THE ST. ALBANS GAME

Beginning as an apparently serious contest, the Newport-St. Albans melee soon degenerated into nothing more than a big joke at the expense of the St. Albans would-be ball tossers.

Connie Kirwan had his opponents swinging blind at his delectable float. Connie became tired of whiffing them, and his team mates all begged for a chance to display their wares on the slab.

Nelson Brown essayed to twirl, as did Brainy Bower in the ninth. Ginger Bruce played third base left handed and Fred Maloney went behind the bat, while Frank Ross played short. Benny Tryon came in from the outer garden to cover the initial sack. Everybody played in some other position.

Much horse play was injected into the fracas to the discomfiture of the St. Albans players, who were at an utter loss to cope with the slugging visitors. "Doc" Newton was hit hard by the Newport swatsmen.

The game became such a huge joke that the scorers were at loss to keep tabs on the movements of the ball players.

The score by innings: Newport 2 3 1 0 2 4 4 3 *-19 13 2 St. A 0 0 0 0 0 0 2 0-2 1 6

Red Cross Health Information

Few communities and localities are fortunate enough to be free from the mosquito, which announces his advent by his peculiarly unpleasant "song" with the opening of early summer and continues his career until far into the fall in many places.

Mosquitoes are disease spreaders and those maladies known to be carried by this insect are malaria, yellow fever, dengue fever, and filariasis. Breeding places, especially for the domestic mosquito, are in any small collection of water that may be present in tin cans, bottles, flowerpots, pools, gutters, sewers, etc. The malaria mosquito usually prefers the margins of ditches and lakes, swamps and low bottom lands.

All buildings in localities infested with mosquitoes should be screened. No water should be allowed to stand in containers around the house. The grass should be kept short so it will not serve as a hiding place for mosquitoes. Low places should be drained by ditches. Oil may be used as a measure to prevent breeding. It should be placed in a fine film over the surface of the water, a light oil best adapted for the purpose. It requires an ounce of oil for each 15 square feet of surface and must be renewed several times a month.

Itching and irritation from mosquito bites can be relieved by a lotion of carbolic acid. To make this lotion add a level tablespoon of boric acid powder and 20 drops of pure carbolic acid to a half pint of hot water. Stir well and shake until the boric acid is dissolved. Cool before using and apply by dabbing on with a wad of cotton or spraying on the surface with an atomizer.
