Firemen Rescue Cat From Pole

Fighting spectacular fires, groping through smoke filled houses, scaling walls, etc., comes natural to the members of the St. Johnsbury Fire department—all of these things are in a day's work. But the rescuing of cats from the top of telephone or electric light poles is another proposition. And yet the fire laddies do not "fall down" on a job of this nature—they may waver temporarily—but they don't fall.

One day last week Mrs. Stephen C. Carpenter, whose home is at No. 38 Pearl street, became greatly distressed by the fact that her pet cat, drawn by curiosity probably, had mounted to a dizzy height on a telephone pole near the Carpenter residence. No amount of coaxing on the part of Mrs. Carpenter or F. A. Scott who happened to be passing at the time, could bring the cat down. Several times the animals started but became frightened and turned back.

Mr. Scott telephoned fire headquarters for help. Several firemen answered the call accompanying the firemen was "Cinders", a handsome little pun who makes his home at the fire station.

Upon arriving at the scene one of the fire boys started on the pole after the stranded cat. Tucking the terror-stricken feline safely under his arm he started the long descent. All went well until the street was but a few feet away—and then the ladder commenced to wobble. In an effort to balance himself—and the ladder, the rescuer allowed the cat to slip. The cat fell to the ground within a short distance of "Cinders". A merry chase ensued with the dog trailing. The cat was finally secured and returned to Mrs. Carpenter.

St. Patrick's Dinner at Grace M. E. Church

Good old St. Patrick was glorified at a dinner given Tuesday night in Grace Methodist church by Grace Unity Club. Symbolic streamers of green hung from the electrolers and the linen covered tables were most attractive with favors of shamrocks and green hats. Pretty waitresses in white, wearing green hats added to the decorative scheme. The decorations were the work of Mrs. E. W. Turner assisted by Mrs. Charles Darling, Mrs. Clifton Sanborn, and Mrs. John Chalmers.

Mrs. Guy W. Hill had charge of the dinner and the attractive menu was well planned and all details ably carried out by Mrs. Hill and her assistants, Mrs. Amos W. Scott, Mrs. Henry Marchessault, Mrs. M. M. Counsell, Mrs. Charles Goodall and Mrs. Kate Cowles. Mrs. Horace Anderson and Mrs. Oscar Cummings presided over a candy booth.

tending to give the state board of education more power than the original bill provided. It was favorably reported by 12 members of the committee on education and educational institutions and unfavorably by 11 members. Pending the question of adoption of the first amendment Mr. Darline of Chelsea offered as an amendment to the amendment, a substitute bill embodying the substance of all the amendments that the house might have before it the proposed bill in its entirety. It was then voted that the bill be ordered to lie and made a special order.
