmes.

With Time to Spare.

It is the people with the most to do who can always spare time to help others. The girl who is absorbed in having a good time and looking out for Number One, feels aggrieved if these weighty duties is added a trifling responsibility for others, while her busy overburdened neighbor with a score of claims upon her time and strength, can always find time to help somewhere. If you are one of the people who never have time to do a kindness, you may be sure it is because you have not enough to do.

Let Children Read Aloud.

Reading aloud in the home is of the utmost value. Let the children listen, and let them do some of the reading, even of interesting grownup books. It gives them not only a larger scope of ideas, but self-confidence in the use of a rapidly growing vocabulary. The right use of the mother-tongue is a very valuable accomplishment. But it takes time and pains to acquire it. And it begins at the very beginning.—Exchange.

Weights Itself Before Diving.

Swimmers and divers of the far North who live among the icebergs, and who secure their food entirely from the water, have devised a wonderful means of diving. The penguin mentioned in the report of the Challenger expedition is claimed actually to swallow stones when preparing to dive for food, that it may sink with greater ease. He disgorges them when he returns to the surface.

Rejuvenation Always Possible.

There is rejuvenation in exercise. In play, in care for personal appearance. And there is an economic influence in external rejuvenation which reacts upon the mentality, keeping the individual alert and up-to-date. Youth finds its golden chances in the present era; they are not denied to the older man who has not lost his grip—or who can regain it.

Refuse to Harbor Gloom.

Gloom spells ill health. When he comes snoring about your premises, don't entertain him. If he insists on staying, throw him out.
