

FEMALE WEAKNESS

542-2 Congress St.
PORTLAND, ME., Oct. 17, 1902.
I consider Wine of Cardui superior to any doctor's medicine I ever used and I know whereof I speak. I suffered for nine months with suppressed menstruation which completely prostrated me. Pains would shoot through my back and sides and I would have blinding headaches. My limbs would swell up and I would feel so weak I could not stand up. I naturally felt discouraged for I seemed to be beyond the help of physicians, but Wine of Cardui came as a God-send to me. I felt a change for the better within a week. After nineteen days treatment I menstruated without suffering the agonies I usually did and soon became regular and without pain. Wine of Cardui is simply wonderful and I wish that all suffering women knew of its good qualities.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root. Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

MAY TRANSFER CANAL CONCESSION

REPUBLIC OF COLOMBIA DEFEATED IN CASE AGAINST PANAMA COMPANY.

Last Obstacle to Transfer of Property to United States Removed—President and Attorney General Discuss the Matter Carefully.

Paris, April 1.—The first civil tribunal of the Seine has decided the case of the republic of Colombia against the Panama Canal company in favor of the defendants. The decision holds that the complaint of Colombia is not receivable and condemns the plaintiffs to pay the costs of the action. This decision has the effect of removing the legal obstacles in the way of the transfer of the canal concession from the company to the United States.

No More Cause for Delay.

Washington, April 1.—President Roosevelt and Attorney General Knox had a conference subsequent to the receipt of the information that the government of Colombia had lost its suit in the French courts against the new Panama Canal company, and that there was no longer any reason for delay in the transfer of the company's concessions and property to the United States. They discussed carefully the facts of the situation. At the conclusion of the interview, Attorney General Knox announced that there was now no more reason for delay than might be occasioned by the transfer of a title of a 20-foot lot in Washington.

All Obstacles Removed.

The attorney general said that the government had been proceeding on the assumption that the French court would take precisely the action it had taken and that at no time had very serious consideration been given to the proceeding instituted by Colombia. He added that the action of the French court had disposed of the last legal obstacle in the way of the transfer of the canal company's property.

Matter of Courtesy.

As a matter of courtesy to the French court, the canal company had refrained from calling a special meeting of the stockholders until the case pending had been determined. The attorney general thought it likely that a call for such a meeting would be issued soon by the company. How long it might be before the meeting could be held under that call, he could not say, but the meeting would ratify the transfer of the property and concessions when it was held.

Transfer of Stock.

W. A. Davis and Charles W. Russell, the assistant attorneys general who have gone to Paris to assist in the transfer of the property will remain there until the transfer shall have been completed. They will supervise, for the department of justice, the holding of the stockholders, and the transfer of the stock. They likewise will obtain a complete inventory of the property of the company which is to pass to the United States.

Payments at Same Time.

The dissolution of the Panama Canal company, so far as the transfer of the property to this country is concerned, probably will take place in the latter part of April. The payment of $40,000,000 to the company will be made about that time. It is not likely that the payment of the $10,000,000 to the Republic of Panama will be made prior to that to the canal company. It is the view of the president and the attorney general that the two payments should be practically concurrent. This is their interpretation of the legislation bearing upon the matter and of that ratified with the government of Panama.

Bandits Resentenced.

Chicago, April 2.—Judge Kersten yesterday resented the car-barn bandits—Peter Niedermeyer, Harvey Van Dine and Gustav Marx—to be hanged at the county jail April 22, the date originally fixed and then questioned as to its legality. By this proceeding he clarified the previous sentence of technical errors and made impossible, the state's attorneys think, any chance for respite or escape from the gallows.

Died of Strange Disease.

St. Louis, April 2.—William Combs, aged 34, died at the City hospital from an infirmity that had turned his blood white. His ailment was diagnosed as "splenic leukemia." Combs was as yellow as a Mongolian and frequently had been mistaken for one. The disease was painless and first attacked him 25 years ago. The case had attracted much attention from the local medical fraternity.

Charged with Murder.

Hazleton, Pa., April 4.—George Wresak, of Upper Lehigh, was arrested Sunday, charged with the murder of his wife, whom he is alleged to have struck on the head with a flatiron during a family quarrel a week ago. The woman died Saturday night. Wresak admits the charge, but claims he committed the fatal assault while in a state of intoxication.

All Previous Records Broken.

New York, April 4.—All previous high records for loans and deposits were swept aside by the week's statement of the associated banks of this city. Loans now aggregate $1,022,707,100, and deposits $1,069,369,400. The deposit increase for the week of almost $21,000,000 is doubtless due to preparations for the payment of the $50,000,000 of Panama canal moneys.

INQUIRY IS BEING MADE.

Government Agents Investigating Operations of Alleged "Beef Trust" at St. Louis.

St. Louis, April 4.—A corps of agents of the United States department of commerce was in St. Louis Saturday inquiring into the operations of the alleged and so-called "beef trust." Their names and their movements are kept secret.

According to information they have been sent here by Secretary Cortelyou, in accordance with a resolution by congress instructing him to investigate "the causes of the alleged low prices of beef cattle in the United States in July and the unusually large margin between the prices of beef cattle and the selling prices of fresh beef."

The resolution directs Secretary Cortelyou to ascertain and report whether the prices have been manipulated by any corporate combination, and, if so, what the capitalization, management and profits of such combinations are.

From St. Louis, the inspectors will visit Chicago, Kansas City and St. Joseph, and will also probably go to Omaha.

VICTIMS OF EXPLOSION.

Six Young Girls Known to have Been Killed, and Death List May Be Increased.

Scranton, Pa., April 1.—A number of girls employed in the Dickson Squib Manufacturing company's works at Pricbeurg, near here, were killed from an explosion yesterday. The number killed is estimated from 6 to 13. Eighteen or twenty girls were employed in the building at the time of the explosion.

The cause of the accident is a mystery. One story is to the effect that, previous to the explosion, one of the girls threw a squib into a stove and the explosion that followed was of sufficient force to wreck the building and set the structure on fire.

A FRIGHTFUL LEAP.

Man Jumps from Top Floor of Twenty-One Story Building in New York.

New York, April 2.—Sidney Johnston Hayden, of the Hotel Holley, yesterday jumped to the street from the top floor of the 21-story skyscraper at Broadway and New street. Nearly every bone in his body was broken. Hayden went into one of the unoccupied offices on the top floor of the New street side, raised a window, laid an umbrella he carried on the ledge and at once crawled out and jumped. His body made one full turn backward and struck the pavement with fearful force. Most of the persons who were passing in the street ran away in horror.

FATAL EXPLOSION.

Three Men Killed and Several Injured at Albion, Ia.—Cause Unknown.

Marshalltown, Ia., April 4.—An explosion in the Citizens' national bank building at Albion yesterday morning resulted in three being killed and several injured. The dead are: R. Ramsey, Edward Dougherty, Richard Grimes. The cause of the explosion is unknown, but it is supposed it originated in the heating plant. Besides the bank building, a clothing store and two grocery stores were destroyed by fire. The loss is $75,000.

Naval Officer Kills Himself.

Pensacola, Fla., April 2.—Lieut. Commander Edgar Townsend Warburton, chief engineer of the battleship Maine, now in this harbor, committed suicide in his cabin on board the vessel Friday. No cause is known for the act. He appeared to be in the best of health and spirits and within a few weeks would have been assigned to shore duty. Many of the officers expressed the belief that death was the result of an accident and that the commander had not committed suicide.

Bandits Resentenced.

Chicago, April 2.—Judge Kersten Friday resented the car-barn bandits—Peter Niedermeyer, Harvey Van Dine and Gustav Marx—to be hanged at the county jail April 22, the date originally fixed and then questioned as to its legality. By this proceeding he clarified the previous sentence of technical errors and made impossible, the state's attorneys think, any chance for respite or escape from the gallows.

Stabbed to Death.

Cairo, Ill., April 4.—Martin Farrell, an engineer, who has lately been employed on the towboat Mary Michael, was stabbed to death Sunday by James Coffey, a cigar maker, who came to this city from Poplar Bluff, Mo. Farrell came from Memphis to Cairo and claimed Philadelphia as his home. Both men were under the influence of liquor.

Train Held Up.

San Francisco, Cal., April 1.—The north-bound Oregon express was held up by three masked men at Capley, near Keswick, Shasta county. The bandits blew up the express car and looted it. Messenger O'Neill was killed while trying to defend his car. The amount secured is not known.

Walks Into the Rapids.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., April 2.—Otis White, of Ransomville, an old man, committed suicide at Prospect Point Friday by deliberately walking into the rapids where he sat down and was carried over the American falls.

The Public Debt.

Washington, April 2.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business March 31 last, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $915,422,101, a decrease for the month of $2,612,533.

"AS BOLD AS A LION."

Rather Say Bold as a Partridge if You Would Be Exact.

The only explanation of the adage, "As bold as a lion," is that the lion's magnificent, muscular body, his noble head, great mane, the fact that he is a wild beast and still more probably—his deep throated roar that sounds so extraordinarily bold have made him feared for generations. But the lion belongs to the family of cats and is not bold. To those who know best he is not brave even in the hour of danger. The lioness, who is smaller, less terrible to look upon and is without a mane, is brave in defense of her young, but she, too, is not bold. She is merely bolder than the lion. In comparison with any animal that can face danger and fight "fair" the lion is a coward. To prove it let us see for a moment how it is that the lion chooses to hunt his prey.

The lion does not hunt. In the reeds and grasses near some pool in the jungle he lies hidden where he knows that other animals will go to drink. Cat-like, he leaps upon his victim, striking it with his powerful paws. Then his great jaws break the neck of the unfortunate creature he has taken by surprise, and the lion boldly carries off the carcass to devour it where he will. The folk who live on the outskirts of jungles in the lion's country sometimes lose their sheep and goats when a hungry lion can muster courage to go near a human habitation in his search for food. He goes at night and stealthily. Who knows but that his heart goes pit-a-pat and his big limbs tremble at every sudden noise? The natives of India and of Africa know, however, that they can frighten away a thieving lion by fire and torches. If cornered and forced to fight he will do battle savagely, but he doesn't seek an open fight, and any traveler will tell you that as a rule the "king of beasts" bolts on sighting a man.

To be as bold as a partridge—as brave, unselfish, daring, heroic, as a partridge—is something one might be proud to boast. No lion defends its young with the courage of a partridge. The lioness at bay will turn in defense of her cubs, will fight the enemy, will spring at him furiously; the partridge will leave its little ones quite unprotected in the nest, or wherever they may be in hiding, and will offer herself to spare them. It is not the unthinking heroism of excitement. The bird knows what she is doing and the danger. She schemes to attract attention to herself, but she manages to lead the dogs on, and she escapes. We at least have never heard anything in the life history of the partridge so sad as that the mother bird has been taken at that supreme moment. Under the very nose of the dogs she will flutter and limp, with drooping wing, to deceive them into the belief that she is lamed and cannot fly.—New York Mail.

The King and the Preacher.

Dr. South on one occasion after preaching before Charles II., who, by the way, did not care any more than the humblest dissenter to listen to a read sermon, was twitted by the king of having read from a manuscript. "How is it, Dr. South," said his majesty, "that you, who are so famous for preaching without book, should read your sermon when you preach before me?" "May I answer your majesty with another question?" replied the witty doctor. "How is it that your majesty always reads your speeches to your faithful commons?" "Odsfish, doctor," said Charles, "because I have asked them for money so often that by this time I am ashamed to look them in the face." Dr. South, it must be admitted, had fairly laid himself open to the retort.

He Kept His Seat.

The nearsighted man, comfortably ensconced in the corner of the car, looked up at the woman who was holding a large bundle in one hand while she clung to the strap with the other. "Madam," said he, a wave of sudden generosity sweeping over him, "I make it a rule never to give my seat up to any woman, but I will be glad to help you. Let me hold your bundle for you."

AN AFRICAN ADVENTURE.

Paul du Chailu's First Encounter With a Monster Gorilla.

In his "Explorations and Adventures in Equatorial Africa" Paul du Chailu tells of his first encounter with a gorilla.

"We saw an immense one coming straight toward us out of the woods," he wrote. "As he came he gave vent to terrible howls of rage, as much as to say, 'I am tired of being pursued and will face you.'"

"It was a lone male, the kind which is always the most ferocious. This fellow made the woods resound with his roar, which is an awful sound, resembling the muttering of distant thunder. He was about twenty yards off when we first saw him. I was about to take aim and bring him down where he stood when my most trusted man, Malaonen, stopped me, saying in a whisper, 'Not time yet.'"

"We stood in silence, gun in hand. The gorilla looked at us for a minute or so, then beat his breast with his gigantic arms—and what arms he had!—then gave another howl of defiance and advanced upon us. How horrible he looked!

"'Not yet,' whispered Malaonen.

"Again the gorilla made an advance upon us. Now he was not twelve yards off. His face was distorted with rage. His huge teeth were ground against each other so that we could hear the sound. The skin of the forearm was drawn forward and backward rapidly, making his hair move up and down and giving a fendish expression to his hideous face. Again he roared, a sound which shook the woods like thunder. It seemed as if I could feel the earth trembling under my feet. The beast, looking us in the eye and beating his breast, advanced again.

"'Don't fire too soon,' said Malaonen. 'If you don't kill him he will kill you.'"

"This time he came within eight yards of us before he stopped. I was breathing fast with excitement as I watched the huge creature. Malaonen only said, 'Steady' as the gorilla came up. When he stopped Malaonen said:

"'Now!'"

"And before the beast could utter the roar for which he was opening his mouth three musket balls were in his body. He fell dead almost without a struggle."

Joint Affliction.

When the Halliday twins were babies their mother always referred to them collectively. This was natural enough, for they shared everything, from their baby carriage to chicken pox.

As they grew a little older, however, there were slight differences between Elnora and Eudora, but Mrs. Halliday took no account of them. When they had reached the age of seven, she still referred to them in a way which struck casual listeners as amusing.

"Where are Elnora and Eudora?" asked a cousin, who had come to spend the afternoon.

"The twins have gone with their father to have one of their teeth out," said Mrs. Halliday calmly.—Youth's Companion.
