Obituary.

Last Thursday morning at the home of his son Herman, Tracy, occurred the death of August Seiter a well-known citizen of New Ulm. Deceased was born in Buehl, Baden, Aug. 29th, 1824 and received his early education in the public schools of his home town. Sept. 29th, 1847 he landed in New York and from there went to Cincinnati, Ohio, where he lived for several years, following the profession of a tailor. In this city he was married to Miss Ida Julia Luckenbach Jan. 24th, 1854. In 1857 he joined a number of prominent Cincinnati Germans for the purpose of organizing a colony in Minnesota. The pioneers traveled via the river route and arrived on the steamer "Frank Steele," on the 6th of May 1857 near New Ulm, then a wilderness.

The Setters took up a piece of land and for three years lived on what is now known, the Schlumpberger farm. After three years Mr. Seiter removed to New Ulm where he lived up to a short time before his death, following his profession. Last Christmas, Mr. Seiter went to Tracy to spend the winter with his oldest son, Herman. He expected to return to New Ulm early this spring but death overtook him. The remains were brought to this city where they were buried last Sunday from Turner Hall.

Mr. Seiter was in many ways a unique and original character and will be greatly missed by the great number of friends in this city. He was a great lover of nature and the dramatic art and entertained fixed and well grounded principles and ideas on the most important questions of public and political life. Above all he considered individual and personal liberty the highest attainment for himself as well as for his fellowmen. He is survived by his wife and the following children: Hermann, Tracy; Otmar, St. Paul; Rudolph, Minneapolis; Emil, Ilda and Hedwig of New Ulm. The following from out of town attended the funeral: O. A. Seiter, St. Paul; R. G. Seiter, Minneapolis; H. F. Seiter and wife, Tracy; H. R. Seiter, Kansas City, Mo.; Dudley Seiter, Tracy and Alfred Seiter, Minneapolis.

Christ. Dahl died last Monday at his home in Cottonwood. Deceased was born July 6, 1845 in Mecklenburg, Schwerin and when seven years old came to Watertown, Wis. with his parents. After remaining here for four years the family moved to New Ulm settling on a farm in Cottonwood. Mr. Dahl was married April 4, 1876 to Ernestine Krueger of Milford. Mr. Dahl was one of the early settlers and has done much in making this vicinity a civilized community. He was a soldier and had enlisted to go south during the Civil War. For some reason, however, he was not ordered to the front. During the Indian uprising and massacre he bravely assisted in protecting the women, children and property of the colony. He is survived by his wife and seven children: August, Henry, Benjamin, Robert, Arthur, Louisa, all of New Ulm and Christian of Minneapolis. Mr. Dahl was a faithful member of the Evangelical church in Seales to which place he will be taken for burial. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Roesti officiating.

Mrs. Barbara Holm, a well-known old settler of this vicinity died last Wednesday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Sittauer of Sigel. The cause of her death being an apoplectic stroke. A basket-ball team composed of Carl Hein, Elmer Cordes, Frances Keegan, Clarence Gieseke, Earl Seiter and Carl Stengel, accompanied by some other youthful rooters and in charge of Mr. Koessler went down to Mankato last Saturday afternoon and played the Junior Y. M. C. A. team of that place. Although the local aggregation didn't profess to be exceptional good players, they gave their opponents a hard game. During the first half they made a splendid showing, holding their opponents to 8 points while they made 6. But during the second half they seemed to have lost the knack of it and allowed the opponents to run up the large score of 37 while they could not get beyond the 8 point mark. Mr. McCormick of North Mankato refereed the game. The boys expect to play the same team here next Saturday afternoon.

are frequently the cause of death. A bold statement but a truth. Doctors acknowledge that a great proportion of consumptives could be cured, their lungs healed and their lives saved if it was not for the cough and its effect upon the lungs, the respiratory system, each cough bringing another as a result of the inflammation and irritation caused by it.

A hacking cough does more damage than the most imaginative can suppose. What at first is not serious, soon becomes so, leading from bad to worse, the slight cough of its own agency terminating in years of heartrending suffering and final death.

Stop coughing and live. Pfefferle's Reliable Cough Syrup, the result of exhaustive analysis and comparison of the action of the different ingredients when taken internally for the soothing and allaying of irritation and its attending inflammation, is now a recognized household necessity, absolutely harmless, but wonderfully efficient. Not an ordinary concoction compounded to sell, but an article of genuine merit, scientific in its composition, satisfaction and results for the user our first consideration; its cost to produce not considered.

Pfefferle's Reliable Remedies are guaranteed. Satisfaction assured, or money refunded. That's strong talk on a cough syrup, but we have the article. We have proved it; we want you to do likewise, and we will stand back of The Best Cough Syrup Made:
