Runk, the well-known farmer, and the groom a son of Mr. Radke of this city. Both wheat and flour have been advancing rapidly in price all week. This fact may temporarily confuse the financial debaters who have been trying to connect monetary affairs with the prevailing low prices of commodities. Julius Berndt and Jos. Galle will go to St. Paul on Friday to attend a meeting of Sons of Hermann. The object of the meeting is to prepare for the celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the order in this state. It is expected that quite a number of New Ulmites will go down to hear the eloquent Star Eyed Goddess of Reform. Charles Taudien died Wednesday afternoon from the effects of repeated attacks of apoplexy, which had rendered him speechless for several days. Mr. Taudien was born in Germany fifty-five years ago, and came to America in 1887, taking up his residence in New Ulm immediately. The funeral occurred on Saturday under the auspices of the A. O. U. W. of which the deceased was a member.

The Concordia Band has been engaged to supply the music. The Evangelical Church Congregation has decided to send Jacob Spaeth as a delegate to the Evangelical Synod for North America and Wm. Radke as alternate. A little two-year-old child was run over by the bus near the cemetery on Sunday, but although she fell right under the horses she was not seriously injured. J. H. Block was up from St. Peter Monday evening on official business. Mr. Block was recently appointed on the committee which is to select the site for the new hospital. The picnic at the Hermann's Heights on Sunday was a success in spite of the unfavorable weather. A large crowd was present on the grounds and the receipts amounted to $125. The Star Band furnished the music. The concert at Union Hall on Friday evening was largely attended and was indeed worthy the patronage it received. Some of the numbers were exquisitely rendered and reflected great credit on the talent employed. Boiler inspectors Gage and Crane were in the city Saturday looking after the interests of the insurance companies which they represent. They were also at Sleepy Eye to examine into the loss resulting from the explosion of the electric light boiler. The Experiment Station Record, published by the government at Washington, contains in the May number a lengthy review of C. W. H. Heideman's scientific article on the culture of plums. Judging from the notice given, the article must have been held in high favor. While a gentleman from Fairfax was unhitching his team at the Union Hotel, Saturday afternoon, the team broke away and tore down Minnesota Street at a lively rate. Near the Brown Co. Bank corner they came within an ace of running over the City Marshal, Mr. Galle. The school board held a meeting Friday night and re-elected all of the old teachers with the exception of Misses Nichol and Meade, who failed to make application. Miss Flora Schroeder was chosen to succeed the latter and Miss Stout of Michigan to take the place of the former. Two new teachers, Herman Held of this city and Chas. Hintz of Courtland, were also elected, and will have charge of the classes in the German Park building. Miss Lucy Schildknecht of Mankato will succeed Miss Schroeder in the Primasy grade. At ten o'clock on Tuesday the Catholic church was crowded to its utmost capacity to witness the marriage of two of Fairfax's most prominent young people. The happy couple were Miss Anna Frank and Mr. J. Henle. The bride is the oldest daughter of Mr. Wenzel Frank one of the oldest and wealthiest business men of Fairfax, while Mr. Henle, the groom, is one of those promising young men who constitute so large a part of our town. Mr. Henle, or Joe, as his many friends choose to call him, came from New Ulm to this place about eight months ago and opened a harness shop on First street. His energetic business methods and friendly ways has drawn him a large trade, and to-day he is numbered as one of Fairfax's best business men. It is estimated that over 600 guests met the young couple during the day. Great preparations had been made, and although the weather was cloudy and cold, the guests came from far and near.—Fairfax Crescent.

A NEW DEPOT IS ASSURED. The Head Officials Visit the City and Decide Upon a Location. General Manager Whitman Says that Operations Will be Commenced at Once. A Depot after the Style of the One at Rochester. At length the wishes of New Ulm citizens have reliable promise of gratification and a fine new passenger depot will be built for the accommodation of a constantly increasing traffic. The petition of the city council has not been in vain and in a few days official notice will be given of the company's proposed action. The head officials of the road were here on Thursday and looked over the grounds. The party included General Manager J. M. Whitman, General Superintendent S. Sanborn, Chief Engineer H. W. Batton, Division Superintendent Cosgrave and Division Freight Agent Garvin. They spent some time in deciding upon the most acceptable location and finally concluded that the depot should be built on the site of the present stockyards. The original intention was to place it across the street from the Empire Mill, but it soon became apparent that engineering difficulties would arise from such a location that could not be overcome. It would inconvenience the mills and at the same time bring all the switching on the street, where it is most to be avoided. The proposed site, on the contrary, has every advantage. It will be nearer of approach than the old depot was and apart from all tracks and moving trains. Besides it will be located right alongside of the proposed park, a feature that is not to be overlooked. All buildings and sheds on this side of the track will be removed and a fine street graded from First to Third South, together with a sidewalk. The building itself will be of brick and stone and patterned after the style of architecture to be found in the Kasota and Rochester depots. It will be better than the former in that it will be longer and higher. A platform, 400 feet long, will be built on each side of the depot, thus doing away with all possible obstruction. The old depot will be used entirely for freight purposes, and new tracks will be built, necessitating the removal of the stockyards and Bingham Bros.' elevator. The stockyards will be located below the engine house. Thus an improvement is assured that New Ulm has long been entitled to and that will add much to the beauty of the town. Taken together with the new park it will give travelers coming into the city an entirely different impression than has heretofore been offered to them. Sleepy Eye's Loss. In the destruction of the Sleepy Eye school building, referred to last week, the village sustains an awful loss. Nothing remains but a heap of ruins. The electric light plant was located in the basement of the building and shortly after midnight the large boiler exploded and blew out the sides of the building, after which fire destroyed the entire property. The engineer banked his fires for the night and went home at 11:30. No cause for the explosion can be given. The boiler was insured by the Hartford Boiler company and the previous Saturday the company's expert had inspected the boiler and pronounced it safe. Nothing was saved from the building, the loss including all the text books of pupils, the school library, furniture, laboratory and other supplies. The building was modern and one of the best in the state, built in 1890, at a cost of $24,000. The electric light plant cost $3,500, and was notable throughout the country as the most economical plant in existence. Its location in the basement of the fine school building has always been a subject of criticism abroad but was satisfactory to the people most concerned. The loss was $35,000 and insurance in high school property $20,900; and on electric plant $3,000. Schools were delayed but one day, churches and buildings for the school being secured. A new school house and electric plant will at once be secured. Henry Koehler is making some fine new bar fixtures for Chas. Stengel.
