BOOZE AND CRIME

(Editorial, Shreveport, La., Journal)

Booze always did cause crime. It is still causing it. The crime of the present day is not all due to bootleg booze, either. Much of it is a direct inheritance from the days when the "real old stuff" flowed freely and the saloon was more accessible than the movie or drug store.

The howls against prohibition do not come from agencies concerned with crime and its prevention. They do not come from the heads of orphan asylums or from visiting nurse associations or probation officers or charity associations. Watch and see. The work of these people has been made easier by prohibition, and they have hope that the results of it may be more permanent.

Not for a generation can anyone tell just what are the effects of prohibition.

OLD PRESCRIPTION RECORDS TO 1870

First Medical Prescriptions Issued by Early County Physicians in Custody of Carlson Bros.

Several lines of Latin hieroglyphic writing with the additional lines of "every three hours in water" similar to the medical prescriptions written by the medics of today were found on blanks written in the early seventies. All the prescriptions issued by local doctors and filled by local druggists are in the custody and care of Carlson Brothers, local druggists. There are three separate volumes of these prescriptions. The greater majority of these are printed blanks but quite a large number were written on a variety of plain paper. Some of the paper was bits of wrapping paper torn off from a larger sheet and the mysterious notations made on it.

The first volume has not been found as yet by Mr. C. B. Carlson. It is somewhere about the store and is being carefully searched for. The other two books in which the prescriptions in numerical order have been pasted were those of Chas. F. Clark, druggist, and Dale and Roisum, druggists.

The second Clark book begins in 1872. As the firm was organized in the year 1870 the missing volume contains the prescriptions issued for the first two years and the very first ones filled by local druggists. When this volume is located it will be interesting to ascertain who was the first person to have a prescription filled at a local drug store in the early pioneer days.

The second Clark volume begins with No. 674 which was written for the "girls of Mrs. R. M. Johnston." This was on May 20, 1872. It contains about 4,500 prescriptions.

The Dale and Roisum volume begins with the first prescription in the year 1874. Mrs. Wenous of Benson Station received the 2nd prescription. No name was found on the first prescription. In the book are found 2426 prescriptions. Dr. Lambrecht wrote the first prescription. The years 1874 to 1876 are included in the book. Nikolai Gabrielson of Lake Lillian received the last prescription in the volume.

The following are some of the names mentioned in the early prescriptions: Mr. Willmar, after whom the present city was named, was issued a prescription, No. 67. Dale and Roisum druggist by Dr. Frost. This was in the year 1875. Mrs. Wenous of Benson Station had her prescription filled here in the early part of '74.

Mr. Lucas, hardware man Mr. Calhoun, hotel owner; Mrs. Dolstein; the Snuers; Moran the clothier who had a building where The Journal Printing Company is now located; the Martins of Green Lake; Hoyt the jeweler; Mountain one of the first meat market men in the village; Spottswood who ran a hotel where the express office now stands, (this place was burned down in 1890 in the big blaze which practically demolished the entire block); a Miss Crosby; S. N. Carlson, photographer on Third Street, adjoining the present Lundquist Hardware Company; K. Bjeikengren.

The prescription filled at Carlson Brothers on Monday noon, July 24th, bore the number of 146,499. Some 52 years have passed since the first prescription was written.

Wives as Spills of War.

The Jivaro, in Ecuador, wage a constant warfare among themselves, for which polygamy is the direct cause. When a girl arrives at the marriageable age, about twelve to fourteen years, she is given in marriage by her father to some friend, but most of the wives are gained by the killing of an enemy and the confiscation of the women as the spoils of war. A man may have from five to eight wives. The warfare may be against a member of a neighboring tribe or against a fellow-Jivaro living at some distance. The women and children of the slain man are adopted into the household of the victor, where they become members of the family and are treated in the same manner as the immediate family, not as slaves.

The Great Eastern.

The Great Eastern was for a number of years the largest vessel in the world, and even surpassed in some dimensions several of the huge ocean greyhounds of the present day. The ship measured 692 feet in length, 83 feet beam (across paddle boxes, 114 feet), and 58 feet in depth, and had a draught of 20 feet (30 feet when laden). Her propelling power comprised both paddle wheels and screw, the engines of the former having an indicated horse power of 2,000, and those of the latter 4,000. She is said to have cost $732,000, or over $3,500,000.
