Want necessary fall plowing done. Immediate possession. Write at once or see Chris Johnson who lives nearby and who farmed the place this year. Hugh McElroy, 524 Andrus Bldg., Minneapolis. 983

MOUNTAIN ASH CHOIR CONCERT OCTOBER 13th

Welsh Male Chorus Will Sing Here Under Amer. Legion Auspices At Opera House

The name of the Welsh Male Chorus which is on its fourth triumphant tour of this continent is not a strange one but is well known to the American musical public, especially during recent years. This celebrated company of chorus singers and soloists have been engaged by the local post of the American Legion which considers itself fortunate in closing this booking. On the evening of October 13th, this chorus will appear in concert at the Opera House and should be a drawing card and an event to fill the house to capacity. Prof. T. C. Richards is the conductor of the chorus and is one of its prominent soloists, also every member of the group has soloist roles. Their repertoire contains delightful love songs, humorous selections and classical or semi-classical renditions which is valety enough for any discriminating music lover. During the winter months the Legion will place on the lyceum platform an unusual series of concert and entertainment numbers, touring under the Respath management. These numbers are well selected and contain well known artists and public entertainers. On October 23rd the Bonnie Brooke Company, composed of four ladies will render an instrumental and vocal program. On Nov. 16, the Dorothy Cole Company will appear in concert and includes a string trio and pianist accompaniment. December holds forth an entertaining when Eugene Knox, character artist and entertainer, will occupy the platform. The last of the group of lyceum features is that of the Lyceum Singers which is a male quartette, which is noted for its harmony and quality of voices.

Plot Falls

Cass Lake, Sept. 24.—An attempt to blow up the Cass Lake Times was frustrated early today by failure of a defective percussion cap to function.

Three half-pound sticks of dynamite, tied together with a shoe string, with a fuse burned down to the percussion cap, were found by Editor Ittner between the door of the building when he opened the office this morning.

Failure of the dynamite to explode was laid to a defect in the percussion cap. An investigation is being made.—Red Wing Daily Eagle.

GETTING GOOD ROADS

The people of Minnesota will vote on the good roads referendum in November, and those who are interested in seeing a comprehensive road program start, the near future must vote twice on the matter—once on the referendum and a second time to choose the men who are to carry the program into effect.

Let us see why there is no doubt about this last statement. A few years ago there was a great hue and cry over the state for drainage ditches. The voters of the state realized that proper drainage ditches in the proper places would be a splendid thing and they were liberal in the money appropriated for the purpose.

The people in drainage ditch territory now know what the practical result of putting this money into the hands of the political gang has been. It would be hard to find any one who is satisfied with the work done except the contractors and the politicians who were in cahoots with them.

A large part of the money never got anywhere near the swampy land. A great deal of it was spent for absurdly long ditches because long ditches paid the contractors better than short ones. Good land has been spoiled by floods from the drainage ditches. In other cases success depends upon the water running up hill.

All in all, a sorry mess was made of this great drainage plan for the people of Minnesota and the money they contributed for it.

The political machine which was responsible for this drainage ditch situation still holds the power of the state government of Minnesota and is bidding for renewed power through the candidates opposing the organized farmers and workers. Behind these politicians are the business grafters who expect to make a killing if the good roads amendment is passed and if the politicians are elected. The bold crew of pirates—cement trust, real estate speculators, road machinery men and other profiteers have the stage set to provide with 25 cents worth of road for a dollar's worth of expenditures.

Unless you vote against the old gang candidates you should vote down the good roads amendment to protect your pocketbook from this carefully organized raid.

LIBRARIANS ROYALLY RECEIVED AT HIBBING

Miss Hanscom and Mrs. Scott Return from Wonder Trip Thru Minnesota's Ore Regions

Miss Amy Hanscom and Mrs. W. L. Scott returned to Willmar Sunday night having been in attendance at the sessions of the Minnesota Public Librarians Convention held in the City of Hibbing recently.

Both were enthusiastic with the sight-seeing tour which was given the many delegates from all parts of the state. Entrance into some of the largest open pits and underground iron ore mines was made and afforded thrilling experiences to the ladies.

Accompanied by the Mayor of the City and a group of mining officials the delegates were entertained both by informative talks about the mines and their operation and by practical enjoyment in seeing the immense work being done in that industry.

The librarians were also greatly pleased with the library structures and the bibliography or lists of books which they saw and examined thru the iron districts. A great deal of capital is invested by the communities in good public libraries with much stress being laid on the variety of books and quantity as well. A special feature of the library system up in the north is a book carrier, consisting of a large bus containing shelves of books, systematically arranged inside so that the applicant may easily enter the vehicle and select his preferred book.

This bus makes the rounds thru the counties, delivering and collecting books. This is for the convenience of those who cannot come to town and draw their books. Another innovation are the busses, large numbers of them, which transport country children to the city schools. Every day in Hibbing fifteen hundred school children are carried into the city thru the means of these large busses.

At the sessions, elucidating lectures were given on library methods which were declared by the delegates to be both valuable and instructive. Various suggestive changes in the conduct of the libraries in the state were discussed but nothing final was agreed upon.

—Rev. J. N. Anderson visited with friends here the first of the week while enroute from Madelia to his home at Storey City, Iowa.

—Edward Elkjer and John W. Larson motored to Alexandria last Wednesday where they spent a couple of days looking after business interests.
