A romantic author—a haunted castle—a mysterious and beautiful lady—moonlight on the Danube and Eugene O'Brien in a new Selznick Picture. If you like romance, drama, —if you like the best there is in pictures—"A Fool and His Money" is the photoplay for you. George Barr McCutcheon wrote it. Selznick produced it, and Eugene O'Brien stars in it. In "A Fool and His Money" Eugene O'Brien has a new big role—and he's a better Eugene O'Brien than you've ever seen before. He is the "Fool" of the title, but he's the kind of a fool who gets three cheers from everybody. Be sure you see this picture at the Globe tonight. It's a REAL entertainment.

Not because he can ride like a whirlwind, shoot straight as an arrow nor make a lariat, do everything—but talk, has Harry Carey won his way into the affections of theatre-goers throughout the world. His hold on the public goes deeper than that. Not only is it because he is a gifted actor, or because of his irresistible smile, Carey's great popularity is due to the fact that he is human and knows nature. His ways are unaffected, his actings are real and his smile comes from the heart. Whether Carey plays the role of a hardened criminal or a persecuted hero, the audience is in sympathy with him at every turn. Harry Carey's thousands of "fan" letters daily cover the entire human race. School teachers and coverts, grandmothers and tots who have just mastered the art of writing, debutantes and shop girls—all have fallen victim to the spell of the Carey personality and the Carey smile. Did you see him in "Overland Red" or "Marked Men"? Then see him today at the Globe in another beautiful picture "Bullet Proof."

A large Selden truck loaded with scrap iron and automobile tires became stalled on Eastern Avenue just above the Post Office at about 7:30 o'clock last night and started to roll back down hill. The driver regained control of the machine and cramped it into the curb. He was perfectly at ease and said that about five gallons more of gasoline in the tank would enable it to make the hill. The incline was so steep and his gasoline supply so low that it did not feed to the carburetor.

Not Meant for Household Pets. If taken young the grizzly is easy enough to handle, for at birth he weighs only from 10 to 20 ounces and is about the size of a full-grown chipmunk. Later the bears run between 350 and 600 pounds in weight, although they have been known to reach 1,500 pounds. This, of course, makes the domestication of grizzlies by apartment house dwellers difficult.
