It's better to be a crank than a crab.

Opening new Spring Suits this week.

Ours is a wide open store; open to every new idea in fashion and fabric for men's wear. We are not hampered by any last season's goods, nor afraid of innovations and novelties.

This is why you'll find new things here before they are commonplace.

Helped Nominate Lincoln.

Exception has been taken to the statement made in the last issue of the Review that Brown county had never sent a man to a republican national convention and this paper finds that it was misinformed in that respect. It seems that in 1860 A. H. Wagner, a brother of Chas. Wagner of this city, was selected by the republicans of the state and represented this congressional district at the Chicago convention, when the name of Abraham Lincoln was placed in nomination for the presidency.

Musicians at Springfield are making an effort to organize a brass band. It is intended to have it play at the tournament here in June.

HAPPY, HEALTHY CHILDREN.

Any child can take Little Early Risers with perfect safety. They are harmless, never gripe or sicken, and yet they are so certain in results that robust constitutions requiring drastic means are never disappointed. They cannot fail to perform their mission and every one who uses DeWitt's Little Early Risers prefer them to all other pills. They cure biliousness. Sold by Eugene A. Pfeifferle.

COMMISSION FIRM PROSPERS

Stork Brothers Meeting With Business Success.

Now Occupying the Entire Shoe Factory Building.

Propose to Expand and Increase Their Operations.

Prosperity is being enjoyed by Stork Brothers, local commission men. They have outgrown their quarters in the basement of the old shoe factory and are now occupying the entire three floors of the building. The change was made last week and will give them sufficient room for their present needs. It will also allow them to expand, and increase their operations, and this they purpose doing.

Two years ago these young men, both of whom were reared and educated in the city, opened a commission business on a modest scale. They believed that New Ulm, with its large tributary territory and excellent shipping facilities, offered a good field and how well their judgment was borne out is shown by the fact that they have thriven and prospered, until today their transactions are of ample proportions.

In a measure their success is due to their eastern connection, they being close to one of the largest commission houses in Chicago, but for the greater part they owe it to their own industry and acumen. Their methods have been progressive and strict application to business has accomplished the results they desired. Since opening in New Ulm they have always made it a point to pay the very highest possible market price for eggs and produce and in this way have earned this confidence of farmers and business men.

From the first their venture brought returns and for some time it has been apparent to the proprietors that they would need more commodious quarters. Accordingly an arrangement was made recently whereby they will have the use of the entire shoe factory building. In the basement they will handle the poultry shipments, while the first and second floors will be utilized for the storage of eggs and cases. The office of the firm is conveniently located in the southwest corner of the first floor.

With the acquisition of more space Stork Brothers intend to further pursue their policy of expansion. At the present time they receive almost daily shipments of produce from surrounding towns but they plan to increase the number of these and also to enlarge the scope of their business in other ways. In future they will make nothing less than car-lot consignments to Chicago and other commission centers.

In discussing market conditions Wm. Stork, senior member of the firm, stated that the extremely cold weather of the past winter has proven beneficial for farmers and commission men alike. The prices have held in a way that is almost without precedent and even now 18 cents per dozen is being paid for eggs, where 13 cents was paid at this time one year ago. Brown county, he says, is acquiring a reputation for its egg production. Last year their were more shipments of hen fruit from here than from any of the adjoining counties and this season will see an improvement upon the record, as more farmers will devote their attention to poultry breeding than ever before. Statistics have shown that chickens will net their owners on an average of $1 each per year, and this is certainly something of an inducement.

J. A. Leudtka, proprietor of the New Ulm Machine shop, who formerly used the first floor of the shoe factory, has moved and is moving his machinery to the New Ulm Planing mill building on Center street, which he will occupy jointly with the contracting and building firm of Tappe & Co.

NEW LAW TAKES EFFECT

Township Elections Will Be Held Under Altered System.

Township elections are to be held next Tuesday, March 8th, and as announced in the Review some weeks ago, they will be conducted along different lines than in the past. At the last session of the Minnesota state legislature a law was passed which greatly alters the old system. It became effective January 1, 1904, and thus is operative at the March elections.

The new method affects the offices of township supervisors and justices of the peace. Heretofore three supervisors have been chosen for terms of one year but this spring three candidates will be elected for one, two and three years, and in future one supervisor is to be named at each election for a three-year term. Justices of the peace are only to be elected once every two years, except when it is necessary to fill a vacancy, but town clerks, treasurers, assessors, constables and road overseers will hold for one year as in the past.

A special ballot is necessary for the election to be held next week and the Review desires to announce that it is prepared to print them according to the new law.

Weighed on His Conscience.

A local merchant received an unusual request recently from a former customer who now resides in Southern California. When getting his mail a few days ago he found a letter from the California man, who stated that he had just been converted, had joined the church and wished to square himself with the world. This good resolution could not be carried out until he had paid a bill contracted in New Ulm many years ago. He asked therefore, that a statement be sent him and for a moment the business man had visions of a nice lump of "conscience money." These were dissipated when the merchant examined his books and found that the sum was 65 cents, but he made out a receipted bill and sent it to the delinquent, with the assurance that he could remit if he wished but that the debt was not likely to deprive him of future reward.

His Sales are Increasing.

A few months ago Master James Dougher began to act as news agent at this point for the Saturday Evening Post. For the first few weeks he handled only ten copies. Now he is disposing of forty copies every Saturday and from the energy he has already shown we would not be surprised to see him increase his sales weekly. He is working for one of the Post's special prizes to its news boys and wants to come to the top of the list. The Saturday Evening Post is a good paper and is fortunate in having a hustling young representative. We wish him success.

Pythian Knights as Hosts.

To commemorate the twelfth anniversary of the organization of the lodge the members of Sioux Lodge, No. 101, K. of P., will give an invitation dancing party in Turner Hall on Friday evening, March 11th. For several years past the Knights of Pythias have made it a point to observe their anniversary and at their meeting Monday evening they voted to continue the practice. The ball will be an exclusive affair and the members and their friends will be entertained at the expense of the lodge.

ANTITOXINE STARTS PANIC

St. Paul Health Officers Raid Law School.

Pupils Exposed to Small Pox Are Vaccinated.

Student From New Ulm Said to Be Cause of Trouble.

The appearance of the "bogy man" at a day nursery, or a bull turned loose in a china shop, could not possibly have caused greater consternation than did two health inspectors who invaded the law school on the fourth floor of the city hall Friday night.

The health inspectors were loaded down with formaldehyde and vaccine points, and when the announcement was made that all of the students were to be vaccinated there was the greatest confusion.

The ninety or more embryo lawyers made a dash for liberty, and more than two-thirds of them made a successful escape, while thirty were held up by the inspectors, who announced that the students would either have to produce certificates or submit to vaccination.

Protests went up from all sides, but the men from the health department were insistent, and the law students were told that they could not return to school unless they were vaccinated. A number escaped by baring their arms and showing scars or previous vaccinations, which were accepted by the inspectors upon the condition that the students would produce their certificates later.

Some twenty-five or thirty of the students, however, could not produce the scars nor could they agree to produce a certificate, and they were lined up by the two inspectors and vaccinated.

The cause of all of the trouble was the discovery that H. H. Flor, a member of the first-year class at the law school, had been found suffering from the smallpox. The case was reported to Health Commissioner Ohage, who investigated and ordered the young man sent to the detention hospital.

When Dr. Ohage learned that the young man had been attending the lectures at the law school he ordered two of his inspectors to go to the rooms occupied by the law school and vaccinate all of the students who could not show that they had recently been vaccinated.

Inspectors Burnham and O'Neil were delegated to the task, and they were cautioned to be careful not to let any of the students escape. While the unsuspecting students were gathering for their nightly lecture on the top floor of the building the two inspectors were down in the health office in the basement preparing vaccine points and getting together enough formaldehyde to disinfect the entire building.

Shortly before 9 o'clock one of the inspectors made a quiet trip to the top floor and then returned to the basement to report to his companion that everything was ready. The raid was carefully planned and in the minds of the inspectors it was successfully executed, regardless of the fact that sixty of the students escaped in the wild dash for liberty.—St. Paul Globe.

The young man mentioned as being responsible for Dr. Ohage's order and the subsequent panic is a son of Alderman and Mrs. Jos. Flor of this city. It would seem that his attack of small pox is anything but violent, if it was possible for him to attend lectures at the school after coming down with the disease.

Cattlemen Have Prospects.

Officers of the Minnesota and Dakota Cattle company are in receipt of very favorable reports from their ranch in South Dakota. The winter there has not been severe and if there is a good rainfall this spring and grazing improves the local men expect to have a bunch of choice cattle to put on the Chicago market next September or October. At present the company owns between 14,000 and 15,000 head of cattle but if stock is cheap in the Southwest this spring they will doubtless add to the number.
