AUTO LAW DRIVE TO START

Wholesale Prosecutions Coming—Officials May be Ousted for Failure to Enforce Law

Reports of numerous violations of the motor vehicle license law in all parts of the state reaching the capital in St. Paul. Clifford L. Hilton, attorney general, this week issued a statement to the effect that willful neglect to enforce the law is ground for removal proceedings against offending officials, as well as prosecution of those who violate the statute. Reports of more than 100 violations in two small cities, were among those on which Mike Holm, secretary of state, ordered immediate investigation, adding that drastic action will be taken where conditions demand. General Hilton made an appeal for public support for the effective license law drive. "In justice to more than 300,000 Minnesota car owners who have paid proper motor vehicle taxes, and to encourage respect for the law, all good citizens will assist local officials by calling their attention to violations," he said. "Efforts to collect the taxes should be given popular support. I am informed that several hundred thousand dollars more will be added to the state highway fund when delinquent licenses are paid. Every citizen in the state is interested in highway development and by proper vigilance on the part of the public at large and of the local officials the end desired will be attained."

Secretary Holm said that specific reports of violations sent to his office will be treated in confidence and promptly investigated.

WHAT OUR PUBLIC SCHOOLS ARE DOING

Items of Interest Gathered by Our Public School Teachers

The play ground apparatus ordered by the Central Parent-Teachers Association arrived last week. It consists of a set of 6 swings and 4 seesaws. The apparatus will be set up some time soon. October 9th was the day set aside as Fire Prevention Day. Exercises were held in all the schools October 7th and fire drills were the order of the day. In the Junior-Senior High school building pupils passed out in 1 min. and 20 sec. from the time that the alarm was given. This we consider a good record since the pupils were in class at the time and scattered over the building. We expect to have these drills at irregular periods during the year. Parent-Teachers' Association meetings were held Friday, October 7th at the Lincoln and Lafayette schools. Officers for the coming year were elected and other important business was transacted. The Central Minnesota Teachers' Association meets in St. Cloud October 13th and 14th. The Minnesota Educational Association meets in Minneapolis November 2, 3, 4 and 5th. Every teacher in the state should plan to be in Minneapolis the first week in November. The parents of this combined Parent-Teachers' Associations of Willmar gave a reception to the teachers in the school gymnasium on the evening of October 7th. Every school patron was invited to come and several hundred took advantage of this opportunity to meet the school faculty. The gymnasium was very tastefully decorated with autumn leaves and vines. The program was short and good. A simple lunch was served during the evening. The entire affair was thoroughly enjoyed by those present and the teachers wish to express their appreciation of the opportunity afforded them to meet the fathers and mothers of the city. A number of pupils in the city schools won prizes for their exhibits at the County Fair. Their names are as follows: Tina Anderson, Lucile Auman, Maurice Benson, Harold Berg, Hildred Brohaugh, Clarence Danielson, May Drager, Parker Erickson, Wallace Erickson, Harold Forsberg, Virgil Gabbert, Peter Greenfield, Myrtle Hagen, Paul Hedlund, Ruth Herby, Russell Holmberg, Gerda Hong, Gerald Hoover, Maynard Johnson, Earl Larson, Alice Lundquist, Esther Lundquist, Verona Lundquist and Willard Lundquist, Reynold Munson, Orlando Nelson, Clarence Norman, Walter Norman, Alice Olson, Leone O'Neil, Royden Otterness, Clifford Spicer, Walter Rykken, George Selverson, Lucie Sorenson, Hina Strunness, Essie Wall, Russel Wallin, Alvin Westgard, and Helen Hong.

Stories of Great Scouts

"YELLOWSTONE" KELLY AND HIS RIFLE, "OLD SWEETNESS" It was the year 1878. The hostile Sioux had surrounded Fort Stevenson, N. D., and any white man who went out alone went to his death. When the mail was sent to Fort Buford, 218 miles away, a full company of soldiers went along to guard it. One day, while the troops were out on a scout, important dispatches came which had to be delivered at once, and there was no one who would dare attempt the hazardous journey. A young man, named Luther S. Kelly, learning of this, went to the commanding officer and offered to get them through alone. Kelly was a New Yorker who had come west seeking adventure. Because of his youth, the scouts around the fort had nicknamed him "The Kid," and now these men told him he would be scalped before he was a mile from the post. He laughed at them. "I guess 'Old Sweetness' and I can take care of any Sioux who jumps us!" he said. "Old Sweetness" was his pet name for his favorite rifle. A few hours later Kelly walked into Fort Berthold, 18 miles from Stevenson. The Mandan, Gros Ventre and Arikara Indians, camped about that post for protection against the Sioux, gathered about in admiration of his daring, for they lived in terror of the Dakota warriors. Kelly stopped at Berthold only long enough to eat and then pushed on to Buford, 200 miles away. Four miles from Berthold he came to a timbered valley. When he reached the bottom, a bullet whizzed past his ears. As the scout dropped behind a log, three Sioux warriors rushed him. "Old Sweetness" spoke three times and the warriors dropped in their tracks. Kelly returned to Fort Berthold and told of his adventure. The friendly Indians were wild with joy, and after that they called Kelly "The Little Man With the Strong Heart."

RESOLUTION WAS GIVEN APPLAUSE

Kandiyohi County Farm Bureau Lauded For Resolution Passed

A resolution passed unanimously by the representatives of the Kandiyohi County Farm Bureau, endorsing the project to open the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway to ocean-going vessels was read and warmly applauded at the Minnesota Tidewater congress at St. Paul on Oct. 7. The resolution was passed at a meeting in Willmar on Sept. 30. The conference, at the state capital, was called by Governor J. A. O. Frensch's part of a united movement in 16 Northwestern and central western states to obtain favorable action by congress on proposals to make the Great Lakes an arm of the Atlantic ocean. Opening of the waterway, speakers at the meeting said, would add from $100,000,000 to $200,000,000 a year to the wealth of the north and central west, by cheapening transportation costs. J. W. Coverdale, secretary of the American Farm Bureau federation, told the convention that the United States have the waterpower to be developed by completing the waterway project would yield enough to pay the cost of this country's share in the work within 50 years. "Opening the Great Lakes to ocean steamers," Mr. Coverdale said, "will bring the Atlantic 1,200 miles closer to Minnesota, and enable farmers in the northwest to compete with Australia, New Zealand and Argentina. They cannot compete with these nations now because of almost prohibitive freight rates to eastern markets. Fifty per cent of the farm products of the United States are raised in the 16 states that would be directly benefited by lower freight rates if the waterway is completed. Business interests in the State of New York are opposing the waterway development for selfish reasons. Governor Preus declared. He predicted, however, that unified public sentiment in the great agricultural region affected by the proposed waterway would prevail, and that the Great Lakes would be opened to ocean traffic.

LOTS ON HALVORSON'S BEACH

Ben Halvorson of Norway Lake has caused a mile and a quarter of lake shore on the south side of Norway Lake to be platted, all within a fine oak grove on the Johannes Halvorson farm. Provision has been made for the public and owners of the second tier of lots to have access to the lake, something that has not been thought about in lake lots platted heretofore in this county. The lots will be sold at auction next week. See the advertisement in this issue. An appraised value of from $150 to $350 has been placed on the lots. One lot is to be given away free each day of sale. Sale begins at 12:30 each day, Oct. 19, 20 and 21.
