General Oscar Nelson came to New Ulm last Friday evening to spend a day with Mrs. Ida Bobleter whose son Allie Schorregge was his dearest comrade on the "Bennington" which was blown up in San Diego harbor ten years ago. General Nelson was on the boat at the time but escaped death and was able to rescue the body of his comrade. His affection for the man who lost his life made a warm welcome for him at the Vogel home where he remained until Sunday. Since the time of the destruction of the "Bennington" he has been traveling with the fleet all over the world but is now at his home in Minneapolis. Mr. Nelson said that before the explosion that wrecked the "Bennington" took place he had several times warned the government officials that the boilers were unsafe to carry the heavy load put upon them but no attention was paid to his advice. After the disaster when he and others were on trial for carelessness, a note book he had kept showing the notices of danger he had sent to the officials was all that saved him and his comrades from severe punishment. He also told of the repairing of the "Bennington" which cost $200,000 and its sale to Mexico for $17,000.00.

Stuebe, Sr. was the only representative of the New Ulm skat club. Jos. Eckert and Jos. Kosek of Gibbon were also in attendance.

How tragically the war shapes things for many of the German families appears from a letter which H. L. Runck of this city recently received from a niece at Wernersbergen. When the war broke out they had a family consisting of five industrious, brave sons, ranging in age from 21 to 30 years. All of these with the exception of the youngest one had to go to the front at once. The second oldest son, William was killed in North France on September 7th; Jacob the oldest was wounded in both legs on Sept. 30th, and lay for three full days and nights on the battlefield without food or drink. He was taken prisoner and sent to Bordeaux, France. From letters he wrote it appeared that he was convalescing. On Jan. 21st he wrote home a very encouraging letter and on the 24th, three days later, he died of heart failure. The niece writes further: "Under what poor circumstances we commenced 34 years ago and today when we are old and decrepit from work they come and take away our beloved ones. If I could only revenge myself I would gladly die. I can hardly write, my eyes are nearly blind from weeping. Our Robert is taking part in the severest battles and we only hope that he will be spared us. Henry who is post secretary came back four weeks ago as so many of the officials are not on duty. If we had known a year ago what a terrible war this would be we would have sold all our property at a sacrifice and come to America. Then our dear ones would still be alive."
