TO THE ASSESSORS OF KANDIYOHI COUNTY

A. J. Johnson of Lake Lillian Writes Strong Letter on Assessments

Editor Willmar Tribune:

This taxing system is getting rotten in this county on account of some of the assessors who fail to list more than two-thirds of the personal property. Others leave off old horses, pigs, feed and some all the grain, and such small things as threshing rigs are not mentioned in some townships. If that kind of assessing is going to go on we might as well stay home, as the county board could sit right in the office and guess closer than that what a man is worth. There is no horse but it is worth something for hog meat if nothing else. Small pigs are growing into money every day. Suppose a farmer has 50 pigs the 1st of May this year he may sell that bunch for about $3000 before first of May next year. Why should he go free any more than his neighbors who may have cattle for the same amount? No, you cannot do justice without listing both pigs and the feed they consume during the year of the farmer has it on hand. If he has not, he doesn't pay any tax on it, but he may have to sell some wheat or a cow or a horse that he paid tax on in order to buy feed. So you see the injustice of leaving off feed. In other words the farmer that has the feed is more able to pay tax than the one who has not, and the tax is supposed to be paid according to ability. I know where a man had $2000 worth of wheat in the bin and did not pay a cent tax on it while it had been old machinery in which there is no profit it would have cost him about $21.00. Do you think that is right? No, if we should drop anything let us drop all personal property and we would save nearly as much as the tax amounts to. You see we could drop the assessors, state tax commission and hundreds if not thousands of clerks in counties and state, for the real property could be assessed every 10 years and the census takers could do the work, for the little change there is some other officer could send that in.

Now start out to do justice and we will have the best assessment we ever had. If you make up your mind to neglect your duty this year you better stay home, as we have been paying somebody else's taxes for years just because our honesty has been a little above the average. Now don't think that I blame all the people or all the assessors but there is some that are a little crooked or badly bent. If not, what is your object? If all the assessors would drop just as much you would not gain a cent for your town and if one will try to be more dishonest than the other what will that system come to? This year we will not stand for any dirty work. If the assessments are not complete there will be re-assessment in that township.

Yours for an honest assessment,
A. J. JOHNSON,

STRIKE DOESN'T WORRY FORD

The coal strike isn't worrying Henry Ford any. The Ford mines in Kentucky will continue in operation. They are working on a strict 8-hour basis, and the miners are drawing about $3 a day more pay than the ordinary mine gives its coal diggers. Ford is able to do this because he does away with middleman's profits. The coal is mostly shipped to Toledo and distributed by way of Ford's own railroad to the Ford plants; only about 25 per cent of it is sold for domestic use. Ford's 375 miners turn out 2,200 tons of coal a day, 6 days a week. The same miners have been on the job ever since Ford bought the mines—Capper's Weekly.
