

DOESN'T TAKE LONG TO MAKE A SAMMY

a downstairs room, where many mustering officers worked behind a long table. They were asked a lot of personal questions about their health, past life, etc. Then they were marched across the company hall into a room full of doctors and clerks.

"Strip!" was the curt order. The doctors were giving preliminary medical examinations to three squads at a time, and there were no false motions.

Upstairs again for their suitcases, and they were ready for the march to the barracks to which they had been assigned.

Full-Fledged Soldiers

An hour after arriving at the camp they were full-fledged soldiers, completely established in their new life, and ready for supper and bed. Vaccination, taking finger prints, and a more careful medical examination follows.

Nurses Badly Needed.

We have been asked by the Red Cross organization to urge upon young women the opportunity of taking up the duties of a nurse. Students are at no expense for tuition, board, laundry, lodging, uniform, etc., and information about where to enroll for the training courses may be obtained from any Red Cross Chapter. Surgeon-General Gorgas is urging young women to begin the training courses to fit them for service at the front, or at least to take the places of nurses who go to the front, where 30,000 will be needed. "The need for nurses will not end with the declaration of peace," his department points out. "Therefore those who begin the course of training are assured of employment in the future as well as doing a patriotic service now. The number of new students in the schools throughout the country should be limited only by their facilities to teach and the clinical facilities of the hospitals."

Gen. Plummer Returns.

Gen. Plummer is again in full command at Camp Dodge, having returned last week from a three months' stay in France. A number of the members of his staff accompanied him. General Plummer is enthusiastic over conditions as he found them in France. The American army over there is in splendid form and eager to get into the fray. Gen. Plummer says that the American soldiers do not take kindly to trench warfare, the throwing of bombs and the like, but are anxious to run a foot race in the open, with the Huns for Berlin.

A Negro Soldier Gets Three Years

Because he left his post while on guard duty, Private Chapman, a negro soldier has been sentenced to three years' imprisonment at Fort Leavenworth and dishonorable discharge from the service.

Fire at Camp Dodge

The barracks occupied by Company U. of the ordnance corps, was discovered on fire at 3 o'clock the other morning while the men were all asleep. Fire broke out at the foot of the stairway where a big stove was on duty, and before the men had time to dress they were forced to jump twenty feet from windows to the frozen ground. Eight men were seriously injured from burns and injuries suffered in jumping from the windows. They are:

J. N. Hummel, Mason City, Ia., hands and ankles sprained.

L. L. Dutkiewics, Detroit, Mich., hands burned and back sprained.

L. J. Malnowski, Rockford, Ill., back seriously injured; may be broken.

Jeff Pashinsky, Rockford, Ill., head and face burned.

Fred Segerons, left leg broken and hands burned.

C. E. Lyman, hands and head burned.

J. S. Roach, ankle sprained.

The service records of these men was burned in the fire and it could not be learned where they enlisted. Others were more or less injured. All of the occupants lost their clothing and other valuables, some losing considerable money. About 100 men were in the building. The fire company was soon on the job and prevented the fire from spreading. The watchman is said to have been looking after a stove in the adjacent latrine when the fire broke out.

Company of Giants

Company K, Three Hundred Fiftieth infantry, are especially proud of their muster roll, for on it are the names of men who stand as giants in their stocking feet. Eighty men of this company wear number nine shirts, which are designated for men with a forty-nine inch chest measurement. It is almost a company of the Hercules type.

A Choctaw Indian Dies

Joe Williamson, a full blood Choctaw Indian, of Achille, Oklahoma, a member of the 42d infantry of the regular army, died last week from pneumonia at the base hospital. He came to Camp Dodge with his regiment from Salt Lake City, Utah, early in the autumn. He was a fine specimen of the Indian type, straight as an arrow, keen-eyed and as rugged as an oak. He was popular and a good soldier. His body was sent to his people in the Choctaw reservation in Oklahoma where interment was made after the ceremonies of the tribe to which he belonged. There are twenty Indians at Camp Dodge and they take hold of the work assigned them in a most creditable manner.

Three Filipinos Arrive

Leon Magisco, Candido Bicar and Guan Yatto, who are believed to be the only full-blooded Filipinos in the national army, arrived at Camp Dodge from Fort Riley, Kan. The men had enlisted voluntarily in Salt Lake City, Utah, about a week ago. They are members of Hospital Corps No. 11 and will be on duty at the base hospital. Bicar has been in this country seven years and his companions about one year. They speak and write English remarkably well and can also speak Hawaiian, Japanese and Spanish. There are 25,000 Filipino soldiers in this country ready to go across and lick the Kaiser, according to Magisco.

Singing is Popular

Song leaders are now being sent out to all the cantonments. Dean Holmes Cowper of Des Moines, was appointed camp song leader soon after the national army men came here. Now he is kept busy directing first one regiment, then the other, in their singing. Later it is probable all the regiments in camp will be assembled somewhere for one grand "sing." The other day Dean Cowper took 1,600 men of the Forty-second Infantry to the Liberty theater and coached them how to sing some of the popular patriotic songs in the most effective way. "Keep the Home Fires Burning," "Where Do We Go From Here," "There's a Long, Long Trail," and "Over there" are among the most popular numbers. The negro soldiers also have a song-master and when they get to warbling their plantation melodies the white folks within hearing distance "sit up and take notice."

Luggage Soldiers Are Allowed.

An official announcement from Washington gives the amount of luggage that soldiers will be allowed to take with them, as follows: Regulations for the personal baggage allowances of officers and men sent to France show that every effort compatible with comfort is being made to hold down weight and standardize its form and size. Officers above the grade of captain can have a baggage sufficient for extended field service, including professional books. Below majors the total weight must not exceed 250 pounds. The allowance for non-commissioned officers down to color sergeant is 100 pounds and enlisted men 75 pounds.

Jews Get Unleavened Bread.

During the Jewish passover observance unleavened bread will be furnished the soldiers of that faith. Officers have been instructed to ascertain the number of Jewish soldiers at the cantonment and this will enable the bakery department under Major Jack Fogarty to prepare the necessary amount. Jewish bakers will supervise the making of the bread. There is a large number of men of this religious faith at the camp. A club room is maintained for them in the city and also at the camp.

Slackers on Trial.

The eight men from St. Paul belonging to the Industrial Workers of the World who refuse to wear the uniform and obey the officers are on trial before a special court martial. An officer has been appointed to defend them and their plea will be that the effort to compel them to serve is in violation of their constitutional rights. The decision of the court, martial, whatever it may be, will be reviewed by the judge advocate general at Washington. While death is the extreme penalty for disobedience of orders, the charge brought against these men, there is little probability that any such sentence will be imposed, but on the contrary, there is every ground for the belief that they will get at least fifteen years prison sentence.

Strict Orders Against Kodaks.

The war department has issued a new set of rules governing the use of kodaks at the camp. No one is allowed to have one in his possession unless he has a permit from the proper authorities and even this special permit must come through the committee on public information, division of pictures, 10 Jackson place, Washington, D. C. Each application will give the home address of the applicant or his last place of permanent residence. This new ruling takes from the officers at Camp Dodge the authority they previously had of issuing permits.
