PRICES

From all indications prices are still advancing. It seems they are in the habit and just keep on going higher.

In some lines we are selling goods for less than we can replace them for.

On our recent visit to Market we were informed that unless something out of the ordinary happens, outing flannel next fall would have to sell for about 48c per yard. We have outing flannel on hand in either light or darks which we would like to clear out. This we will place on sale

Saturday and Monday only at per yard 24c

We also have on hand a lot of Ladies' and Children's coat sweaters which we will also place on sale these two days at a great reduction as we need the room they now occupy.

You will find the reduced price on the red tags attached to them.

There is a lot of cold weather coming and you can still get a lot of use out of them this season and then lay them away and save them until next winter and you will be already fixed for cold weather.

If you need canvas or Jersey gloves or mittens then look at our line. You will like the price, the quality and the fit.
