

Ticket Sale Is A Big Success

Program As Prepared For University Week Is Most Attractive.

Residents of Surrounding Country Are Invited To Attend.

More than $200 of the $300 guarantee required to secure the advantages of "University Week" for New Ulm already repose snugly in the treasury of the promoters of this splendid opportunity for bringing the University to those who can not go to it. It must not be imagined, however, that the $300 is all that "University Week" costs. The actual cost per week is somewhere in the neighborhood of $1,500. The state legislature appropriated out of the state treasury some $85,000 to be used in the University Extension work and as between 40 and 80 cities so far have made application for the work the cost to the state runs at least more than $1,000 per city. This is in addition to the money raised on the guarantees furnished by the committees having local charge. If the committees are so fortunate as to have money left over after paying all expenses it will go towards some future fund for city improvement, as the $300 is all that is required from the city.

The program of features for the various days as published last week in the Review remains practically unchanged at this writing with only changes of schedule made necessary by existing train connections. All speakers on the program are engaged for dates at five other cities on the Southern Minnesota circuit and in order to fill all dates some changes in hours and days have already been made but the substance of the program remains as first laid out. A corrected program will probably be published in the next issue of the Review.

Meanings of University Week will be given over to informal meetings between the University specialists and the citizens. It is hoped that people from surrounding towns and farms will take advantage of their chance to see and hear some of the good things that will be measured out in plenty that week. The afternoon sessions at least can be attended and for them there is no charge to any one. It comes at a season such that every one should be able to get away from home. Planting will all be done, practically, and the gathering of crops not yet begun and every one should make it a matter of personal concern to see that the outsiders are cordially invited to this get together good time. Give the University specialists a chance to go away from New Ulm with the feeling that no more alive community than this exists. Farmers and town people alike are needed to give this impression.

Twenty-six different persons will appear on the program in New Ulm besides the group numbers consisting of the University Glee Club and the Dramatic Club. Dr. Ernest B. Hoag who visited our city during the winter and inspected our schools from a hygienic standpoint will speak on "Public Health," and along similar lines will be the talk by Dr. Raymond V. Phelan on "Business and Health." Dr. Phelan may take for his topic "The Industrial Struggle," however, when he addresses the business men of the city at the luncheon planned for them and he is down for a talk on "Civic Welfare" at which time he will show an exhibit of "What the Old World Has to Teach the New." The material for this exhibit has been secured at considerable expense. Dr. Phelan's specialty is Social Economics. Another aspect of the public health and welfare will be treated by Miss Augusta Mettle who is a trained nurse and will present the subject under the head of "Infant Welfare."

Professor John C. Hutchinson who knows the classic world as well as the average person knows his own household will give a most interesting lecture on "Early Greek Civilization." The lecture will be illustrated and another somewhat similar topic will be "The Conservation of Old World Gifts in Arts and Crafts" by either Maurice I. Flagg or Miss Scovel, both of whom were connected with the State Art Exhibit that brought into prominence the work of the Bohemian lace makers of New Ulm. Miss Clara Baldwin or Miss Martha Wilson, both of whom are interested in Library work will speak on "Books as Tools of Efficiency."

Finance gets its innings when Prof. C. W. Thompson talks to the business men at their luncheon on "Financing the Farmer." Prof. Thompson also will talk on Socialistic subjects, giving arguments for and against, and treating of "Successful Co-operation." New Ulm is laboring in the throes of indecision as to industrial education. Prof. A. V. Storm or Prof. G. A. Works will talk on "Education for Efficiency" which may help some of the slow ones to come to a decision as to the advisability of practical work in our schools. "Sex Education" will be treated by Dr. Anna J. Norris, director of physical education for women at the University. Dr. Norris was reluctant to take part in the University extension work and New Ulm mothers and daughters should show appreciation of the numbers by attending largely to learn the things so essential to a wholesome, happy well-being. This lecture will be for women only and it is likely that some ball game or other amusement for the men will be planned at the hour of this talk.

Other illustrated lectures on the course are those by Dr. E. V. Robinson on "The Pig Ditch" and Dr. Burt L. Newkirk on the "Gyroscope." No expense has been spared in securing the best illustrated material to be had for both these lectures.

Last winter New Ulm heard Dr. Merica on the Boy Problem and during University Week another expert on the Bad Boy will emphasize the lessons taught by Dr. Merica. John E. Gunckel is hailed as a favorite by boys wherever he goes and is an extremely interesting man. He is president of the National Newsboys' Association and of the Toledo branch. He speaks from an experience of twenty-one years with the boys of the street. He knows the good points as well as the bad ones in boy and girl life and he tells his audiences "How to Develop the Good in a Bad Boy." Another topic on which he speaks is "Three Years' Experience with the Girls of the Street." All the girls and boys and parents and teachers should hear his talks.

A debate on either the Woman Suffrage question or one on Socialism will be a feature of one of the evening programs. Those taking part will be Messrs. Stanley Gillham, H. L. Hall, Carl Painter and Edwin Dahlberg. "Public Discussion and Democracy" will be another number on the program of a like nature.

Dr. Hardin Craig will lecture on the "Social Influence of the Drama." Dr. Craig is a member of the Department of English at the State University. His talk will be more appreciated because of the play to be given by the University Dramatic Club. "Judah" is a three-act drama which demands a large cast and is an expensive performance. Henry Arthur Jones is the chief star of this performance. There are several programs of dramatic impersonations, interpretations and readings by Miss Harriet Heland, Mrs. Dorothy Kurtzman and Miss Emelie Eggen. Dr. Craig will also entertain with "Uncle Remus Stories."

Song and story are handled by Mrs. Eleanor Poehler, the University Glee Club, Dr. James Davies, and Edna S. Fischer. Miss Fischer is a member of the Mankato Normal teaching force and she will talk especially for parents and teachers on the subject of "Plays and Games for Children." The Glee Club was never better than it is this year. Miss Mary Allen and Mrs. Catherine Parker are pianists and their work adds much to the finished whole of the musical part of the programs. Mrs. Poehler who appears Monday June 2nd, in the afternoon from four to five is very anxious that all the children be present to hear her. This is the children's hour and mothers should be sure to take the little ones.

The boys' camp has been arranged for and a number of the young men have signified their desire to take advantage of the offer of the University for this feature. All in all the week should prove a most profitable and pleasant one for every person in New Ulm.

Bank President Held Responsible

John Sharp, president of the State Bank of Commerce, Winnebago, Minn., must stand for trial for withholding information from the state bank superintendent Kelsey S. Chase. The supreme court yesterday overruled his demurrer to the indictment and sent the case back for trial. Sharp had inherited $150,000 from relatives in Scotland and moved from his farm into the town and went into the banking business. The evidence showed he paid little attention to the details, leaving this to H. W. Parker, who pleaded guilty to embezzlement and is now serving time in state's prison, and he cited this as a defense. In commenting on this phase of the case the supreme court says:

"The construction contended for by defendant as applied to reports made by executive officers of banks would almost wholly destroy the effectiveness of the law. This bank was the custodian of the funds of its depositors. Its principal business was to invest and safeguard their funds. This defendant was chief executive officer of the bank. It was his business to know whether the reports he made were true or false, and he cannot be heard to say that he possessed no knowledge of the truth or falsity of the reports which he made pursuant to a call of the superintendent of banks."

The court also upholds the 1909 law establishing a department of banks and making it a felony to withhold information required or to misstate facts. It appears the call for a report was made February 20, 1912, and Sharp's return was that the bank held no redemptions notes, while the amount held exceeded $10,000; that the cash on hand was $9,161.59, while in fact it was only $6,151.69; that the overdraft was $1,977.24, while it was proven that they amounted to $4,977.24.

Man Is Drowned In Cottonwood

Joseph Ebenhoe of Sleepy Eye Victim of Unsafe Boat.

Companion Barely Escapes Similar Fate. Body Is Recovered.

An accident which snuffed out the life of one of Sleepy Eye's good citizens occurred shortly after 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon at the Cottonwood River near Corey's place and about a quarter mile west of the point where the Martil lad was drowned several weeks ago.

Joseph Ebenhoe, the victim of the accident and Jos. Brandl had decided to spend part of the afternoon fishing on the banks of the Cottonwood. County Treasurer Berg met them as they were going along in their auto. They stopped and chatted for about fifteen minutes and seemed in a most happy frame of mind. They evidently made for the Cottonwood at once where they were joined by Jos. Saekl and a man named Schmidt and commenced fishing.

They were just about ready to quit fishing when one of them suggested crossing the river once more which they proceeded to do. Brandl was doing the rowing and Ebenhoe was standing up in the back part of the boat. For some unknown reason the boat suddenly tipped and shipped water and was half full before it righted again. Before they realized what was happening, the boat sank and they were precipitated into the water and Ebenhoe sank out of sight.

Brandl immediately went to his rescue, catching hold of him as he came up. The drowning man grasped Brandl in such a manner that his rescuer could do nothing and they both went down together. Fearing for his own life Brandl managed to extricate himself from the drowning man's clutch and came to the surface. In the meantime Saekl who realized the danger the men were in, swam toward the place where Ebenhoe had gone down and had just reached the spot when some one shouted that the drowning man had again risen to the surface. Before he could turn about and reach for Ebenhoe, the unfortunate man once more sank out of sight and did not come up again.

The river at this point is quite deep, the current very swift and the water was icy cold. Ebenhoe was wearing heavy boots at the time of the accident and it is surmised that they filled with water and that this circumstance more than any other prevented his rescue and caused him to go down.

His companions secured grappling hooks and about an hour later the body was found. When recovered, life was extinct. Dr. G. F. Reineke who had been notified of the accident immediately after it happened, arrived on the scene shortly after the body had been taken out of the water. It was still limp and parts were yet warm, and the Doctor worked faithfully over the man for nearly an hour but without success. He says that with a pulmotor he might have brought the man back to life. As it was a certain case of accident, Coroner Reineke decided that it was not necessary to hold an inquest. The body was then taken home to Sleepy Eye to his grief-stricken family.

The deceased was but 26 years old. He was born in Bohemia, Austria and about 12 years ago he came to America and directly to this County. He was married at Sleepy Eye June 7, 1910 to Sophie Grausam who, with two small children mourn his untimely death. He is also survived by his brother John who lives at Sleepy Eye and a half-brother, George Martinka who resides in Texas. At the time of his death he owned and operated a blacksmith shop at Sleepy Eye. He was a hard-working, industrious man and hadn't an enemy in the world, being well-liked and highly respected by all citizens of his home town. The funeral will be held this (Wednesday) morning from the Catholic Church at Sleepy Eye.

Mrs. Cyril Walrath has joined her husband and the young couple are making their home in the Baxter cottage at the corner of 1st North and State Streets.

William Roberts of Sleepy Eye, charged with carnal knowledge of a female child was bound over to await the action of the grand jury, as was George Marron of Springfield charged with arson in the first degree.

Only 23 civil cases were noticed for trial and at the preliminary call of the calendar, the following disposition was made of them:

The petit jury assemblies this morning at 11 o'clock and if there is no delay of any kind, the trial of the first jury case will be begun. Edwin Juni is on duty as deputy to the Clerk and Sheriff Julius has appointed Hans J. Knudsen of Sleepy Eye and Athanas Henle of New Ulm as bailiffs. Fred Prah of Mulligan is bailiff of the grand jury. Judge Olsen is disqualified to sit in the case of Ella M. Hutchings, Administratrix of the estate of Chas. Hutchings, deceased vs. Sleepy Eye Telephone Co. and Gov. Eberhart has appointed Judge P. W. Morrison of Norwood to try the case. Albert Hauser and Alvin Berg of Sleepy Eye and A. Frederickson and Aug. G. Erickson of Springfield were the only attorneys from outside who were present when Court convened.

C. A. Patchin of Springfield was excused as a member of the grand jury on the ground that he is Superintendent of the public schools.

Meeting of Medical Society.

Thursday evening of this week the Medical Society of Brown and Redwood Counties will hold its regular semi-annual meeting at Loretto Hospital. Dinner will be served at 7:30 o'clock followed by the program. Dr. O. C. Strickler will speak on "The Significance of Abdominal Pain." Dr. L. A. Fritsche will also read a paper and there will be a general report and discussion of interesting cases.

The officers of the Society at present are Dr. J. L. Schoch, President and Dr. G. F. Reineke, Secretary and Treasurer. The Board of Censors consists of Dr. G. B. Weiser whose term expires at this time, Dr. J. W. B. Wellcome of Sleepy Eye and Dr. J. C. Rothenburg. New officers will be elected at this session. The Society at the present time has twenty-two members in good standing.

Later: The meeting has been postponed one week on account of the death of the Mother Superior.

Exhibits at Public Schools.

Friday was exhibit day at the public schools and in general the report shows a larger attendance of visitors than ever before since the inauguration of the annual exhibit and program. Interest in school matters seems to be keen just at present. The Seventh Grade room had so many visitors that not all could be accommodated. Fully two hundred parents and friends visited the Union Building, thirty or more attended the joint program given at the Washington Building, and the North Primary had seventeen visitors. The last record is a good one considering that there are but thirty pupils enrolled there. Another encouraging sign was the presence of a number of the fathers—and for the fathers it may be said that many of them have regularly looked over the exhibits which have been in the Review window all year.

At the East Primary an open air program with a May-pole drill was planned. The showers kept a number of the parents at home but about twenty were on hand and a good many others were able to view the drill from the shelter of their porches. The exhibits and programs as usual were very good.

Saxophones for Second Regiment Band.

Ferdinand Crone and J. A. Ochs constituted themselves a committee of two and solicited funds last week to purchase a set of saxophones for the Second Regiment Band. This is something the band should have had long ago to better enable them to furnish concert music. The saxophones are reed instruments and replace some of the brass instruments. The tone is much softer and therefore better suited to concert music. The set consists of four instruments which will cost about $450. The committee had no trouble to secure donations to the extent of $375 and turned over the list to the band boys Monday evening. Only a limited number of our citizens were seen by the committee and they simply quit when they thought they had enough money subscribed. It appears now that there is about $75.00 lacking which the band is perfectly willing to take out of their Treasury. They will, however, not refuse any further donations, and any one willing to subscribe to the saxophone fund can do so by leaving his mite with some member of the band.

Monument to be Dedicated.

The committee of the Junior Pioneers consisting of Herman Hein, J. A. Ochs, Henry J. Bastian and Athanas Henle, who were in charge of the work of erecting a suitable monument to honor the memory of the Milford residents who were killed during the Indian Massacre have completed their labors. The monument with tablet put in place is now complete and will be formally dedicated on Decoration Day at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. A short program has been prepared and a general invitation is extended to the public to attend.

"New Ulm High" Wins 4 Points

Track Team Makes Good Record at Northfield Inter-scholastic Meet.

Outrank Mankato, Winona, St. Cloud and St. Peter. Go To Manato Next.

Saturday, May 17, the New Ulm High School track team made its formal debut into the track circles of the state when the boys journeyed to Northfield and participated in the interscholastic track and field meet held under the auspices of Carleton College. The debut was not so successful as the more optimistic adherents of the lavender and white had hoped for the boys landed only four points in the meet. However, in view of the fact that fifteen schools were entered in the meet and that the winning team took only 18 1/2 points, the boys and their followers have no cause to feel downcast over the outcome of their first meet. Fritsche and Massopust were the winners for New Ulm, Massopust taking second in the discus throw and Fritsche landing third honors in the pole vault. Cordes placed in the 220 yard hurdle trials but, after running a game race in the finals, fell as he cleared the last hurdle.

The points were unusually divided in the meet and when the relay race, the last event of the day, started any one of three or four schools were in the running for the big silver "first place cup" with Faribault and Northfield a point or two in the lead. When these two relay teams were disqualified, first place went to Stillwater. Several good records were made and the pole vault and half mile records went by the board when Garney of Faribault shot over the bar at 10 ft. 3 1/2 inches and Cummins of Hector completed the two circuits of the quarter mile track in the splendid time of 2 min. 5 and 4 1/2 sec.

After the meet the visiting high school boys were royally banqueted in the big main hall of the Sayles Hill gymnasium and the cups and medals were awarded to the winners.

New Ulm will enter in the Southern Minnesota High School meet of Mankato next Saturday and, with hard work during the week, may hope to bring home more honors than from the Carleton Meet.

The fifteen schools entered scored as follows:

Stillwater, 18 1/2; Faribault, 18; Northfield, 17; Howard Lake, 14; Glen-coe, 8; Windom, 7 1/2; Hutchinson, 8; Hector, 5; New Ulm, 4; Grand Meadow, Mankato, St. Peter and Winona, 1 each. Annandale and St. Cloud failed to score.
