The Giteau Trial.

Washington, Nov. 28.—The criminal court was crowded this morning.

At 10 o'clock Mrs. Scoville resumed her testimony. She described Giteau's actions during his visit to her in 1878, and said she was then convinced that he was insane and should be put into an insane asylum.

Frequent objections were raised by counsel for prosecution to the character of questions propounded by Scoville, and a continuous discussion ensued between counsel upon the admission of certain evidence. At times some irritability was manifested. The witness does not understand the rules of evidence, gentlemen, said Scoville.

Yes, but you are supposed to, was the reply.

Witness was asked if she ever before had been on the stand and replied with emphasis, "No, and I am no lawyer, either."

Mrs. Scoville's testimony was concluded and the cross-examination was postponed to allow of Chicago, to testify, as he desired to leave to-day. This witness boarded with Scoville at the time of Giteau's visit in 1878, and made up his mind the prisoner was either a fool or crazy.

There was a brief interval before the next witness appeared and Giteau took the opportunity and broke in with, "I desire to tell all the crazy newspaper men that appear here as my own counsel. That is my right under the laws and constitution of America."

No effort was made to check Giteau and no notice of the interruption taken by the court.

GEO. D. BURROUGHS, of the Onida Community thought Giteau's marked characteristic was intense egotism.

JOHN W. GITEAU, brother of the prisoner, was next examined. He had not been on good terms with his brother for a number of years, but had no doubt of his sanity until he received some letters in October. Since he had come on here and seen him in the court house and jail he had become satisfied that he was insane. On being cross examined the witness admitted that before he had come to Washington he had always in talking of the case, said he believed his brother was responsible, but not sane. Responsible, because as so he thought at some periods of his life the prisoner had voluntarily surrendered himself to evil practices rather than good.

Giteau winced under these statements, evidently fearing that his brother's candor would injure the case, and with considerable bitterness interrupted: "My brother and I have not been on good terms for fifteen years. He always sympathized with my father on that Onida Community business, while Scoville and my sister sympathized with me. The only time I saw my brother in Boston we had angry words. So he does not come here to testify for me with the ordinary feeling a brother usually does come, and I am glad to find he has changed his views in my case. I want the public to understand about this." Giteau continued to interrupt the witness.

Once Judge Davidge attempted to stop him, but he waved his hand imperiously, saying, "You keep quiet Judge, if you please."

Shortly after the witness was asked, in connection with the incident he had related if he had at any time thought the prisoner insane.

Giteau quickly anticipated his reply by saying, "Why, of course; he has always thought I was badly cracked."

The witness said he never detected the slightest insanity in his father.

The court then took recess.

After recess the witness was questioned at some length as to the Giteau family and instances of alleged insanity in the family. He did not know of the insanity of an aunt and two nieces except by report.

On being asked by Scoville to explain what he meant by saying his brother was morally responsible and that he was under the influence of the devil, the witness explained a peculiar belief of his brother as to counter influences of Christ and the devil, which were being exercised upon mankind and that one or the other always gained the ascendancy. He agreed that his father believed that at some time his brother had thought his intense egotism and wilfulness subjugated himself to the influences of the devil and that being a free moral agent he was morally responsible to God for his crimes. That was his understanding in this case.

The prisoner here interrupted—"You've got that thing wrong, sir, my friend for me. It is very poor theology and a very poor position for you to take."

Witness—"Perhaps I have, but I don't think so."

MRS. SARAH W. Harker, of Chicago, widow of Giteau's cousin, testified to the fact of her husband's insanity and death in an insane asylum. She knew Giteau. He visited their house in Chicago in 1870 and she forbade him to visit the house again. He fell desperately in love with Davidge's 14-year old daughter.

Davidge—"A very common form of insanity."

Witness thought Giteau insane as did her daughter.

Giteau—"They were very poor and I used to go there and give them money and they seemed very grateful to me. In that way I became interested in the daughter, but she was altogether too young for me."

FERNANDO W. JONES, of Chicago, boarded at the same boarding house in that city with the prisoner in 1870 and formed the opinion that he was of unsound mind. Witness made a representation to court officers as to Giteau's mental condition, which he supposed secured his release at the time he was imprisoned for failure to return money which he had collected for a client.

Quite a stir followed the announcement by Scoville that the prisoner would now be sworn.

GITEAU TOOK THE STAND. He glanced behind him somewhat nervously and requested the officers to stand close to him. Marshal Henry and deputy sheriff Harker stood between Giteau and the crowd of men who filled the small standing room between Giteau and the door. Apparently reassured Giteau took the oath and seating himself said to Judge Cox:

"I presume it is understood, Judge, that I do not appear here as a regular witness, but simply to identify some letters." The letters were then handed to Giteau by Scoville and identified. The court then adjourned.

NATIONAL CAPITAL NEWS.

SPEAKERSHIP SPECULATIONS. Washington, November 28.—The speakership fight opened in dead earnest to-day, but not over half of the Republican members are here and the candidates are unwilling to give estimates of their strength. Keifer says he doesn't believe he will have more than 100 votes either candidate will get. It is claimed that Robinson, of Massachusetts, is pressing to the front with some show of success, having no antagonism. Those who have waged an active or aggressive canvass are so numerous that many predict dark horses. As those forced out of the fight won't give their support to their opponents. There are sixty-nine Republican members from the West, three from the Pacific Coast, sixty-five from the East and nine from the South. Those nine from the South would give the East seventy-five, precisely the number necessary to nominate a Republican member from the West, three from the Pacific Coast, sixty-five from the East and nine from the South. San Francisco, Nov. 28.—The Bulletin publishes an interview with W. T. Babcock, one of the directors of the Pacific Coast Steamship company. He says without reserve that Goodall, Perkins & Co. have sold a controlling interest in the company to Henry Villard. This action was taken without consulting the board of directors, who were in ignorance of it until last Wednesday. Peter Donahue, another stockholder, confirmed Babcock's statement and said further that the transfer included everything belonging to the company, including the San Luis Obispo & Santa Maria Railroad and a new steamer now building in the East.

What Office Will Filley Fill. New York, Nov. 28.—The Tribune's Washington special says the latest place for which Chauncey L. Filley has been mentioned is the Land Commissionership of the Union Pacific Railway. Mr. Filley is here interested in securing a Cabinet position and said on being inquired of as to the talk about the U. P. position that it was news to him. To his intimate friends, however, he speaks with confidence of being made Postmaster-General.

Society of the Red Cross. New York, Nov. 28.—General Sheridan has written Miss Barton, American representative of the Society of the Red Cross in favor of Congressional recognition of the Society in accordance with the terms of the international convention of the leading European powers at Geneva. The chief object of the society is the amelioration of the sufferings of the sick and wounded in the armies during war.

In the Interest of Honesty. Quebec, Nov. 25.—The joint letter of the Bishops adopted in 1876, condemning of bribery, perjury and other abuses prevalent in times of elections and exporting of elector's votes according to their consciences, was read yesterday from the pulpits of all Catholic parishes in the province.

Leather Firm Failed. Lynn, Mass., November 28.—Proctor & Ingalls, a leather concern, have failed. Their liabilities are estimated from $50,000 to $60,000. Their assets are considered quite large, that of them being in stock.

$1,500,000 is all They Need. Boston, November 28.—A million and a half beneficiaries will allow the Pacific Bank to resume. The directors hope to raise a million and to realize the half million on the week's securities.

An Old Offender. Boston, Nov. 28.—Langdon W. Moore, who served six years for burglary, was today sentenced to seven years more for burglarizing the Warren bank, at Charleston, in 1870. He is 59 years old.

Cablegrams.

London, Nov. 28.—Hanibal Hamlin, the new United States minister to Spain has arrived in Paris accompanied by the daughter of Secretary Blaine.

Arrived, the Republic. Hon. S. S. Cox is a passenger and a number of political friends have gone down the bay to welcome him.

COWARDLY OUTRAGE. Cork, Nov. 28.—A party of armed men recently entered the house of a woman named Henane, near Listowell, County Kerry, for the purpose of shooting her because she had given information to the police. The children, seven themselves on their mother in terror, and one of them received a charge in the legs. The party then left, after making the mother swear on penalty of death not to divulge the occurrence and six persons have been arrested in suspicion of being concerned in the outrage.

REMOVED FOR TREACHERY. St. Petersburg, Nov. 28.—A great stir was made in Nihilist circles by the following discovery: About a year ago a Jew named Gg was denounced by some person who had a private score to settle with him and was arrested. After he had been asked a few questions it became clear that he was one of the chief members of the Central Revolutionary committee. He made a clean breast of it and denounced over sixty of his accomplices, and took the police to his laboratory on the banks of the Neva where six men were captured in the very act of manufacturing dynamite. A large supply of explosives were found in the laboratory. As a result of this treachery several persons were sentenced and two men hanged on October 8th. A few days afterward the authorities announced the death of Gg, the body, horribly mutilated and disfigured, was handed over to some Jewish friends of the dead man and buried in Isaac cemetery. The affair made a great sensation at the time. It was believed Gg had been murdered in prison either by the authorities or by some avenging Nihilists. When the body reached the Jewish burying ground the Rabbi refused to receive it. Without a certificate of identity. One of six gendarmes who had escorted the body, went back to the fortress and presently returned with a death certificate filled up with Gg's name and apparently genuine. The Rabbi was convinced by that that the corpse was really that of the Jew and the funeral was allowed to take place.

ASTONISHING REVELATIONS. Astonishing revelations were made to the Russian police recently. Numerous arrests have been made in consequence and a certain number of officers and his successor Kislow, were evidently operating. A set of Nihilists are at work to find out the man who was proving so destructive to them.

CHARITABLE CROKE. Dublin, Nov. 28.—Archbishop Croke, of Cassel, and Rev. Mr. Cantwell have both subscribed to the National fund in aid of the National fund for the support of imprisoned "suspects."

MAN OF WAR WITHDRAWN. The man of war Minotaur, of the channel squadron, will be withdrawn from the Irish coast and the men paid off.

MRS. MINISTER MORTON INDISPOSED. Paris, Nov. 28.—The Soire says Mrs. Morton, the wife of the American Minister, is indisposed, and by the advice of her daughters will go with Mr. Morton to pass December at Cannes, where they will meet ex-President McMahon.

Another Busted Bank. Halifax, N. S., November 28.—The Bank of Prince Edwards Island has suspended largely owing to overdrawn accounts. Its affairs are said to be in a very bad condition and its liquidation has disappeared. The capital of the bank is $120,000 and its notes in circulation are $200,000.

Investigation shows that the Bank's unauthorised advances amount to $200,000. It is claimed that the liabilities of the public to the bank amount to $1,000,000. Investigation also shows that the last annual statement published in March was falsified. The bank paid 8 per cent. dividend last year.

Villard's Last Purchase. San Francisco, Nov. 28.—The Bulletin publishes an interview with W. T. Babcock, one of the directors of the Pacific Coast Steamship company. He says without reserve that Goodall, Perkins & Co. have sold a controlling interest in the company to Henry Villard. This action was taken without consulting the board of directors, who were in ignorance of it until last Wednesday. Peter Donahue, another stockholder, confirmed Babcock's statement and said further that the transfer included everything belonging to the company, including the San Luis Obispo & Santa Maria Railroad and a new steamer now building in the East.

Wayfarers Murdered. Aberdeen, Miss., Nov. 28.—Four men with a wagon passed through here stating they were from near the Alabama line and were going to Kansas. They camped three miles west of here, and Sunday morning persons passing by found them lying on a mattress covered with a quilt, with their heads split open as with an axe. There was no evidence of robbery visible.

Frightful Filicide. Chicago, Nov. 28.—A terrible tragedy is reported from Waterloo, Iowa. A widow named Miller, at Union township, killed two of her children, aged three months and three years. The tragedy was discovered accidentally Saturday by Mrs. Miller's brother who found her in bed with one dead child on each arm. She has been insane since her husband died, two weeks ago.

The Railroad Question. The Denver papers are trying to determine whether the completion of the D. & N. O. road to Trinidad will be beneficial to Denver or injurious. We clip the following item from the Denver Republican:

The Tribune still sticks to the absurd opinion that the opening of the Denver & New Orleans railway to Trinidad will not help the trade of Denver, because, "the Boston corporation would make no arrangement by which it would lose the freight on its business between Trinidad and Kansas City." It puzzles public would like to know who made the Tribune the spokesman of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe company, and also how that company could control shippers and dealers along its lines who would prefer to trade with Denver instead of Kansas City? The role of prophet is not an easy one to play, and we would advise our too previous contemporary to wait till the Denver & New Orleans road has reached Trinidad before settling the question of its value to this city. That road will soon be built, and our good neighbor may yet be astonished to discover that people along the New Mexico extension of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe, will come to Denver to buy and sell, because it will be their nearest and best market. They will not go to Kansas City for the sake of giving any railway "a long haul," and they will patronize the road between Denver and Trinidad, or between Denver and Pueblo, that offers them the most favorable rates on traffic. If the Tribune desires to extend the trade of Denver why does it make constant war on a railway which is being built now at the rate of a mile and a half per day, and which will shortly open a vast new field to our merchants and manufacturers.

An Essay on Man. Man was made in dry weather. He was made of dust. Quite a number have never recovered from their creation; they are still dry. It's man's nature to be discontented. Adam had a monopoly but he could not be happy without some one to crow over.

For a while he kicked around over the Garden of Eden and then went to the house, but he had to cook his own supper; there was no stove wood chopped and things were in a bad shape generally.

The next morning it was the same way. He had to make his own bed and sweep out. His socks were dirty, and his arm would run through a hole in his sleeve. So he was dissatisfied.

The night when he went to sleep the Creator punished him by making one of his ribs into a woman—a great misfortune to the race.

It has been six thousand years since that rib was lost, and yet man continues feeling for it.

Pursuit in this case is said to be sweeter than possession. After Eve got acquainted with her mate she scooped that all the men in the world were not worth Adam.

Goliath was a man. He was bigger than old Grant, but he couldn't stand as many slings.

A top is a male who is ashamed of his sex, and attempts to conceal the fact that he is a man.

Concealment in such cases is attended with but little trouble. It is only necessary to part his hair in the middle.

The family man resembles the oyster on the half shell. The shell is known at home—the soft side abroad.

Some men carry this resemblance in their faces. A great many men have countenances like oysters.

Job is said to have been a very patient man. He had boils over him.

Men now boil all over themselves when the preacher reaches "thirtiethly" on a hot summer day, and never think of the grandeur of Job's example.

It is natural for a man to disregard a good example.

The Denver Tribune of the 26th closes a long editorial with the remark, "In some way and somehow, Denver must get into New Mexico." This seems to be the only clearly defined idea that it has on the subject, however. It don't want the New Orleans road to come to New Mexico. It says so and argues against it. It supposes that it might be practicable for a third rail on the D. & R. G. to reach New Mexico trade. If Denver wants New Mexico trade she must come closer than Trinidad for it and she must come with a road of her own, untrammelled and uncontrolled by other lines. She must have a road that can compete with Eastern lines running into the Territory. Such a road is the New Orleans. Extend it through Trinidad and Las Vegas and thence on to Fort Worth and it will not necessarily depend on local traffic to sustain it, but the through business from the Gulf will be a large source of revenue. Denver can thus enter New Mexico with a better chance than Kansas City and can put down freight on its own road to such a degree as will command business. She must have a road on which a square fight for New Mexico trade can be made with low rates, or she must give it up as beyond her reach. A high rate road will never bring Denver business. It must be lower freight rates than Eastern lines can afford to capture trade from Kansas City. The New Orleans road with Gulf connections can afford cheap local rates; no other road from Denver can.

Scaled Proposals. Will be received at the office of Charles Wheelock, architect, up to Tuesday evening, November 29th, for plastering the Las Vegas academy. The right is reserved to reject any or all bids. 11-29-1f
