VETERAN EDITOR WAS AT WILLMAR

Headquarters of Swedish Historical Society of U. S. Has Been Moved to Minnesota

On Monday, July 25, Willmar had a distinguished visitor in the person of Alfred Soderstrom, veteran newspaper man, whose records as a printer and publisher extend back to 1871. He is now seventy-three years of age, has retired from the publishing game and is devoting himself to gathering material for the Swedish Historical Society of the United States. He came to Willmar in an airplane owned by Arthur Wintheiser, a relative and pilot of A. W. Nelson. The trip from Minneapolis to Willmar was made in one hour and 25 minutes. Mr. Soderstrom was delighted with the trip, and spoke with enthusiasm of the beautiful panorama of green fields and silvery lakes over which he had flown.

His business at Willmar was to consult with V. E. Lawson in regard to a matter connected with the Swedish Historical Society of the U. S., of which both are members of the board of directors.

An outstanding event in recent months has been the placing of the library of the Swedish Historical Society of America—a collection of about 6,000 books, pamphlets, manuscripts, and newspaper files relating to Swedish men and institutions in America, or written by Swedish-Americans in the Minnesota State Historical Building. Last year the headquarters of the Swedish Historical Society of America were transferred from Illinois to Minnesota, and in January an agreement between the Minnesota State Historical Society and Swedish National Historical Society was ratified, which provides for the permanent deposit in our library of the library of the Swedish Society. The collection, which had been on temporary deposit in the library of Augustana College at Rock Island, Illinois, was received about the end of April, and the work of unpacking, checking, and listing it, preparatory to cataloging, is now under way.

BUICK'S NEW 4-CYLINDER LINE

Opimundson's Announce An Interesting New Line of Buick Cars

Announcement is made today of the presentation before the motoring public of Buick's new four-cylinder line. There are four models in the line, including roadster and five passenger touring in the open cars, and three-passenger coupe and five-passenger sedan in the closed models. Buick's new line has been known in the automotive trade for some time that Buick purposed adding a line of four, considerable interest attaches to the specifications covering the new models. In motor construction Buick adhered to the valve-in-head principle, and spoke with enthusiasm of the beautiful panorama of green fields and silvery lakes over which he had flown.

The transmission is of the selective sliding gear type, three speeds forward and one reverse. The universal joint is of standard Buick construction, being virtually an integral part of the transmission and automatically lubricated from the transmission. The clutch is of the multiple disc dry plate type, built in exact accordance with the principles which have guided clutch construction in Buick sixes. All moving driving parts are enclosed.

Front axle of the four-cylinder car is an I-beam forging. The rear axle is three-quarter floating type, all the weight of tubes and only driving torque and steadying of the wheels being taken by the axle driving shafts. The third member is of standard Buick type of construction, designed successfully to eliminate all twisting or weaving in the rear axle. Gear ratio of the rear axle on high speed is 4 and 2-3 to 1.

Wheelbase of all models is 109 inches. The spring suspension is designed to give fine riding qualities to a car of this wheelbase. The front springs, semi-elliptic type, are 36 inches long, and the rear springs, also semi-elliptic, are 55 1/2 inches long. Cord tires are standard equipment on all models. These tires, which are 31x4, are the first straight cord tires in this size ever manufactured and were built especially to meet Buick requirements for the new four-cylinder cars. The tires have been adopted as standard size.

The chassis is lubricated with the high-pressure Delco system. Delco starting and lighting system is standard equipment. All models are complete with tire carrier and extra rim and all are equipped with non-glare headlight lenses.

Shipping weights of the four models are: Roadster, 2310 pounds; touring car, 2380 pounds; coupe, 2430 pounds; sedan, 2550 pounds.

Prices, f. o. b. factory at Flint, Mich., are: Roadster, $935; touring car, $975; coupe, $1,475; sedan, $1,550. In adding the four-cylinder models to the seven models of six-cylinder cars now produced, Buick executives feel they have rounded out their line and constructed cars which are in every respect worthy of the Buick name.—Advertisement.
