This Chicken a Freak.

A chicken with four legs is something of a curiosity and decidedly a freak, but there is such a one in New Ulm. Last week a hen belonging to Mrs. Jos. Bobleter hatched a small biddy which is perfectly formed in all respects except that it has a superfluous pair of pedal extremities. The strange chicken has one pair of sturdy legs upon which to do its navigating, is not under-sized and is fully as robust as its mates. Protruding from the left hip, however, are two extra legs, for which it has not the slightest use and which rather impede it in its actions. The chicken walks about and eats its rations with the rest, and the indications are that it will live.

Arc Doctors Now.

Two New Ulm boys have been licensed to practice medicine in Minnesota, they having passed the examination given two weeks ago by the state medical board. They are Dr. Joseph H. Vogel and Dr. Andrew J. Kaes, and their licenses were issued June 19th. Dr. Gottfried Schmidt, who will attend to Dr. Reineke's practice during the absence of the latter in Germany, also passed the examination.

DISCOURAGE DRUG HABIT

Pharmaceutical Association Would Restrict Sale of Cocaine.

Druggists Adjourned Thursday After Profitable Convention.

Winona Selected as Place For Holding Meeting Next Year.

After a very profitable three-days' session, the nineteenth annual convention of the Minnesota State Pharmaceutical association, held here last week, adjourned Thursday. Although the attendance, in the point of numbers, was not as large as had been expected and desired, the meeting was, nevertheless, most successful. A surprisingly large amount of business was transacted by the delegates and many weighty matters of vital importance to pharmacists were acted upon.

On account of the Review being published so soon after the assembling of the convention, it was not possible for this paper to publish a full account of the actual proceedings of the first day in its issue of last week. Immediately after President Eckstein had delivered his annual address, excerpts from which we gave, the committee on membership reported 47 applicants. Nine came in later and the full number were voted upon Wednesday morning. The most important feature of the report of the committee on national legislation was in regard to the tax on alcohol. It was stated that the government now collects a tax of $1.70 per gallon upon this liquid, whereas the former tax was 90 cents. It was important that the tariff be returned to the old rate and, as the National Association of Retail Druggists had interested itself in the matter, it was likely that relief would be obtained.

A very fine report was submitted by the committee on the college of pharmacy. Its chairman reported the progress which had been made by the institution and urged that the druggists support the college by sending their clerks and apprentices to it to perfect their educations. When called upon for a statement, Wm. Gausewitz of Owatonna, chairman of the committee appointed to draft a plan for a druggists' mutual insurance company, responded that he was not in readiness to report. The formation of the insurance feature was, he said, a stupendous undertaking, and he asked for further time; the delegates continuing the committee one year.

Of particular interest to the layman was the report of the committee on adulterations, as made by Prof. F. J. Wulling. In several instances they had found that impure articles were being placed upon the market—costly drugs diluted with inexpensive materials—and some of the things examined were found to be entirely different from what the label indicated. The latter might be attributed to a mistake in labeling but the only way for retailers to guard against the former was by examining and testing all the medicines they purchased. Prof. Wulling also reported for the committee on the revision of the U. S. pharmacopoeia. This work, which contains all the dispensing formulas used by druggists, is issued by the government every ten years, and should have been ready in 1900. Prof. Wulling stated that the commission expected to publish it this year and he strongly recommended that every druggist procure a copy when it is placed on sale.

Only one case had demanded the attention of the arbitration committee. They had felt constrained to intervene in one Northern Minnesota city where the druggists had been fighting each other and the result had been very satisfactory. In their paper to the convention the executive committee favored revising certain portions of the by-laws and they also stated that the pharmacy laws of the state were in need of repairs. They thought it advisable that steps should be taken to interest all the druggists in Minnesota and have them join the association and seconded the recommendation of President Eckstein that the alcohol tax be reduced.

Almost the first business Wednesday morning was the selection of the place for holding the convention in 1904. Mayor L. L. Brown of Winona was present and urged the claims of his town. In his address to the delegates Mayor Brown was very eloquent and convincing and when he had concluded they accepted his invitation by an unanimous vote.

Fifty-six druggists in various parts of the state were elected to membership in the association and several communications were read from members of the state pharmacy board of South Dakota, who regretted that a special meeting of their body prevented them from attending. At this time the names of ten druggists were submitted to the convention by the nominating committee. They were: A. D. Thompson, Minneapolis; Henry Rauch, Minneapolis; Jos. Poetz, St. Peter; A. C. LeRichleaux, Duluth; F. V. Cummings, Blue Earth; B. O. Kyseth, Sherburn; W. G. Alwin, New Ulm; Geo. Doehne, Jr., Austin; S. B. Weiser, St. James; E. A. Liepper, Minneapolis. Five of the above were to be recommended to Gov. Van Sant by the convention and one of their number will receive the appointment to the next vacancy upon the state pharmacy board.

The speaker of the morning was Dr. R. O. Beard, secretary of the medical department faculty of the University of Minnesota, and in the absence of Dr. O. C. Strickler, who was detained elsewhere, he was introduced by Prof. Wulling. Dr. Beard spoke interestingly and his remarks were greatly enjoyed. He stated that his connection with the University of Minnesota dated back eighteen years and he told of the forming of the medical department, recounting the doubts and apprehension with which he had entered into the plan. Then he gave his auditors a sketch of the institution's career from the time when two years' work constituted the entire course until now the board of regents have lengthened the time to six years, the new arrangement to go into effect next fall. He then touched upon pharmaceutical topics, recommending a more thorough course of training for pharmaceutical students. Upon the relations of druggists and doctors he spoke at length, noting instances where physicians were at fault and criticizing a number of the short-comings and abuses tolerated by the drug trade. He condemned the practice indulged in by some druggists of prescribing as well as dispensing and expressed a desire that the convention go on record as favoring the printing of formulas upon the labels of all patent and proprietary medicines. His address was of absorbing interest throughout and was listened to with the greatest attention.

After he had finished Dr. O. C. Strickler of this city, spoke briefly. As a member of the board of regents he was qualified to say that the board had plans under consideration for the improvement of the college of pharmacy; a bit of intelligence which pleased the druggists mightily and which elicited applause.

Considerable enjoyment was derived by the ladies out of their drive around the city Wednesday afternoon. All of the points of interest in New Ulm were shown and described to them and Mrs. A. J. Eckstein added further to their pleasure by holding an informal reception at her home on Washington street.

At the afternoon session the meeting listened to the reports of delegates sent to the conventions of the Iowa State Pharmaceutical association, American Pharmaceutical association, National Association of Wholesale Druggists and National Association of Retail Druggists, after which an uniform schedule of drug prices was presented for consideration. It was accepted for discussion and made the first order of business Thursday. The special committee having in charge the establishment of a scholarship at the college of pharmacy was continued for another year and that upon the formation of a ladies' auxiliary was not in shape to report, nor did it arrange to do so before the convention adjourned. Three members were assigned the task of drafting resolutions of respect upon the deaths of Arthur Sweeney of Duluth, one of the founders, and Charles Marelus of St. Paul, a former member of the association; which were adopted and ordered spread upon the records.

Prof. F. J. Wulling, dean of the College of Pharmacy of the University of Minnesota, talked to the delegates in the afternoon. His address was devoted largely to describing the school and the advancement which it is making and was followed by the reading of the prize papers. Two of these were offered; the judges, Prof. F. J. Wulling of Minneapolis, Dr. G. B. Weiser and Prof. M. A. Endres of this city, awarding the first prize of $15 to H. W. Rietzke of St. Paul, and the second of $10 to Stewart Gamble of Minneapolis.

Officers were then elected as follows: President—Jos. W. Lauer, Winona. First Vice President—R. H. G. Netz, Owatonna.

Second Vice President—Chas. W. Wulling, Little Falls. Third Vice President—Mrs. R. E. Remer, Waconia.

Secretary—T. F. Leeb, Winona. Treasurer—A. A. Campbell, St. Paul. Executive Committee—J. F. Danek, Minneapolis; Thos. Voegeli, Minneapolis; H. W. Rietzke, St. Paul.

John F. Danek of Minneapolis, secretary of the Minnesota Pharmaceutical Manufacturing company of St. Paul, in which the majority of the delegates present were interested, reported upon the condition of the company. He told of its progress since its organization eight years ago and said that it was now in a prosperous state; that considerable stock had been sold last year and more would be issued this season.

The Minnesota Pharmaceutical Commercial Travelers' auxiliary sent in a list of the officers they had elected for the approval of the convention. They were:

President—W. R. Ford, Minneapolis.

First Vice President—L. H. Norwood, Minneapolis.

Second Vice President—A. F. Dillworth, St. Paul.

Third Vice President—N. E. Cannon, St. Paul.

Secretary and Treasurer—I. E. King, Minneapolis.

Before adjourning Prof. Wulling offered an important resolution which indorses the action of the last legislature. By it the committee on legislation is empowered to draft a bill making it unlawful and a misdemeanor for any druggist to dispense cocaine in any of its forms except when prescribed by a licensed physician. This is intended as a preventative of persons forming the drug habit and was adopted without a dissenting vote.

Wednesday evening the Commercial Travelers' auxiliary gave its dance in Turner Hall, every lady being presented with a delegate's badge upon her arrival. The programs were out of the ordinary, each dance being dedicated to some prominent member of the association, and the music provided by the Turner Hall orchestra was above the standard usually preserved by the local musicians. Shortly before 9 o'clock President and Mrs. A. J. Eckstein headed the grand march and from that time until the wee sma' hours fun and gaiety were at their height. At 11 o'clock the entire attendance participated in the cake walk which preceded supper and they were then banquetted elaborately in the gymnasium, this feature of the entertainment being furnished absolutely free of charge by the New Ulm druggists.

Thursday morning the officers were installed and the schedule of prices adopted. These are not binding but are to be adhered to whenever practicable. Five druggists, A. D. Thompson, Minneapolis; Henry Rauch, Minneapolis; Jos. Poetz, St. Peter; A. C. LeRichleaux, Duluth, and F. V. Cummings, Blue Earth, were honored by being selected as the ones from whom Gov. Van Sant will choose his next appointee on the pharmacy board and then the committee to whom was referred the president's address reported as follows:

"Your committee to whom was referred the President's address respectfully report that we have carefully gone over the able and extended ad-

The Glorious Fourth.

A sale of fine clothing that strongly rivals the attraction of Fireworks.

We would advise you not to put on a new suit for "the Fourth" if you are going to engineer a celebration, and stand for an hour or two under a shower of sparks; but if price is any inducement we would strongly advise you to lose no time in taking advantage of this Fourth of July sale.

There are sparks in the store, but they won't burn. They come from the axe of the price cutter striking the hard surface of early season prices. Nothing can resist the keen edge of our price cutter when it gets busy. Come in and see what we have to offer in the way of low prices.

The Workingman's Shoes

should be strong and serviceable, full of comfort, look well and sold at a moderate price. We have a shoe for workmen that fills all these requirements. It will stand rough usage, is a good looking shoe, and is made by the best skilled labor. Price $2.00. We want workmen, who appreciate good shoes, to give this shoe a trial. This shoe fits the foot and the pocket-book of the workman.
