L. G. Vogel has filed for the primary election for the office of county auditor, John Larson for clerk of court and S. D. Peterson for representative. This is probably the starting of the county campaign. There will doubtless be opposition to all the candidates for re-election both at the primaries and at the general election.

The New Um Hardware Co. is prepared to furnish the farmers with prison binder twine. A large consignment of the product of the prison arrived last week. This is the first year that merchants have been permitted to handle the prison twine, and farmers will be glad to know that they are able to get it of local dealers.

Send the Children to Us

Juvenile shoppers, as a rule, are not particular buyers. A childish diffidence—a youthful timidity on their part oft furnishes an opportunity for persons of more mature years, to usurp their turn at the trade counter. But here your child is always accorded the same courteous treatment that adults receive; is waited on just as promptly as his or her turn arrives; is made to feel "at home." So send your little ones to us when next you need anything in the drug line.

They expect to remain there for the balance of this week. Alex Ottomeyer may stay longer in the hope that the change will agree with his health.

Readers of the Review who are afflicted with troubles of the eye will bear in mind the fact that Prof. Myer is in the city and will remain here for one week, and will be glad to have you consult him in regard to your glasses. He is at C. G. Reim's jewelry store and you will find him a very pleasant man to meet.

Scarcely a day has passed during the past two weeks that it has not rained very hard, and the farmers are beginning to wonder what the harvest is going to be. There will be many places where Fourth of July celebrations have been planned that will have to confine their celebrations to the sidewalks because the streets will be too muddy for use.

Patrick Moan, owner of the Grand hotel, was married last week to Miss Nellie Bennett, Rev. Father Sandmeyer performing the ceremony. The newly married couple left for a short trip when they will return to this city. Mr. Moan and his bride expect to assume control of the Grand hotel, which is now leased to Mr. Filber, who it is presumed will retire from the management.

Claus Swanson of the fourth commissioner's district of Nicollet county has announced his intentions of being a candidate for the office of county commissioner. The voters of that district will do well to bear this in mind and when the time for voting arrives see that he is given the office. A more capable man and one who will look after the interests of the district better will be difficult to find.

Announcement is made that the Wyoming & North-Western Railway to Shoshoni, on the border of the Shoshone Indian Reservation will be completed July 1st. Great preparations are being made at the new town for the reception of the people when the homestead rush sets in. Boarding houses and hotels will be under municipal ownership and control, and everything is being done to provide for the preservation of order.

The gentleman is sergeant of the hospital corps. Mrs. Grussendorf and little son are still visiting in New Ulm but will return the first of the week. Meanwhile Mr. Grussendorf is painting the interior of their residence.—Fairfax Standard.

Bills are out announcing a moving picture show that includes a number of views of the San Francisco disaster. The exhibition is to take place at the Opera house on Sunday evening. According to the bills and to the reputation that papers coming to this office give the show it is well worth the cost of admission to see it, and will please and entertain all, besides give an intelligent idea of the century's great disasters.

Candidates for office will have to pay the filing charges, according to the ruling of the courts. The question was taken up by Haldor E. Boen and some others and so decided. The claim being made that the expense of filing and of securing the necessary number of names to a petition where the candidate desired to run as the candidate of a party that had little following in the state, was such that it practically barred a poor man from entering the race and left the condition of the common people even worse than before the primary law was passed.

Wm. Burg of this city surprised his friends by returning from Wabasha Thursday morning with a bride, who was formerly Miss Clara Kuehn. Thursday evening a number of the members of the band assembled about the home for the purpose of serenading the couple but were informed that on account of the illness of Mrs. Frank Burg it would be best to desist. The proper and handsome thing was done by the bride groom in the way of providing refreshments for the boys and they departed. Mr. and Mrs. Burg have the best wishes of a large circle of friends in this city.

Since the passage of the act giving this city an appropriation for a public building there has been considerable speculation as to the best place for it, and it is generally believed to be that one of the corners of Broadway and 1st North street would be the most central and convenient. The matter of the location will depend largely upon the price of the land, for since there is a delivery system in the city the matter of having the post office in the central part of the city will not appeal to the government so much as the cost of the property and it is likely to be placed some distance from the business centre of the place.

J. C. Salsbury, general agent and manager for Minnesota for the American Registry Company, has been in the city the past week and has done a very large business. The company he is with does an accident insurance business taking in a certain line of risks and paying for accidents of a certain character, and is very cheap. The reason for it being so cheap is the light risk it runs in having to pay indemnities. Those minor accidents that are most liable to come to a person are exempt. The premium is so small that most people do not miss the amount and the protection being cheap is worth the risk.

John Kahut celebrated the anniversary of his fiftieth birthday among a circle of friends Sunday.

Miss Carrie Eibner has accepted a position as stenographer in the office of the Eagle Roller Mill Co.

In going over some of the effects that were stored in the attic of her home in this city Mrs. Caroline Dunkel found a copy of the New Ulm Review, issued during the week of the cyclone which destroyed the city on July 15th, 1881. The paper contains a very elaborate write up of the event by Gen. Bobleter. Mrs. Dunkel has taken good care to place the paper where it will be secure for all time and prizes it very highly.

In the accounts of what happened forty years ago in St. Paul, which has been running in some of the papers of the state, there is mention of the establishment at St. Paul of a peat factory, said to have been on a large scale and a report of the test that were made of the fuel. It appears that the product must have been a failure for the matter seems to have been entirely forgotten though it is claimed that the results of burning the fuel were in all points very satisfactory.

The benefit concert given by the members of the Second Regiment band at Turner Park Sunday evening was unusually well attended and was an interesting feature. The music was not only the best, but aside from the work that was done by the band the Maennerchor sang a number of pieces and there were some vaudeville stunts by Stengel and Trauttmiller that were alone worth the price of admission. The band will be able to turn over to the injured member of that organization something like $50 as a result of the enterprise.

It is not necessary to remind the readers of the Review that today is the Fourth of July, no doubt some of them will have occasion to remember it as long as they live, but we hope not in any painful manner. Last year 182 people were killed in the United States on the Fourth of July, and 5,176 were maimed, six of these were made entirely blind and forty-five lost one eye. If it is necessary that your patriotism should seek some dangerous method of expression see to it that all caution is observed and look after the children.

Cuddy & Cavanaugh are about ready to start operations on the ditch for which they have the contract in this county. Their machine has arrived and has been put in shape. It is the only machine of its kind in this part of the country and differs from the usual machine from the fact that it cuts a ditch with sloping sides, whereas the others have straight sides and are much harder to keep clean. The machine is a very heavy concern and will attract a large amount of attention when in use, as it is operated with a steam engine.

A trip through the country Sunday reveals the fact that there are very good reasons to believe that notwithstanding the immense amount of rain that has fallen, there will be an average crop this year. On places where the ground is low wheat looks thin and yellow but that is more than made up by the better grain that is shown on the higher land. Corn appears to be the most backward some of it barely out of the ground and in some places farmers are turning under fields that are apparently so full of weeds that it is impossible to do anything with the grain. Rye has passed the danger point and in a week some of the fields will be harvested. It is generally very good. Farmers complain that the elements have been against them and that they will suffer, but if things do not grow worse than they are at present they should fare as well as usual.

According to reports from Washington it appears that the bill introduced by Mr. McCleary to have the men who served under arms in the defense of this city against the Indians has not been forgotten and that it has at least passed one of the houses. It is a difficult bill to get through, and it is doubtful if it will ever become a law, though there are many of the older people of this part of the country who are more justly entitled to pensions for the service they rendered the government at that time, than many who are now drawing pensions for their short service at the close of the war when they saw no service and were not in danger of any kind. We would like to see every man who bore arms in defense of this city and of Fort Ridgely and in fact any man who took the place of an enlisted soldier during the massacre, given a good pension—he deserves it.
