

BREWING CO. IS BANKRUPT

Leading Creditors of the Insolvent Schmucker Concern Finally Force Action.

Liabilities, it is Claimed, Will Aggregate More Than $60,000.

Andrew Biehl, Principal Creditor, Involved for Almost Half That Amount.

Yesterday was the day set for the execution sale of certain property belonging to the Schmucker Brewing Co., the attachment, under which the sale was to have been held, having been secured by Grebe & Emmerich, local plumbers, who had a claim against the firm of $577.18.

But the sale did not take place. Other creditors realized what an act of this kind would mean and they immediately got busy.

Saturday evening a meeting of the directors of the company was held and at this meeting it was agreed that a proceeding which would put the corporation into bankruptcy would be the most satisfactory that could be hit upon for all concerned.

Accordingly Henry N. Somsen, an attorney representing a number of creditors, filed a petition with the clerk of the United States district court in bankruptcy at Mankato on Monday. This petition asks that the Schmucker Brewing Co. be forced into involuntary bankruptcy, the only proceeding possible with an insolvent corporation, and that a receiver be appointed to take charge of the available assets. This petition will be heard by Referee Flittie at Mankato within the next few days.

The Schmucker Brewing Co. was organized about eight years ago. Since then it has experienced a checkered career.

Jos. Schmucker, the original president of the concern, was a man who had a mania for improvement, and it is estimated that in changing the old plant of five hundred barrels capacity into a new and modern institution he expended from $40,000 to $50,000. When Schmucker died the concern was head over heels in debt.

A year ago Wm. Herrian attempted the reorganization of the concern and to a certain extent he succeeded. But business was poor from the start, and complication piled on complication until bankruptcy seemed inevitable.

One of the local banks holds a first mortgage for $10,000, another bank has a second mortgage of equal amount, and there are bonds, notes and other indebtedness aggregating a total, it is believed of more than $60,000.

Andrew Biehl, a West Newton farmer, who became associated with the corporation at the time of its original inception, is without question the principal loser. His claims against the company, including stock and money and securities advanced, it is said will not be far from $30,000.

Miss Dora Schmidt is a Milwaukee visitor this week, the guest of her sister, Marie, who expects soon to depart for California for the summer.

Dr. Strickler received a letter from Richard Higgs at Walker yesterday in which the young man says he is improving rapidly and feels confident of complete recovery. His many New Ulm friends will be glad to hear it.

The son of Henry Barth had his right hand badly burned while shooting off fire crackers on the Fourth. George, the son of Al. Crone, was also severely bruised about the face and hands by the explosion of a toy cannon.

The marriage of Mrs. Schorregge to Gen. Jos. Bobleter caused a vacancy in the office of deputy county auditor and this vacancy has now been filled through the appointment by Auditor Vogel of Wm. J. Herrian. Mr. Herrian will enter upon his new duties the first of next month.

The Lafayette Farmers' Elevator Co. at its annual meeting declared a dividend of ten per cent. The newly elected officers are: President, J. K. ## DEMOCRATS SEEKING LEADER

Horizon Being Scanned for Opponent to Candidate from Lac qui Parle.

John Lind and W. S. Hammond Among Those Most Prominently Considered.

The Only Point Against Lind is the Minneapolisian's Own Objections.

There is a great deal of speculation, says the Minneapolis Tribune, as to whom the democrats of Minnesota will nominate to oppose J. F. Jacobsen in the coming race for the governorship.

Two prominent names have been mentioned, those of Former Governor John Lind of Minneapolis and Congressman Winfield Scott Hammond of St. James.

Frank Day, chairman of the democratic state central committee, declines to be interviewed regarding the probable candidate, but he intimates that the man who can turn the trick is in sight and will be sprung at the psychological moment.

Lind, of course, is universally looked upon as the man best equipped to perform the remarkable feat, but the principle obstacle in the way of Mr. Lind's candidacy appears to be Mr. Lind himself. Lind has been out of active politics for several years and is now doing a lucrative law business in Minneapolis. If he should make the run and be elected he would have to give that up and at the end of his term start over again to work up a practice. Having gone through this experience, before it is said he does not take kindly to the idea of repeating it, conceding that there is a chance of his election.

Then there is another point which makes it improbable that Mr. Lind will make the run. He was victorious once and defeated twice and now that Governor Johnson, under the peculiar conditions which have existed during the last four years, has made a high water mark in the way of plurality, Mr. Lind would naturally feel reluctant to make a trial this year when the Republicans seem to be united and disposed to enter the campaign solidly arrayed behind their candidate.

If Lind should make the race and be defeated by a goodly number of votes, it would tend to mar the luster of his fame, especially as it would be in such direct and immediate contrast with the record made by Governor Johnson. The distinction of being the most prominent Swede in the state now lies between the present and former governor and such a result would not be pleasing to the latter. He has had his fling at the game, gained a position of prominence in the state and it is not surprising that he does not jump at the suggestion of making another trial at the uncertain game of politics.

Congressman Hammond is frequently mentioned for the nomination, but it is generally believed that he does not care for it. He is now serving his first term in congress and is the only Democratic representative from this state. With a three-cornered fight in his district for the Republican nomination for congress he probably feels that he has a better chance of being sent to congress for another term at the hands of his more immediate neighbors than he would have of being elected governor.

There are shrewd political judges, however, who regard Hammond's chances of being elected governor far better than his chances of going back to congress, and it is not at all unlikely that he will be brought around to this view of it himself.

Jacobsen is not going to be as strong in certain rural districts as was expected, and in the city precincts it is conceded that Hammond or any other good man would have much the best of him.

Mrs. John Hauenstein gave a children's party yesterday in honor of her granddaughter, Miss Thunelda Furst of Bedford, Indiana.

Mrs. Paul Oleson and Miss Ella Yackel of Lambert, after a week's visit in New Ulm, departed for Kansas City Thursday afternoon.

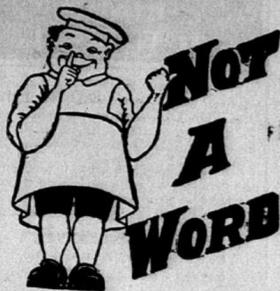

Arthur Seifert has entered the dental office of Dr. Miller as a student preparatory to entering the dental department of the State University next fall.

It is reported that there are between 2,000 and 3,000 cases of sickness in Mankato as the result of using city water. Hadn't any idea there were that many consumers.
