When the president-elect expressed a desire to consult with the "leading minds" on the league of nations question, some 19,786,293 people began to look expectantly for an invitation to Marion.

Some of the children of the people who used to attend spelling schools, are making their living writing bad spelling rube stuff for the newspapers.

The people who think that international peace is not a live issue, are the same ones who are growling about their federal taxes, 93 per cent of which go for war purposes.

The average man believes in reforming the revenue system by cutting down his own taxes.

Basil King's famous story "The Street Called Straight" is a classic of American Literature, and has been read by millions. As a screen presentation it is far more powerful and vivid. The tremendous clash of four strong wills leading to a problem, the wrecking of three lives for the salvage of one, is pictured with the vividness of a lightning bolt, the force and power of a thundering cataract. In "The Street Called Straight", Basil King has painted with the swift, sure strokes of the master hand, four fascinating characters, all endowed with conflicting ideals, which electrified into motive force precipitates a baffling situation that will grip you and enthrall you as never before, and penetrate the innermost depths of your heart. It is enacted by a brilliant cast including Naomi Childers and Milton Sills, and its a Goldwyn. If you care for the BEST in pictures see it at the Palace II to-day or tomorrow.

Miss Maude Smith of West Burke will make her home with her sister, Mrs. Frank E. Humphrey at No. 2 Main street and after Jan. 1 will take her old position in the Newport graded schools.
