PEPPERY MR. PETTIGREW.
He Says if Blaine had been Nominated it Would have been Different.

Senator Pettigrew of South Dakota has been interviewed on the recent landslide and here is what he said: "We people, especially in the Northwest, wanted Blaine nominated. If he had been he would surely have carried the election. But the officeholders insisted on Harrison, and by the most strenuous use of power ever known in political history, he was renominated. Some of our people wanted Cleveland and got him, and the leaders of the Democracy were forced to support him. The officeholders could not force their political allies to support their candidate. Where a man has 100,000 offices to dispense he is bound to command 600,000 votes, and you can't expect them to support him very earnestly, to say the least. President Harrison lost several thousand votes lead in Illinois, if not the state, on account of his attitude toward Senator Farwell."

How do you account for President Harrison's defeat? "I think it was largely caused by his personal unpopularity and littleness in using the power of officeholders to force his renomination when Blaine was the overwhelming choice of the country. I am a strong Republican and a firm believer in the principles of Republicanism as any man can be, but I cannot help thinking the Minneapolis convention made a grave mistake. No, I do not think the election of Cleveland means a rejection of protection, nor, as the Democrats claim, that the Republican party is dead. They will find that the Republican party will be very much alive for many years to come, and that the Republicans will survive. I think a good many Democrats are in favor of protection in some form. I do not believe they will dare pass any measure looking to free trade. Any party that undertakes to abolish protection will soon go out of power. Protection has resulted in prosperity to farmers in the West, and especially in the two Dakotas. They are great wool raising states, the production amounting to over 2,000,000 pounds yearly. A bill is pending in the senate providing for free wool. If it should pass it would cripple if not ruin wool growers. Should an attempt be made—which is not probable—to pass it at the coming session of congress, I shall offer an amendment to put all woolen goods on the free list. There are also bills (passed by the house) to put iron, binding twine, tin plate and lead ore on the free list, but I do not think they will be passed at the next session. I shall not vote for them. If the Democratic party represented anything but what is bad, if it did not lack moral sentiment, it might remain in power; but any party without character or principle, and supported by the solid South, New York and Chicago, is not likely to last long. I think that Tammany Hall's influence will be felt all over the White House, and will aid in retiring the Democrats from power four years hence."

Judges Buck and Canty have been elected to the supreme bench to succeed Judges Dickinson and Vanderburgh. In this respect at least the election proved a mistake, in that it has not only pulled the judiciary into politics but removed two good men from non-partisan office to make room for men who are utterly unqualified for such high positions. The Ladies Auxiliary have employed a Bohemian lace maker, who lives about six miles from town, to go to Chicago during six months of the World's Fair and make lace from Minnesota linen. She will be paid $15 per month and expenses and will also be given the profits on all orders for lace received while at the Fair. It is claimed that New Ulm is the only place in America where these genuine lace makers reside and it is even stated that in Europe the art has become extinct.

The members of the Turnverein and Ladies Society gave an entertainment at the hall on Friday evening. Singing by the mixed choir, music by Pfander's orchestra, recitations, gymnastic performances, zither playing by Max Burg and singing by a ladies' quartette made up the program and afforded pleasing amusement. The effort of the quartette was particularly deserving of praise and received it in several measures. Following the entertainment a tempting supper was served and the evening's amusement closed with a dance.

City Drug Store Sold.
Late yesterday afternoon the City Drug Store changed hands, the present proprietors, N. Henningsen and O. C. Strickler, transferring their interests to W. G. Alwin, late of St. Paul. The actual change takes place to-day. N. Henningsen will continue to be a permanent citizen of New Ulm.

Later Returns.
It took the last town heard from to decide Pfander's election beyond a doubt. Koch, Augustin and Hillesheim are the new county commissioners. The county didn't go Republican after all. The Democrats carried the Cleveland electors through by a small majority. Donnelly received 300 votes less than Owen did in Brown county two years ago. Nelson's plurality is about 13,000. McClary ran nearly 7,000 ahead of Hammond. The full Republican ticket was elected in Nicollet county. Donnelly's vote in the state was only 36,000. Feig is defeated in the seventh district by 225 as against 10,000 plurality for Halvorsen two years ago. Searle is defeated in the sixth district by only a small plurality. Kiefer, Tawney and Fletcher have handsome majorities. The legislature is Republican on joint ballot by 23. Ohio and California are still Republican. Minneapolis elected Eustis mayor by a good majority.

A CONDITION, NOT A THEORY.
Revenues Must Be Increased or the Expenditures Decreased.

Washington, Special, Nov. 14. — The Evening Star to-night, commenting upon the condition instead of theory that confronts the Democratic party, said: "There is an immediate prospect that the revenues of the government will not be enough to meet the expenditures. They have got to set to work at once to increase the revenues or else make a heavy reduction in the expenditures. It was shown at the last session of congress that a great reduction of expenditures was not practical. It is not all improbable that an attempt will be made as soon as the Democrats assume control of the government to repeal the steamship subsidy law and the sugar bounty, but this will go a very short way toward compensating for storage in revenues. The river and harbor contracts and the pension appropriations are two big items in the count, and they cannot be got rid of either. The pension expenditures have increased about $16,000,000 for the first quarter of the year over the first quarter of last year, and there is liable to be a deficiency of $36,000,000 to be provided for at this coming session. The pension expenditures for the next year, which must be appropriated for at this session, will probably amount to nearly $200,000,000. If it is not appropriated for there will be another deficiency at the beginning of the new congress. To add to the complications of the situation, the prospects are that importations will fall off now in anticipation of a reduction of the tariff. In spite of the fact that many Democrats want to avoid an extra session, this condition may make it necessary. It is acknowledged at the treasury department now that the weight of heavy appropriations is being felt, and that if there is no increase of the revenues the accumulation of deficiencies and the maturity of obligations will make it worse next year. The Democratic policy for the increase of revenue will be, it is said, to reduce duties so as to encourage importations, but they cannot accomplish this all at once. As to the bills passed at the last session increasing the free list, which are now in the senate, the present situation will make it impossible to press them further until some means of making up for the revenue which they would cut off can be devised.

A prairie fire last Friday near Mountain Lake caused about $70 worth of damage. Edward Frenzel and Geo Vogel of this place were charged with having set the fire and were taken over on Monday to answer to the charge. The boys deny all knowledge of the origin of the fire, but on the advice of their attorney but against their own inclination, settled the matter to the above amount rather than throw the case into court. Springfield Advance.

WHAT MAT QUAY THINKS.
He is of the Opinion That Harrison Will be Elected Four Years from Now.

A Washington dispatch of Sunday goes as follows: Senator Quay passed through Washington last evening and to a personal newspaper friend had the following to say of the recent election: "I believe that the Republican party should not yield one inch in its theories as to the benefits of the protective tariff. I believe, too, that the bills passed by the last house placing wool on the free list and reducing the duties on woolen manufactures and removing the duties from tin-plate, binding twine, cotton ties and cotton bagging and from machinery used in the manufacture of cotton bagging, all of which are now in the senate finance committee, should be retained in that committee, and not reported. In fact, I believe they will not be reported. If the business interests of the country are anxious to know what scheme of legislation awaits them it is the duty of the Democratic house as soon as it meets in December to frame a general bill indicating in a broad and definite form just what the revenue policy of the next administration is to be." "Do you think, senator, that Mr. Cleveland will call an extra session of congress next March?" "No, I do not. One reason for Mr. Cleveland's election is that he is estimated as a conservative man. He is not likely to be dragged by the more radical and revolutionary element of his party into frightening at the very outset the people who have believed in his conservatism. It may perhaps be too soon to speak so positively, but I really cannot believe that there will be any extra session of congress beyond the executive session of the senate to confirm the most important appointments."

"Speaking in the most general terms, what do you think of the future of the Republican party?" "You may say that I consider nothing more probable than that four years hence there will be an exact reversal of the popular verdict of 1892 and that, as in 1888, Mr. Harrison will succeed Mr. Cleveland in the presidency. The people had four years of Cleveland once and they had enough. As I said before, Mr. Cleveland's renomination while he still held the presidential office made it easier for the Republican party to succeed. Four years hence, after wages have been reduced and after the enormous cost of labor strikes have been charged to the party in power, it may be that the people will demand the renomination and re-election of Gen. Harrison."

What the Wits Say.
Where was Donnelly when the light went out?—Willmar Argus.
Judge: Nell—Amy's new stockings are out of sight. Belle—Well, that's where they should be.
Senator Hill will marry. A Southern bride will reign in his Albany mansion. He is late but wise in taking his place as a benedict.—St. Paul News.

New York Sun: "There, dear," said Mrs. McBride, when the curtain went down, as she handed him a couple of gloves. "There, dear, you won't need to go out between the acts to-night. Wasn't your little wifey thoughtful?"
Puck: Publisher—You have the climax of the story in the second chapter. Why is that?
Author—It is a patent scheme of my own to keep women who read from knowing how the story is going to turn out.

Texas Siftings: Strong Minded Woman (to a relative who has called on her)—My husband has now got a position in the orchestra. He plays first fiddle.
Relative—Not at home, does he?
"You bet he doesn't play first fiddle at home."
"That's what I thought."
Harper's Bazaar: Hojack—Some people have their wishes fulfilled very promptly.
Tondik—Are you prepared to specify?
Hojack—Well, I know a man in Kansas who put up a sign reading, "This house for sale," and the very next day a cyclone carried it into the next county.

Harper's Bazaar: Teacher—Johnny Cuspo, you may answer this question: If a man does a piece of work in five days and another man does the piece of work in three days, in how many days can they do it working together?
Johnny—Please, mam, I am not very well-informed on the labor question.

Voss-Scherer.

Last evening at six o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Scherer there was solemnized the marriage of their daughter Emma to Mr. Paul Voss. About fifty guests were present and the ceremony was performed in a pleasing manner, the Misses Allie Scherer and Ella Seiter attending the bride, and Mr. Robert Scherer and Mr. W. E. Koch attending the groom. After the nuptial knot had been tied, an elegant repast was served and the remainder of the evening was spent in social conversation and congratulations.
To the young couple, the Review extends best wishes. Both are deserving thereof and both, we are confident, will enjoy the same. The groom, Mr. Voss, is a young man of good qualities and the fact that a large circle of acquaintances entertain for him respect is evidence of his worth. He is a miller by trade and is an expert in his line.
The bride is the daughter of two of our oldest and most respected settlers, and she has already acquired for herself a social position that is enviable. It is with pleasure therefore that we offer our heartiest congratulations.

M. C. IN A WHEELBARROW.

According to a Bet Bate of the Advance Wheel's Him through town.
Springfield, Nov. 15. — Last Saturday evening the Democrats of this place celebrated the victory of their party in the national election by a torch light parade. One of the most prominent features of this parade was formed by M. C. Robertson seated on a wheelbarrow immediately behind the band. The wheelbarrow was wheeled by Mr. Ed Bate according to an agreement made before election. There were some visitors from New Ulm who took part in the rally.
Miss Rose Balbacia of Stately, and Tommy Dickson have recently entered our public schools.
Springfield is soon to have a restaurant. Mr. Frank Blackman who has recently moved into the Village will be the proprietor. He has engaged the building belonging to Mr. Gamble, on Marshall street. A good restaurant is something that Springfield needs and we think that Mr. Blackman will carry on a profitable business.
Mr. Emil Blankenburg of this place and Miss Alvena Thuring of Redwood Falls were united in marriage on Nov. 9th at Redwood Falls. For nearly a year and a half Mr. Blankenburg has been a resident of Springfield, occupying the position of manager of the Bingham elevator. During that time he has made a large number of friends. Miss Thuring is a graduate of the Redwood High School and for some time was a teacher in the Sanborn public schools.
Last Saturday night at about half past ten our citizens were aroused by the fire-bell. The cause of this alarm was a call from Lamberton which at that time was witnessing the greatest conflagration that that place has ever known. About 75 of our boys immediately answered the call taking with them, engine, hose carts etc.

Although their arrival at the scene of the fire was somewhat late on account of unavoidable delays, our fire department and the citizens also lent every effort in their power to help extinguish the flames. The Tracy department also was present and lent valuable assistance. We have not yet heard the full amount of losses but understand that it amounts to more than twelve thousand dollars.
Mr. Emil Blankenburg has rented the house belonging to Schmid & Lehrer situated east of Mr. Grimm's.

Sheriff Anderson attended the golden wedding celebration at the home of his parents in Burnstown last Tuesday evening. About sixty guests were present and Rev. Jacobson of Westbrook delivered an appropriate address. Many handsome gifts were received and the old couple were made to feel the worth and pleasure of protracted life. Mr. Anderson's father is now 74 years of age and his mother 70. They have been living in western Brown county for 22 years.

Minnesota elects all of her Republican presidential electors in spite of the unholy alliance brought about by that prince of inscrupulous campaigners, Lewis Baker of the St. Paul Globe. It is a victory for Republicans to feel proud of and at the same time a pronounced repudiation of the shameful style of politics pursued by the St. Paul Globe and the Democratic leaders.

ELECTION AFTER THOUGHT.

The Review Sleepy Eye Correspondent Muses Over the Recent Defeat.

Sleepy Eye Nov. 15. — We have met the enemy and — we are theirs for four years, it appears.
Miss Helen Foster, of Waseca, niece of Mr. and Mrs. T. Hughes, is visiting with them at present.
Mr. Herman Gherke and Miss Lena Johnson will be married this evening at the residence of the bride's mother.
Doc. F. P. James left on Saturday evening for "Manona", where he will be united in marriage this evening to Mrs. C. C. Rounds of that city. Both are deservedly popular here and all Sleepy Eyes join in wishing them unbounded prosperity and happiness.
Local democrats are offering 10 cents apiece for Grandpa's Hats that have undergone tonsorial manipulation.
Democratic ratification this evening.

Mr. Casey, independent candidate for sheriff, was in town on Thursday, looking over the returns, and swallowing his disappointment as gracefully as possible.
Dr. J. W. B. Wellecome Sr. has been seriously ill for a week, but is slowly improving. Drs. Wellecome Jr., Flynn, and Strickler are in attendance; and no efforts will be spared to restore the general doctor to health and strength. It was a sore trial to the Dr. to be unable to get out and vote for Harrison on election day.

Ten or eleven times in its history has the American nation changed its economic policy. The principle of protection which was the dominant factor during the first twelve years of the national life, and also during the last thirty-two, has been cast aside at times; but after attending a comparatively brief term at the hard school of experience, our people have invariably returned to this policy. The Democratic party has been in partial control of national affairs for only four years in more than a quarter of a century, so that we need not envy them another four years of power. A dose of adversity is necessary now and then to make people more appreciative of blessings enjoyed. Let us hope, however, that the party into whose keeping the welfare of the nation is about to be entrusted will guide the ship of state with less harm to the country than our misgivings have led us to believe. It is a matter of regret that the policy, which in a great degree has been the cause of our prosperity, could not have been continued. But majorities are authorities on questions of this character, and, in bowing to the will of superior numbers, we trust the decision rendered on Nov. 8, will be amply justified by future experience, and that all things will redound to the good of our common country. Alas—ka.

Owen's Peculiar View.
S. M. Owen says with reference to the election some curious things. He says the situation is analogous to the conditions between 1859 and 1860. There is no analogy. The Whig party was killed off in 1852. The other old party lived on eight years to have its eyes put out and its feet put in the stocks by the uprising of the strong moral element of the nation against it, because it had been the ally of the slave power. The third party of to-day is composed of different material. It is a class party without high moral purpose, seeking class legislation seeking power by misrepresentation and false pretense. There is not a particle of analogy between the Republican party and the Populists. But Mr. Owen thinks the parties are so nearly alike or would be, after a little "readjustment," that the Republican party may become the party of the Populists. Mr. Owen does not explain exactly what kind of a "readjustment" this is to be, but he is deceiving himself. The Republican party is not and never will be the party of John Law finance and free trade and of a single class. It is the party of the people and when the people have stopped fooling with the edged tools of the Democrats and Populists, with bleeding fingers, the will flow with great unanimity back to the Republican party.—Minneapolis Journal.

W. R. Estes of Madelia has been appointed United States consul to Hamburg.
The Democrats of Springfield tried to ratify on short notice Saturday evening, but inasmuch as the notice was short, the ratification was likewise short on magnitude and enthusiasm.
