Peter Hofmeister, fifteen year old son of Capt. Jos. Hofmeister of this city has been awarded a diploma of merit from the Gilbert Engineering Institution which is located at New Haven, Connecticut. This diploma is one that is given for exceptional skill in using the erector toys put out by the Gilbert Company. Peter built an aeroplane which he had photographed and submitted the picture in a contest receiving the diploma as a result. The diploma states that it is awarded for "commendable efficiency and skill". Peter is the youngest of the boys who play in the Hofmeister Orchestra. He is a High School boy and outside of music and school work all his time is spent on engineering problems in which he is very much interested. His older brother Walter is interested in a similar line and wants to take up railroad engineering. A combination of mechanical efficiency and musical talent is somewhat unusual but it seems to be common to the Hofmeister boys and, no doubt, some of them will distinguish themselves as engineers of merit in construction work as they grow up.
