

CAN RID FIELDS OF MUSTARD

O. C. Gregg Has Method of Destroying This Pest.

Spraying With Sulphate of Iron Does the Business.

Makes Practical Demonstration of Method at His Home.

Good news to farmers with mustard ridden fields is contained in the results of experiments conducted by O. C. Gregg, superintendent of the state farmers' institute on his farm in Lynd, Lyon county. He says that the experiments tried this spring establish absolutely that mustard may be killed by spraying with a solution of sulphate of iron, and that the spraying will not injure the grain.

This will mean much to the farmers of the northwest. The grain farmer has had a continual battle with the wild mustard. The pest spreads rapidly and a few seeds in a field will, if not kept down, cover the entire field in a couple of years. Once mustard taken hold of a field it has been almost impossible to eradicate it. Where it has not got too strong a hold, picking is resorted to during June, some farmers spend several days with as many women and children as possible, picking the weeds from the field.

But when the mustard has covered the field picking is useless and cutting will of course destroy the crop. Turning the field into meadow or pasture is no better, for the seeds will lie in the ground for years, and when the turf is plowed up again the pest will be as prominent as ever.

Therefore the discovery will mean much to the farmer. Mr. Gregg says that he sprayed fields with the sulphate of iron solution when the grain was about four inches high and the mustard had about three leaves. This destroyed the mustard and did not injure the grain. Some people, he said, believed that it made the grain better, but he had not been able to verify this from personal observation. He says that it may be some little trouble to arrange machinery that will do the work of spraying satisfactorily and economically, but there is no doubt but that the solution does the work. If the land is tilled all the seeds will sprout in two or three years and the field is redeemed. The experiments will be discussed at the farmers' institutes the coming winter.

Mr. Gregg was in St. Paul on the way back from Hinckley where he addressed a meeting last Saturday and discussed the question of silos and ensilage. The farmers of that section have become greatly interested in the question of silos and a number of silos will be constructed this summer. The farmers wanted information about building the silos and putting up the ensilage, and called the special meeting and asked Mr. Gregg to give them the needed information regarding them all over the state.

In Self Defense

Major Hamm, editor and manager of the Constitutionalist, Eminence, Ky., when he was fiercely attacked, four years ago, by Files, bought a box of Bucklen's Arnica Salve, of which he says: "It cured me in ten days and no trouble since." Quickest healer of Burns, Sores, Cuts and Wounds. 25c at O. M. Olsen's drug store.

LIGHTNING BLOTS OUT TWO LIVES

Flash Strikes Men While Driving Along the Road.

Nic Welter and Albert Dahms were killed by lightning last Wednesday evening at Morton as they were returning from an outing on the river where they had spent the day fishing. They were in a wagon driving along the main road through the Indian agency when the flash of lightning came. The hat which was worn by Albert Dahms was torn to pieces and the back of his skull was crushed but there were no marks on the body of the other man. One of the horses was also killed though the other was unharmed.

One of the Indian women living near noticed the condition of the men and the team and hastened to give the alarm. As the Indians were all gathered about the dead men the native preacher offered a touching prayer as the entire assembly removed their hats and stood in bowed-silence.

The two dead men were residents of Morgan and are well known in this city and through the western part of the county.

Prof. Tyler, of Amherst college, said recently: "A man can live comfortably without brains; no man ever existed without a digestive system. The dyspeptic has neither faith, hope or charity." Day by day people realize the importance of caring for their digestion; realize the need of the use of a little corrective after overeating. A corrective like Kodol For Dyspepsia. It digests what you eat. Sold by Eugene A. Pfefferle.

Homeseekers' Excursion to the Northwest, West and Southwest

Via the North-Western Line. Excursion tickets at greatly reduced rates are on sale to the territory indicated above. Standard and Tourist Sleeping Cars, Free Reclining Chair Cars and "The Best of Everything." For dates of sale and full particulars apply to agents Chicago and North-Western R'y.

FINDS FAVOR IN FACTIONS

Disaffection in Party Goes to Gutter.

Finds District Largely in Favor of His Election.

Promises to Lead Mr. McCleary a Very Merry Chase.

There was a very pleasant smile on the face of Gilbert Gutterson as he entered the Review office Saturday to chat a while with the office force of the paper, and the confident manner in which he expressed his opinion of the outcome of the condition of affairs in his district as it is likely to affect him and his friend McCleary was such as would lead one to suspect that he is in touch with some of the best minds of the district and lead one to believe that he knows what he is talking about when he says that he is confident of the election in September.

He says that he believes that Brown county is one of the hardest counties he will have to fight. He finds here more McCleary followers per acre than in any of the other counties but still in the three or four times it has been his pleasure to be in the county he has been able to find new supporters each time and some of them are from among those of the county and city who have the influence and confidence of the people, and he believes that there are more who will come to his standard before the day for voting arrives.

Since his visit to this city sometime ago, Mr. Gutterson has put on a different air: before he was doubtful of his having done the wise thing in entering the field and was inclined to believe that he would have a hard time of it now he thinks that his chances are very good and he gives you that impression in talking with him.

Quoting Mr. Gutterson in regard to the opening of the congressional campaign at Amboy by his opponent he has the following to say:

"In his Amboy speech meant to inaugurate the congressional campaign in the Second district, Mr. McCleary declared that he had been sent to Congress, and was paid by the government to act as an expert on momentous problems now confronting the American people, and he drew the logical conclusion, not very flattering for his constituents, that the voters of the district were not able, for lack of time and ability to learn the exact truth, unless it came to them through Mr. McCleary's way of thinking.

"This plain statement, contains at least three fallacies which show how little Mr. McCleary apparently cares for the people of his district beyond getting their votes in time of need.

"In the first place, the expert business has been of late years done to death. The most sensational murder trial the Empire state ever had is likely to be settled on the testimony of experts on insanity; another, nearly as notorious, was decided on the testimony of experts on handwriting. Experts of all sorts are constantly coming to the front; they do not agree among themselves; and, too often, the man with a long purse can secure some experts to boost up his own side. The testimony of experts has become largely valueless, because it can prove or attempt to prove almost anything.

"In the second place, Mr. McCleary reflects on the intelligence of the voters of the Second district when he intimates, that they are not competent to judge for themselves of the important issues before them. If so, why have any campaign at all. They may not be able to understand even Mr. McCleary himself. The average voter in the Second district takes at least one daily paper besides his home weekly, and one or two farm papers. Though he lives a busy life, he reads a good deal, and in spite of Mr. McCleary's insinuations, he understands what he reads; he is able to decide how he shall vote. Mr. McCleary is a bright man, but he has not a monopoly of brain and patriotic citizenship, to the exclusion of anyone else in the Second district.

"In the third place, the claims of Mr. McCleary, if true, place him in the self-acquired position of a dictator, in plain words, a political boss; and the reign of the boss in American politics is being fast relegated to oblivion.

"While he was professor in the Mankato Normal school, Mr. McCleary wrote a treatise on Civics in which he tells us, very truthfully that the members of the lower house of Congress are called "Representatives", because they "represent" the people. But when he says that he, and he alone, is the sole and proper judge of the opinions and needs of the voters of the Second district, Mr. McCleary ceases to be a "representative" of the people, and becomes an autocrat whose words might be acceptable in Russia, but not in the United States. The trouble with Mr. McCleary is that he takes himself too seriously. In his fond imagination, he has become a self-constituted dictator whose word must be law. No doubt Mr. McCleary is an expert; but he is an expert only in playing at being a boss. He is an expert gone to seed."

* No charge for sewing and laying our carpets. J. H. FORSTER. 11-17

WHEAT RATES ARE NOT RIGHT

Railroads Give Southern Farmers Big Advantage.

Freight Rate From Omaha to Chicago Eight Cents.

An Unjust Discrimination Against Northern Enterprises.

It reports that have appeared in the papers in the last few days are to be relied upon in regard to the difference in the freight rates on wheat from the southern wheat fields, and especially those of Kansas, Nebraska and South Dakota, there is a wonderful and unjust discrimination made by the roads in favor of the farmers of that part of the country.

A new schedule of rates gives the farmers of that territory a price of eight cents a hundred on wheat from Omaha and other large centers to Chicago, whereas the rate from Minneapolis is 17½ making a vast difference in favor of the southern fields.

The probable reason for this southern cut is the desire of the roads to secure business for the Chicago lines, but it is a discrimination that works a serious injury to the farmers and millers of this part of the country. Omaha is farther from Chicago than this territory is and a large amount of the South Dakota wheat that would under ordinary and usual circumstances come to this market is diverted out of it by this arbitrary freight ruling.

The difference in price of grain thus obtained by the millers of the middle states completely shuts out the competition of the mills in this section where there are no rebates for it gives them the advantage of more than the usual profit of the flour.

More than this it affects the farmers in a way that is a serious detriment to them. The difference of five or six cents a bushel is a vast amount in the aggregate, and is a discrimination that is decidedly unjust. If at any time there ever was or would be a cut in the rates for the northern freights it might not appeal to them in the same light as it now does, but the rates for the northern states are fixed and arbitrary and during the time that lapses between the ripening of the wheat in the southern state and the shipment of grain in the northern states, the railroads appear to enter into competition for the grain and up until the cars are demanded for the movement of the northern crop the wheat and flour business of this part of the country is paralyzed by this action of the roads.

It is an unfair and unjust discrimination and if the railroad and warehouse commission of this state had the interest of the state and not the railroads at heart it would declare a rate that would bring the roads to time and effect a just and equitable market for the farmers of this country and enable the mills to operate continuously on a basis that would guarantee their maintenance.

It is a matter that might well be looked after by the commercial club of this city, though perhaps ineffectively it would serve to show the commission that their duties were being neglected to the injury of the producing classes of the state and the shame of the commission.

LOOKING FOR MILITARY HONORS

New Ulm Boys Take Interest in Good Records.

Eleven men from the Second Regiment will participate in the target practice that is soon to be held at Lake City to determine who out of the regiment will be entitled to go to Seagirt to take part in the national shoot at that place. The excellent record made by Edwin Juni, if continued in the shooting that is to take place during this month will no doubt give him a place on the team.

Examinations will be held Monday, August 12, in St. Paul for those who have been elected to offices in the state militia, and there will be two from this city to take the examinations. Frank Hubbard, who has been elected to the office of first lieutenant and Baptist Groebner who was elected to the office of second lieutenant will take the examinations.

There has been considerable new life injected into the company and the officers are hopeful of making a showing during the coming year that will set the pace for all the other companies in the regiment.

There is nothing so pleasant as that bright, cheerful, at-peace-with-the-world feeling when you sit down to your breakfast. There is nothing so conducive to good work and good results. The healthy man with a healthy mind and body is a better fellow, a better workman, a better citizen than the man or woman who is handicapped by some disability, however slight. A slight disorder of the stomach will derange your body, your thoughts and your disposition. Get away from the morbidness and the blues. Keep your stomach in tune and both your brain and body will respond. Little indiscretions of overeating can be easily corrected and you will be surprised to see how much better man you are. Try a little Kodol For Dyspepsia after your meals. Sold by Eugene A. Pfefferle.

A Certain Cure for Aching Feet.

Allen's Foot-Ease a powder; cures Tired Aching, Swollen feet. Sample sent free, also Sample of Foot-Ease Sanitary Corn-Pad a new invention. Address, Allen S. Olmsted, Le Roy, N. Y.

THE VICI

PROF. ALBERT MYER, Eyesight Specialist

THE VICI

Authority on Eyes

"KANTSEUM" The New Invisible Bi-Focals

Ordinary Bi-Focals

Able, Thorough

At Jewelry Store of C. G. Reim, New Ulm

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY AUG. 10 AND 11